WAVE OF REVOLT OVER BELGIUM

Militia at Brussels, Antwerp, and Other Places Make Common Cause with the Mobs.

MANY KILLED OR WOUNDED

GREAT DAMAGE IN CAPITAL

BRUSSELS, June 4.—Belgium is in a state of eruption on account of the recent elections, and rioting throughout the country has taken on a revolutionary character.

Many persons have been killed or wounded in various cities, and a large number of reserves have been called to the colors.

The agitation in the industrial centres is rapidly increasing. Every hour brings news of fresh protests by the laboring classes against the Government victories in the elections.

The conservative elements are considerably alarmed over the tendency of the Civic Guard, which corresponds to the American militia, to make common cause with the rioters. This, however, is only in isolated instances, Brussels and Antwerp being cases in point. In this city the guards to-day held a sympathetic celebration before the monument to Francisco Ferrer, the Spanish Anarchist.

The national disorders generally are attributed to the acute disappointment of the laboring classes over the pronounced victory of the Clericals in the recent elections. The Socialists allied themselves with the Liberals on the public school question in opposition to the Government's policy, hoping thereby to win a majority of the seats in the Chamber of Deputies. Their failure to do so caused a wave of anger to sweep over the country. The new Chamber will contain 101 Clericals, 44 Liberals, 39 Socialists, and 2 Democrats, or a Clerical majority of 16 over the opposition coalition. There are a number of new seats this year, of which the Socialists captured four, though most of them went to the Clericals.

The latest reports from the provinces show that the strike has spread over the entire Liège basin and has tied up most of the collieries and the big metal industry. In the centre of Belgium many industrial proprietors seem to approve of the strike and to sympathize with the men.

The women have aroused themselves to even greater frenzy than the men in the disorders, which are particularly anti-Clerical in character.

Walloons Want to Join France.

Among the favorite cries of the manifestants are those demanding the administrative separation of the Flemish and the Walloon Provinces. Some of the newspapers report a growing sentiment among the working classes in the Walloon districts of the southeast in favor of the annexation of their provinces to France. In all the collieries of the southeast the Flemish workmen have been boycotted by the Walloons, and hundreds of them have already left the provinces.

The street car employes have struck at La Louvière, and the municipal employes at Seraing.

Liège to-night has the appearance of a besieged city. Two regiments are under arms, besides police, the Civic Guard, and gendarmes. Several clashes occurred to-day between rioters and troops. Shots were exchanged, but a heavy downpour of rain drove the manifestants home. Lancers met and dispersed a column of miners from the neighboring collieries, who were trying to enter the city.

Havoc by Mob in Brussels.

In Brussels a mob to-night made a rapid tour of the city, wrecking street cars, smashing windows, and doing all manner of damage. The rioters broke in the doors of the Church of St. John and St. Nicholas, and, entering, demolished the Tabernacle. They then set fire to the doors. Next they tried to force an entry into the monastery of the Artois Fathers, and, arriving at the Anderlecht quarter, wrecked a café and attempted to storm a convent, but were effectually dispersed by firemen with streams from the hose.

A column of several thousand strikers left La Louvière for the nearby collieries this evening to induce the miners to join the movement. The strikers were hotly pursued by mounted gendarmes, and three hundred soldiers have been dispatched from Charleroi for La Louvière, where serious rioting was feared to-night.

At Bruges gendarmes fired on a mob, wounding fifty of the rioters, several of them mortally. The gendarmes were assailed with bottles, bricks, and pieces of furniture from hundreds of windows.

In addition to the trouble at Liège and at Verviers, where gendarmes fired upon a crowd, killing or wounding over fifty persons, among whom were two children, there was less serious rioting yesterday and last night at Bruges, Tournai, Ghent, Louvain, Antwerp, and this city. A number of Jesuit colleges and Catholic institutes were attacked by mobs, the windows of the buildings being smashed. The gendarmes charged the rioters with broadswords.

Antwerp Militia and Rioters.

At Antwerp one battalion of scouts and a section of artillery of the Civil Guard joined the manifestants. They rebelled against the police authority and vented their feelings in demolishing windows.

At Liège enormous damage was done by the rioters last night. To-day the streets in the centre of the city were piled high with débris from broken tables, chairs, beams, planks, and stones, which were the arms used by the mob in the attacks upon the police and gendarmes.

WIRELESS TELEPHONE FEAT.

"Marseillaise," It Is Said, Distinctly Heard 480 Miles Away.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, June 5.—The Paris correspondent of The Daily News says:

"Remarkable experiments in wireless telephony are said to be proceeding at Toulon on board the yacht Hirondelle, belonging to Prince Albert of Monaco.

"By means of an apparatus invented by M. de Lepel, the 'Marseillaise,' played at Algiers, was registered and definitely heard aboard the Hirondelle.

"The application of the discovery, which is said to consist in registering sounds instead of merely conventional signs, will prevent, it is claimed, the interception of messages and lead to the simplification of the transmitting and receiving apparatus.

"The opinions of two French scientists, MM. Branley and Vivian, were sought by La Liberté. M. Branley, one of the discoverers of wireless telegraphy, declined to offer an opinion, on the ground that he knows nothing about M. de Lepel's apparatus or of the inventor himself. M. Vivian of the Marconi Company declares that similar experiments have already been carried out at a distance of 250 miles by two French officers, Jance and Colin."

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 4.—Foulke E. Brandt is again in Clinton Prison at Dannemora. William A. McCabe, confidential agent of Superintendent of Prisons Scott, who left New York with Brandt this morning, reached Dannemora with his charge at about 7:30 o'clock to-night. Brandt was placed at once in the cell he occupied previously. He had nothing to say in regard to his case.

After enjoying a few weeks of liberty under a writ of habeas corpus granted by Justice Gerard in the Supreme Court and then spending several weeks in the Tombs after Justice Gerard's order had been reversed by the Appellate Division, Foulke E. Brandt, the former servant of Mortimer L. Schiff, was taken from the Tombs yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. Brandt has put on twenty pounds since his temporary release from Dannemora, and he was dressed yesterday in a neat black suit of fashionable cut.

William A. McCabe, confidential agent of Superintendent of Prisons Scott, arrived at the Tombs at 7:30 and immediately went to Brandt's cell. He snapped a handcuff on Brandt's left hand, and then snapped the other steel band on his right hand. Brandt then picked up a suit case, and, after bidding good-bye to several of the prisoners near him, started on his journey back to Dannemora.

As he left the Tombs a small group of men standing outside bade him good-bye and wished him good luck. McCabe and his prisoner jumped into a taxicab which was waiting for them outside and were rushed to Grand Central Station, where they arrived just in time to catch the 8:45 train for Dannemora.

Before entering the taxicab Brandt said:

"I know that the Court of Appeals will decide justly on my case. I would much rather go back to Dannemora and wait there than stay here in New York and have this uncertainty pressing upon me."

Brandt's appeal was to be argued to-day, but District Attorney Whitman said last night that he had just received word from Brandt's attorney, Mirabeau L. Towns, who says that it will be impossible for him to argue the appeal until Thursday. It will undoubtedly be several weeks and possibly months before any decision is reached by the Court of Appeals.

SEES DEATH, DIES OF SHOCK.

Convalescent Collapses When Boy Is Killed Before His Eyes.

While crossing Park Avenue at 179th Street yesterday Henry Mangelli, 12 years old, was run down by a department store automobile and killed. Henry Logan, who had been ill of pneumonia and was convalescing, was sitting at the window of his home, 446 East 179th Street, and saw the boy run in front of the automobile and the car run over him. Greatly excited he ran through the flat to a rear room where his wife was.

"A boy has just been killed!" he said to her. He collapsed on his way to the front room and his wife carried him to the bed.

Meanwhile Alfred Olsen, the driver of the auto, carried the boy to the sidewalk. Dr. Forman of Fordham Hospital arrived. He said young Mangelli was dead. He had just dropped the boy's wrist, finding the pulse still, when a man rushed up and told him he was wanted in the house across the street.

The doctor went to the Logan flat and found Henry Logan dead. While he was there Dr. C. A. Frink arrived. He said he had been treating Logan who had been recovering. The shock of seeing the accident had killed him.

Logan was manager of a cafe at 800 Seventh Avenue. Henry Mangelli lived at 2,415 Arthur Avenue.

Meningitis Develops After Nose Operation in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4. — Senator George S. Nixon of Nevada, who has been ill at the Episcopal Ear, Eye and Throat Hospital since last Thursday, grew rapidly worse last night and is not expected to recover. He was operated upon on Thursday for an abscess in the nose that has troubled him for a long time, and following the operation he developed cerebro-spinal meningitis. He began rapidly to grow worse last night and to-day was unconscious. At 11 o'clock to-night his condition was reported unchanged.

The Senator's family has been summoned from Reno, and specialists from Baltimore have been in consultation. Dr. W. B. Mason, who is in immediate charge, said this afternoon that there was little hope of recovery. The type of meningitis from which the Senator is suffering, he says, is not contagious. The opinion is expressed that the abscess had been allowed to stand too long before relief was sought from the surgeon's knife.

BEACH INDICTED FOR ATTACK ON HIS WIFE

South Carolina Grand Jury Returns a True Bill Against Wealthy New Yorker.

CHARGES ATTEMPT TO KILL

Will Be Tried at September Term of Court—Many Witnesses Examined—Others to be Heard.

Special to The New York Times.

AIKEN, S. C., June 4.—After deliberating four and a half hours, the Grand Jury this afternoon returned a true bill against Frederick O. Beach of New York, charged with assault and battery with attempt to kill his wife Mrs. Camilla Havemeyer Beach last February when the Beaches were occupying their Winter home here.

None of the New York witnesses was present nor was Detective Baughn, who investigated the case for the city, but his brief, covering every detail of his three weeks' inquiry, was read by the jurors.

When Public Solicitor Gunter placed the case in the hands of the Grand Jury he told that body that in addition to the witnesses he would place at their disposal there were a number of other persons at present not in Aiken, and he instructed the jurors that if they could not return a true bill from the evidence which would be laid before them not to make a report on the matter at all until the next term of court, when all witnesses would be here.

The solicitor also requested Judge Rice who is presiding at the June term of General Sessions Court, to excuse from service any of the jurors who had formed or expressed an opinion regarding Mr. Beach's guilt or innocence, it having been freely reported that there are two or three on the panel who had declared that they never expected the case to come to trial. It was known that at least one or two had not been in sympathy with the proceedings against Mr. Beach.

Judge Rice instructed the foreman of the Grand Jury that if twelve of the jurors could not agree from the evidence laid before them there was enough in the Beach case to warrant it going before a petit jury and that he would excuse such men who had formed or expressed an opinion.

The case went to the Grand Jury at noon and before 5 o'clock the true bill was returned. Mr. Beach will be tried at the September term of court. The witnesses appearing before the Grand Jury this afternoon were: S. E. Holley, a rural policeman who was the first officer to reach the Beach home the night Mrs. Beach was attacked; Dr. Wyman, who first examined Mr. Beach's blood-stained pocketknife; Dr. Marion Wyman, the first physician to reach the Beach home that night in February; Mayor Gayles, Pearl Hampton, the negro woman who was also attacked on the Beach premises, presumably by the same man who attacked Mrs. Beach; Chief of Police H. H. Howard, who conducted an investigation; Policeman H. A. Busch, A. K. Lorenz and W. C. Hyer.

The fact that a true bill has been returned against Mr. Beach makes it certain that the case will be followed up until a jury of Aiken County citizens declares the New York man innocent or guilty of slashing his wife's throat.

Mrs. Beach was formerly Miss Camilla Woodward Moss, daughter of Courtlandt D. Moss. Her first husband was Charles D. Havemeyer. He was found by her on May 10, 1898, in a room of his country home at Roslyn, dead with a bullet wound in his head. A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

On Nov. 18, 1899, Mrs. Havemeyer married Frederick O. Beach. William K. Vanderbilt was his best man. The Beaches were prominent in New York social circles and at Palm Beach and at Aiken, where there are colonies of wealthy New Yorkers in the Winter season.

The first report of the attack on Mrs. Beach, which was committed on the night of Feb. 26 last, declared that she had been decoyed to the front of her house at Aiken by a supposed message from the family of Joseph Harriman. She was then knocked down by a man who used a fence paling, and her throat was slashed with a knife so badly that nine stitches had to be taken in it. Her earrings were also torn from her ears. Mrs. Beach declared that her assailant was a negro. Her earrings were found later near the house.

The day after the assault the City Council of Aiken offered a reward of $1,500 for the arrest of her assailant. In a few days another reward of $500 was offered by C. Oliver Iselin, a leader of the Northern colony in Aiken, who also wrote a letter to Mayor Gyles, expressing hope that he (Mr. Iselin) might be a member of a lynching party to punish those who circulated stories that Mr. Beach knew more about the assault than had been made public. Clarence W. Dolan, another member of the Northern colony, added $500 more to the reward.

The Beaches left Aiken together in the middle of March for a trip abroad as the guests of W. K. Vanderbilt. On April 8 a warrant for Mr. Beach's arrest, charging him with assault on his wife with attempt to kill her, was signed by an Aiken magistrate. It was declared that a gold-plated, diamond-studded penknife, which had been given to Mr. Beach by Mayor Gyles a fortnight before the assault, had been found near the house, and that one of its blades was stained with blood. A detective was also reported to have overheard conversations between Mr. and Mrs. Beach after the assault while hidden behind a bookcase in their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Beach were in London when the news of the warrant for his arrest was cabled abroad. They hurried to Paris. From Paris Mr. Beach cabled to his attorney in Aiken to furnish a bond for his appearance to answer the accusation. Simultaneously Detective W. S. Baughn, who had been engaged by the Aiken authorities, issued a statement that Pearl Hampton, a negro maid in the Beach household, who had been stunned by the fence paling before Mrs. Beach was attacked, had made a statement that her assailant was a white man. Detective Baughn declared that he could show that Mr. Beach's motive in attacking his wife was jealousy, inspired by something he saw before the attack.

A statement issued on behalf of Mr. Beach declared that the blood on his clothing was explained by the fact that he had gone to his wife's assistance and had picked her bleeding form from the ground, clasped it in his arms, and carried it into the house after the assault.

BACON BROKE A RIB, TOO,

WESTBURY, N. Y., June 4.—When Robert Bacon, former Ambassador to France, was thrown from his pony in a polo game on Sunday on J. S. Phipps's estate here a hasty examination showed that his right collarbone was broken. This evening it was learned that in addition he had broken one of his ribs. The accident will keep him out of the game for at least two months.

While Mr. Bacon has rarely played in tournament, he often plays in informal matches, and has a large stable on his estate here.

ARKANSAS STRIKES REEF ON TRIAL TRIP

CONTINUES DESPITE DAMAGE

Accident Regarded as Showing That the Titanic Would Not Have Sunk If Similarly Protected.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—When the Naval Inspection Board arrived at Rockland, Me., last night to conduct the official trial of the big battleship Arkansas they found that when passing through Two Bush Channel entrance to Penobscot on Sunday afternoon the Arkansas had touched the bottom.

Capt. Fechteler, President of the Trial Board, reported to the Navy Department to-day that the ship struck rocks about one-quarter of the way back from the bow on the left-hand side, just under the turn of the bilge, and again close to the keel. She bounced along on this reef for a distance of 44 feet, most of the way just below the forward boiler rooms. At that point the ship's structure is divided into a great number of small compartments which extend only half way across the bottom of the ship, and which are supposed to be filled with oil in some cases and in others with spare fresh water for the boilers.

The value of the naval system of subdivision of the hull into a large number of small compartments is believed to have been demonstrated by the accident, for the blow to the Arkansas is thought to have been just such a clip as the heel of the iceberg inflicted upon the bottom of the ill-fated Titanic.

At the point where the Titanic was struck there were no inner compartments, not even coal bunkers, but only the thin skin of the ship. Naval constructors say to-day that had the Arkansas not been sub-divided doubtless she would have gone to the bottom also. The Arkansas was able to go out again to-day to finish her trial with these eight compartments probably full of water, leaving the damage to be repaired later on, unless it is discovered that the ship's lines have been so distorted as to reduce her speed below the point of acceptance.

The Arkansas has not been turned over to the Government by the New York Shipbuilding Company of Camden, whose employes were in charge of the vessel when she struck. Therefore the company will make good the damage, and the repairs will probably take about a month.

ROCKLAND, Me., June 4.—In spite of the fact that she ran on an uncharted reef and injured her outer hull while on her way into this harbor Sunday afternoon, the new battleship Arkansas was able to meet all requirements in her speed trials to-day, and was prevented from completing the day's programme only by darkness.

In the course of the day's trials the Arkansas met with a second accident—an interior one, which necessitated the cutting out of the low-pressure turbines. Officials declared the accident not to be of a serious nature. It was explained that in the course of one of the ship's sixteen-knot runs the turbine began to "squeal," an indication that all was not right, and immediately the engine was cut out.

Officials on board the Arkansas were disinclined to talk of the accident of Sunday when the ship anchored in the harbor to-night. They admitted that the vessel struck a reef about 5 o'clock on that afternoon while proceeding about 13 knots an hour. The vessel struck forward under the first engine room, denting the outer bottom, composed of three-quarter inch steel, for a distance of nearly 50 feet, and shearing off scores of rivets. The vessel listed for a few minutes, but soon righted itself, and she proceeded to anchor without stopping for an examination. It was admitted to-night that the pumps were started, but that this was done only to empty the compartments already filled with water, so that an examination might be made, not because of any serious leak.

Unofficial stories told by members of the crew and others who were aboard differ considerably. It is declared by many that the vessel is leaking badly and that the pumps are being worked constantly.

It is admitted by all that had the injury to the hull been a little higher up the accident would have been much more serious. The reef on which the ship struck is said by fishermen to be about 21 feet under water at low tide. The Arkansas draws 28½ feet, but at the time of the accident the tide was well up. Officials exonerate the pilot, Capt. Charles A. Blair of Bath, who was in charge at the time, of all blame, as the reef is uncharted and unprotected.

Officials stated to-night that the battleship in the regular course would go into drydock before being turned over to the Government, and that the accident of Sunday would not, in all probability, hasten the docking of her.

The Arkansas started off for her trials early this morning. She had made three runs about the course at 10 knots, three at 12 knots, and was just starting on her 16-knot runs when the accident to the turbine happened. After a delay of several hours the 16-knot runs were completed, and three each at 17½ and 19 knots were made. The engines developed 17,000 horse power, and, according to officials, everything was satisfactory. To-morrow the ship will go out upon the course again for three runs at the contract speed of 20½ knots and three at full speed.

Capt. Roy C. Smith, who is to command the Arkansas when she is put in commission, was on board to-day.

SOUTH DAKOTA'S VOTE.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., June 4.—Early returns from the South Dakota primaries give Roosevelt a lead over both Taft and La Follette.

Senator Gamble had a lead for Senator on the Republican ticket. Frank W. Birne led George W. Egan by 1,000 in the sixty-five precincts reporting on Republican candidate for Governor.

Eight out of 26 precincts in Gregory County give Taft 205; Roosevelt, 235; La Follette, 6.

Roosevelt delegates to Chicago were ahead in nearly all the Black Hill towns and precincts that had reported to 10:30 P. M. It is charged by the various factions that some Democrats voted the Republican ticket.

SEEK THE CHILDREN OF TITANIC VICTIM

John M. Smart's Son and Daughter at School in Europe, Ignorant of Father's Fate.

HE HAD JUST VISITED THEM

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 4.—Efforts are being made here to trace the whereabouts of the two children of John M. Smart of New York, who lost his life in the wreck of the Titanic. Since his death Mr. Smart's friends have been trying to find his family and straighten out his affairs, but this has been made extremely difficult by the fact that all his personal papers were lost with him.

When here, he told friends that he had his children with him in London, but it is certain that he did not have them on board the Titanic. It is surmised that they may be at some school in Europe, totally ignorant of their father's fate.

Advertisements inquiring for information have been inserted in papers all over Europe and Australia by a firm of New York lawyers, so far without result. It is understood that Mr. Smart was a widower.

Mr. Seward explained last night at his home at 542 West 112th Street why it was necessary for him to advertise in Europe for the missing children of his friend.

"You may think it strange, considering that I was with Mr. Smart aboard the Titanic, and was a member of the law firm representing the American Cold Storage and Shipping Company, of which he was President, that I should not know the whereabouts of his children.

"Yet that is the fact. I do not know whether they are in England or France or Italy or Spain. They may be in any of these lands or in some other land. I do not even know what the children look like. I cannot describe them or tell their names. The girl is 18 years old and the boy 20 years old. That is all I know about them except that abroad they were in custody of some friend of their mother. She died about ten years ago.

"The reason there are no records about the children in our office is that Mr. Smart always carried his personal papers in a trunk marked 'personal,' which he took with him wherever he went. He had this trunk aboard the Titanic, and it went down with the ship.

"Of his own personal affairs he was a most reticent man. He was amiable, and spoke of business affairs freely. We talked over business matters aboard the Titanic, but he never mentioned his children. I knew that shortly after his wife's death he sent the two children abroad, determined to give them a careful education in Europe. It was his plan to place them first in one country and then in another, so that they could learn the language of each.

"I presumed that Mr. Smart made his recent trip abroad to see his children. He made his home here at the Victoria Hotel, and he went abroad very early in the year. I went abroad some time later, and it was merely accidental that we happened to come home together on the Titanic."

The American Cold Storage and Shipping Company, of which Mr. Smart was President, had its offices in the Produce Exchange Building.

FIVE ROOSEVELT "DON'TS."

Anti-Third Term League Gives Reasons for Voting Against Him.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—Five reasons are given why Theodore Roosevelt should not be nominated in Chicago in an address to voters of the United States, signed by Judge R. E. Rombauer, Chairman of the Anti-Third Term Republican League. The appeal was prepared by Judge Rombauer upon instructions given at a meeting Saturday afternoon. There are thousands of signatures from all parts of the country. Among the reasons quoted are:

"Because most of us firmly believe that an upright, fearless, learned, independent and responsible Judiciary is the main safeguard of our liberties, and Theodore Roosevelt has done all in his power to lower the standard of the judiciary and to make its decisions dependent not on the law of the land, but on the shifting whim of the populace and his own sovereign will.

"Because we believe in the constitutional limitations which the wise framers of our Government have placed around the Executive power, and because Theodore Roosevelt in his addresses to the people has declared his intention of setting them at naught.

"Because, in his unprecedented canvass for the nomination he has dragged the highest office in the world into the mire and held it up to the ridicule of all civilized nations in language wholly unbefitting."

KILLED SON WHO QUIT WORK.

Koch Then Left His Wife and Daughter and Killed Himself.

Frederick Koch of 2,026 Bleecker Street, Glendale, Borough of Queens, killed his twenty-year-old son John yesterday and walked into another room and killed himself.

Koch got his son work yesterday in a lumber yard. The boy did not like the work and he came home. According to Mrs. Elizabeth Koch, the boy's mother, as soon as Koch heard his son had quit work he got his revolver and, coming into the dining room where his wife and their daughter were sitting, asked:

"Where is John?"

The son heard the question and entered the room, saying: "Here I am."

The father said nothing, but opened fire on the son. He fired three shots, two of which struck the boy, one severing his jugular vein.

The elder Koch turned as his son fell and went into another room. Before his wife could reach the doorway there was a shot, and when she entered the room her husband was dead. He had shot himself in the head.

ROBS FIRM OF $300,000.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, June 5.—The Times says that the Managing Directors of Messrs. Procter & Co., corn merchants and brokers of Liverpool, have issued a circular announcing that owing to the serious defalcations of one of the employes, the firm is unable to meet its liabilities.

It is reported in commercial circles in Liverpool that the defalcations amount to over $300,000.

TREASURE FOUND IN CHURCH.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 4.—In the course of repairs to the Church of Notre Dame at Mantes-sur-Seine, the architect noticed that workmen were using as a rain cover a beautiful old Persian tapestry-work carpet which they had found lying forgotten in a gallery.

The Louvre has offered $6,000 for the carpet.

GEN. BOOTH GIVES UP HOPE.

Salvation Army headquarters in West Fourteenth Street received yesterday a cablegram from Gen. William Booth, founder of the organization, addressed to all Salvationists in this country. This cablegram shows that Gen. Booth has abandoned all hope of saving his eyesight. He is 83 years old and was operated on at Guy's Hospital, London, on May 23 for cataract by Dr. Charles Higgens, the leading ophthalmic surgeon of the United Kingdom. A previous operation on his eyes had been performed in 1909.

SPEAKING OF THE HEAT!

It Isn't So Hot That the Senate Can't Have a Laugh.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—"There is one man in the country whose importance is such that when he dies the world is certain to resolve itself back into chaos and 'old night' and to melt with fervent heat," asserted Senator Reed of Missouri to-day, during a debate in the Senate.

"Is not the world more liable to melt with fervent heat while that man lives?" asked Senator Bacon.

H. W. BAKER SEEKS DIVORCE.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nevada, June 4.—Hiram W. Baker, head of the Baker Linen Company of New York City, has begun divorce proceedings against his wife, Ella M. Baker, charging desertion.

They were married in West Hoboken in 1888. Mrs. Baker of late years has been an invalid. Mr. Baker has been maintaining an office of his linen business here, but has not been active. It has been understood that his Eastern family and friends have not known of his presence here for a divorce. No contest is expected.

150 MILES OF CITY FENCE.

It Will Inclose the New Aqueduct from Ashokan Dam to Yonkers.

The State Board of Water Supply opened bids yesterday for the construction of what probably will be one of the longest wire fences in the world. The fence, which is to inclose the new Ashokan dam in the Catskills and the aqueduct property leading from it to the city, will be 150 miles long, or the distance from New York to Albany. The posts are to be of concrete, and stone walls will inclose the property through villages.

The estimated cost will be $300,000. Ten bids have been received, and it will take several days to tabulate them. Five hundred tons of wire and 400 tons of steel for reinforcing the posts will be used. The fence will end at Yonkers.

ADOPT HICHBORN'S SON.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—A legal document was signed to-day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Pearsall, whereby the latter adopt as their son five-year-old Philip Hichborn, 3d, a nephew of Mrs. Pearsall and only child of the late Philip Hichborn, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearsall have no children, and by the terms of to-day's contract will make their nephew their heir as well as have him assume their name. Shortly after the tragic death of the boy's father on March 27, Mrs. Philip H. Hichborn, grandmother of the child, was appointed his guardian by the same Judge who to-day authorized the adoption.

The residence of the boy's mother, who abandoned him in December, 1910, when she is alleged to have eloped to Europe with Horace Wylie of this city, is said in the petition to be unknown.

STORM PROLONGS HIS LIFE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 4.—A thunderstorm on Sunday morning prolonged the life of Walter Bixby, general manager and principal stockholder of the gas, electric light and street railway corporations of Springfield, Mo., according to his physicians. He is battling against death to-night at the Hotel La Salle.

Early Sunday morning Mr. Bixby's condition was extremely low, and his relatives and attendants were awaiting the end. The thunderstorm excited the patient a trifle, and his heart gained strength. He has continued to be in slightly improved condition since, but it is reported that the improvement cannot last.

OHIO STRONGLY INDORSES TAFT

VOTE IS 390 TO 362

HARDING WARNS THE RIOTERS

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 4.—President Taft and his Administration were indorsed by the State Republican Convention of his home State to-day and six delegates at large to the National Convention were selected under instructions to vote for him at all times and under all circumstances. The margin of votes that gained the victory over the Roosevelt forces was narrow but decisive, the vote on the resolution of indorsement being 393½ to 358½, and on the election of the delegates 390 to 362½.

Strong speeches lauding the President were made by Gen. J. Warren Keifer, Warren G. Harding, and other prominent leaders, and the outcome was a great victory for Taft's managers, who had to combat a strong Roosevelt organization, covering the State with unlimited financial backing.

Speaking of the result, Arthur I. Vorys, National Committeeman, said to-night to THE TIMES representative:

"The delegates to the convention to-day came from the same districts that elected the district delegates. The vote to-day for Taft will be regarded as reflecting the sober second thought of Ohio on his real qualities and will encourage his supporters in their uncompromising fight for his renomination. It will strengthen the doubting Thomases and cause even his opponents to pause and reflect over their unwarranted and outrageous attacks on the President."

L. C. Laylin, the Executive Chairman, said:

"The result to-day is very gratifying and a just and well-deserved tribute to the ability, distinguished statesmanship, and splendid Administration of President Taft. It will go as a message of confidence from the President's home State, and I confidently predict his nomination at Chicago."

The convention was boisterous and unruly throughout, Gen. Keifer and Harding being hissed in their attempts to speak for Taft, and their words drowned with hoots and derisive cries.

From the outset the President's strength was evident. In the report of the Credentials Committee, the first order of business, eleven State delegates were added to the Taft strength without a protest from the minority.

The test vote came, however, on the question of indorsing the President for re-election, and this started the uproar. When Gen. Keifer, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, went to the platform to read the report of the majority indorsing Taft the Taft delegates cheered and the Roosevelt delegates hissed. Keifer said his committee had agreed not to report a platform until the recess convention on July 2, but submitted a resolution reading:

Silenced by Roosevelt Hisses.

Taft delegates were on their feet at once and cheered for three minutes while the Roosevelt delegates indulged in hoots and hisses. Gen. Keifer tried to speak, but the pandemonium was so great that he was unable to proceed. Warren G. Harding stepped forth and begged the delegates to "Listen to Keifer, one of the grandest men in Ohio." But his voice was drowned by the riot. Chairman Burton and the Sergeant at Arms were helpless in their attempts to restore order.

Dr. Meade Massie of Ross County presented the minority report, which read:

"Whereas, The Republican of Ohio in the recent primaries refused to indorse Taft, we hereby indorse the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt for President."

Then the Roosevelt men stood and cheered. The band played, and the convention went wild. "Hurrah for Teddy!" they shouted. The cheering was renewed several times. Burton rapped for order, but the Roosevelt men cheered on.

A lively row followed when W. F. Brown, Chairman of the State Committee, took the platform and urged the acceptance of the minority report of the Committee on Resolutions. Morris Matschke of Cleveland and Albert A. Morrill, Chairman of the Hamilton County delegation, declared Brown was not a delegate. Amid loud cries and jeers of the delegates Chairman Burton said:

"Remember, gentlemen, this is a Republican convention; let us have fair play."

Brown finally made his request that the minority report be adopted and quiet was restored.

W. H. Boyd of Cuyahoga County was recognized. "What sort of fix would you be in if the Republicans at Chicago repudiated Taft?" said he. "Two years ago we indorsed Taft, and we went down to the tune of 100,000 in Ohio. It wasn't Warren Harding that caused that defeat. It was the Taft platform. We must not overlook the will of the people. I am here from a county which voted 2½ to 1 for Roosevelt. If it had gone for Taft by one I would have supported Taft in this convention. Remember what the people have said. Remember the people will indorse no candidate, no platform not inspired by by the music of the doctrines of Theodore Roosevelt."

Keifer renewed his effort to speak, but his remarks were caught only by those near him on the stage. He denied there had been any question submitted to the primaries as to the Administration of Taft. This was received with hisses.

"We are here to support the principles and policies of the party in force for sixty years, and we want to indorse Taft in conformity with this policy," said Keifer. "It was the 'wet' and 'dry' fight and not Taft that defeated Harding."

Heed the Titanic, He Says.

Harding tried to speak, but his voice was almost drowned by the cries of Roosevelt delegates.

"I told my constituents not to vote for me," he said, "if they were not for Taft. Taft carried the county by 500, yet there are two delegates here from that county to vote for Roosevelt

"I was in the convention which nominated Theodore Roosevelt, but that was when he was leader," continued Harding. Cheers and jeers greeted this.

"I want to warn you, you are sailing your Titanic at full speed; look out for an iceberg." The Roosevelt men here hissed for half a minute.

"I have spoken for the Republican Party in Ohio more than 300 times," shouted Harding, "and I have spoken to Republicans and Democrats alike, but I never was hissed before." This was greeted with jeers and hisses from the Roosevelt men.

"I am going to deliver this speech if it takes all day. All I ask is a square deal," Harding went on. "The success of the party is greater than any personality in it. William H. Taft has kept the faith. ["No, no," shouted Roosevelt delegates.] Let's give a square deal and a courteous indorsement to our President."

Harding attempted to quote the words of the Saviour on the Cross, but was hooted down. "You will all repent of your sins," were the speaker's closing words.

The roll was called on the substitution of the minority report and resulted, 359½ for and 393½ against. When Chairman Burton announced that the majority report indorsing Taft had been adopted Taft delegates stood on their feet and cheered for several minutes.

Delegates—United States Senator Theodore E. Burton, Cleveland; Harry M. Daugherty, Columbus; Warren G. Harding, Marion; Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati; Arthur I. Vorys, Columbus; D. J. Cable, Lima.

Alternates—William L. Anderson, Hamilton; L. C. Laylin, Columbus; Sherman D. S. Deaton, Champaign; Sherman Granger, Muskingum; William W. Woods, Miami, and Julius Whiting, Stark.

Commenting on the result, L. C. Laylin, Taft's campaign manager, said:

"The action of to-day's convention clearly shows that the Republicans still have confidence in President Taft, and the result of the State Convention will go far in determining the vote at the Chicago Convention."

Senator Burton, Chairman of the convention, refused to make any statement, but Brown, the Roosevelt manager, said:

"If the Roosevelt men in the convention had been permitted to vote for themselves it would have been impossible for the convention to have misrepresented the Republicans of Ohio. A change of thirteen votes would have reversed the result and given effect to the popular verdict of the primaries."

The result of the convention to-day gives President Taft 14 of Ohio's 48 delegates to the National Convention, and Col. Roosevelt 34.

HARMON MEN IN CONTROL.

Governor's Friends Likely to Enforce the Unit Rule To-day.

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 4.—Gov. Harmon defeated his political foes in the preliminary session of the Ohio State Democratic Convention this evening by organizing the body with George S. Long of Troy, private secretary to the Governor, as permanent Chairman.

Senator Atlee Pomerene, who was slated for permanent Chairman, was defeated in the Committee on Permanent Organization for the House by a vote of 10 to 7, after he had expressed himself as opposed to the unit rule.

The defeat of the anti-Harmon forces came at the close of a day filled with exciting developments, and as a result of his dispute with E. H. Moore, Harmon's campaign manager, Senator Pomerene may not be elected a delegate at large to the Baltimore Convention.

The indications are that the unit rule will be adopted at to-morrow's session of the convention, and Ohio's votes at Baltimore will go solidly for Harmon for President. In addition to this, his friends expect to dictate the nomination of the entire State ticket.

A personal encounter between E. H. Moore, Harmon's campaign manager, and Congressman Whitacre was narrowly averted at the Eighteenth District caucus by the timely intervention of friends. Congressman Whitacre was defeated for State Central Committeeman by a vote of 26 to 23 by W. C. Wallace, a Harmon supporter. There were fights in nearly all the district gatherings, and Harmon men won in nearly every instance.

WILL OPPOSE ROOT.

Two Maryland Delegates Against Him for Temporary Chairman.

BALTIMORE, June 4.—That a majority of Maryland's sixteen delegates to the Republican National Convention will support the Roosevelt programme in the organization of the convention was foreshadowed to-day, when two of the delegates, regarded as Taft men, announced that they would vote against Senator Root for Temporary Chairman. They are John H. Cunningham of the Second Congressional District, and Col. W. B. Tilghman, Jr., of the First District. Their votes, added to the eight out-and-out Roosevelt supporters, would give the latter ten of the delegates.

While the entire delegation is pledged by instructions to vote for Roosevelt for President, eight of the sixteen members have been classed as Taft men, and the Roosevelt people feared they would vote against the Colonel in the organization of the convention.

Kentucky Congressman Bellicose.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Representative Thomas of Kentucky and two reporters engaged in a fight in a corridor of the House office building to-day over a newspaper story which Thomas declared was inaccurate and misrepresented him. Friends separated the men before much damage was done.

TAFT MANAGERS SEE A ROOSEVELT SLUMP

ILLINOIS DELEGATES WAVER

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 4.—With the cumulative effect of the Taft victories in Arizona and Ohio to cheer them on the managers of the President's ante-convention campaign to-day took up their fight to prevent the nomination of Col. Roosevelt with a great deal of more zest and spirit than has characterized the Administration campaign up to the present.

Ever since the Colonel's victories at the primaries in the President's own State and in New Jersey, the managers of his campaign have been shrugging their shoulders when the possibility has been suggested that President Taft might capture the delegates at large from Ohio. Any suggestion that the Taft forces might win in Arizona had been received at Roosevelt headquarters here in a spirit of good-natured surprise that any such impression could prevail.

The Roosevelt headquarters was plunged in gloom when word reached here from Columbus about noon that the Republican State Convention in Ohio had elected six delegates at large pledged to President Taft and that the President's brother, Charles P. Taft, would head the delegates. For all that, the Roosevelt adherents pooh-poohed the suggestion that the Taft victory in Ohio would influence the result here.

"I am curious to see," said Ormsby McHarg, one of the Colonel's lieutenants, when asked to comment on the result in Ohio, "if President Taft will urge the delegates at large from Ohio, where Mr. Roosevelt won by such a large majority, to vote for him, as the Colonel did with the delegaets at large in Massachusetts, where Mr. Taft won."

Difference in the Two Votes.

The two cases are not similar. In Massachusetts there was a direst preferential vote on nominees for President, and on this vote the President got a majority in the State. In Ohio no provision had been made to ascertain the preference of the Republicans entitled to vote at the primaries. The vote there was for delegates, with the delegates at large left to be chosen at the State Convention.

It was apparent to-day that the Roosevelt boom had suffered a setback. Not long after the news of the Colonel's defeat in Ohio, where another Roosevelt victory was expected, had made the rounds of the hotel lobbies here unofficial announcement was made by a prominent member of the Illinois delegation that twenty-four or twenty six of the fifty-eight delegates from this State who were bound by the result of the preferential primaries to vote for Col. Roosevelt's nomination, not only would make common cause with the opposition in the matter of electing Senator Root Temporary Chairman, but would not consider themselves bound to vote for the Colonel after the first ballot.

Edwin W. Sims, Mr. Roosevelt's Chicago manager, admitted that there might be some defection in the Illinois delegation, but he made light of the suggestion that any considerable number of the delegates would desert the Colonel's banner. At the most, it was said at Roosevelt headquarters, eight or ten delegates from Illinois might vote for Senator Root for Temporary Chairman.

In connection with this, it is asserted by the Roosevelt managers, that in most instances the resolution pledging the Illinois delegates to the Colonel, also bound them to co-operate with the Roosevelt forces in the matter of organization of the convention.

The report, however, sent some of the Colonel's lieutenants who were on the scene scurrying about in an effort to prevent the threatened drift to President Taft among the delegates from Illinois. A number of Illinois delegates are substantial business men whose hearts are with President Taft, although they are prepared to comply with all the ethical rules of a situation in which they have become involved, much to their disgust.

In connection with this it was learned that, while bossism is being denounced by the Colonel in his public utterances, his friends here have made frantic appeals to Gov. Charles S. Deneen, who heads the Illinois delegation and who is looked upon as the de facto boss of the Republican organization here since Lorimer's fall, to crack his whip in an effort to keep the unwilling delegates from this State in line for the Colonel.

Altogether it was a day which came fraught with evil tidings to the Colonel's campaign managers here. The first bad news of the day came to his lieutenants when they opened their morning papers and read the Colonel's broadside against Senator Root, coupled with the summons for "Progressives" to fight to the last ditch if the proposal to pick him for Temporary Chairman and let him deliver the keynote speech in the convention.

Think the Colonel Blundered.

While Col. Roosevelt's campaign managers here—such of them as are on the ground—would say nothing for publication and were most cautious in their comment, they made it plain, under the seal of confidence, that they regarded the Colonel's sudden change of front as a grave tactical error. They are aware that some of the Colonel's warmest supporters among the delegates are firmly committed to Senator Root.

To all the men here who are harnessed up to the Roosevelt band wagon the news that the Colonel had reconsidered and was determined to fight Senator Root came as a total surprise. It was only a couple of hours at the most before the publication of the statement in New York that Alexander H. Revell, Chairman of the National Roosevelt Committee, in discussing the coming convention with a group of newspaper correspondents, declared that it had been fully agreed at the recent week-end conference at Oyster Bay that the question as to whether Senator Root should or should not be Temporary Chairman should be dropped as not essential—that the essential thing and the one in which the welfare of the people was bound up was that Col. Roosevelt should be nominated for President of these United States.

There were those also who recalled the cordial relations which had existed between the Senator and the Colonel while he was President, and how at that time Mr. Root had twice given up a lucrative law practice to render distinguished service to his country in the Roosevelt Cabinet. It was also recalled that as recently as two years ago the Colonel thought well enough of Senator Root to make him permanent Chairman of the Saratoga Convention, which nominated Stimson for Governor.

The attack on Senator Root was referred to by persons very friendly to Colonel Roosevelt as a "bad break" on the part of the Colonel. Ormsby McHarg, who is temporarily in charge of the Roosevelt headquarters here, shut up tight when asked what he thought about the Colonel's renewal of hostilities over the Tempuorary Chairmanship.

Makes Mr. McHarg Frigid.

"That is a matter with which I am not concerned," said Mr. McHarg somewhat frigidly. "It is in the Colonel's hands entirely."

"Do you think Senator Root will be elected Temporary Chairman?" Mr. McHarg was asked.

"I don't think so," said Mr. McHarg quietly. "One thing I can tell you for certain, Col. Roosevelt will be nominated on the first ballot. When that is taken we will have not less than 654 out of the 1,078 votes in the convention."

This statement, as might have been expected, was hotly disputed by the Taft workers who are here. They seem more full of fight than ever, and the fight will begin the moment the Republican National Committee meets here Thursday.

In connection with this, the interesting report reached Chicago this afternoon that William Barnes, Jr., who has been selected by President Taft to lead the fight against Col. Roosevelt on the floor of the convention would be here in time for the meeting of the National Committee on Thursday, and that he would sit in the committee as proxy for Samuel A. Perkins of Tacoma, who represents the State of Washington in that body. Mr. Perkins is in bed with a broken arm.

It is admitted by both the Taft and the Roosevelt managers that the Republican National Committee, through its jurisdiction over contests, holds the key to the situation. The Taft managers insist that if the members of the committee have the courage of their convictions when it comes to deciding the framed-up Roosevelt contests from the South and other sections of the country, nothing can prevent the nomination of President Taft on the first ballot.

The Roosevelt managers on the other hand declare that the members of the committee will not have the nerve. Those who have studied the situation closely and are conversant with what there is behind a majority of these contests declare that the throwing out of the Roosevelt delegates in this instance need not be attended by the grim steam roller tactics which were applied four years ago when the Colonel himself was in the saddle in Washington and was determined to work his will in the matter of Mr. Taft's nomination through the Republican National Committee.

The Taft people claim thirty-four votes in the National Committee, with the remaining nineteen either doubtful or for Col. Roosevelt. The programme mapped out by the friends of Mr. Taft on the committee indicates that they are very confident. There will be no attempt at sparring. The test of strength under their plan will come almost the moment the meeting on Thursday has been called to order.

Taft Supports Chairman.

At this juncture it is proposed to elect Victor Rosewater of Nebraska, who is one of the stanchest supporters of President Taft, Chairman to serve for the remainder of the unexpired term. Mr. Rosewater has been Acting Chairman of the committee since the death of John F. Hill of Maine. This will be a direct challenge to the Roosevelt people for the reason that Mr. Rosewater's seat is claimed by R. D. Howell of Omaha, who was the preferential primary choice of a majority among the Republicans who voted at the direct primaries in Nebraska for the place now held by Mr. Rosewater. Mr. Rosewater was a candidate, too, but was beaten.

Mr. Rosewater, who arrived here to-day after a conference with Col. Harry S. New of Indiana, Chairman of the National Committee's sub-committee on arrangements, said he thought the fight of Mr. Howell for his seat would be over in a very few minutes.

"I doubt if it lasts a quarter of an hour," said Mr. Rosewater.

The committee will also adopt rules to govern the hearing of the contests, and these rules, it was pointed out to-day, may have a vital bearing on the issue. It was the consensus of opinion among the National Committeemen who have reached this city to-day that the hearings would be open to the press.

Former United States Senator Dick from Ohio, who will have general charge of the arguments for the President's side in the contests, reached this city to-day.

"We will win every contest," said Mr. Dix. "It is unbecoming for a lawyer to try his cases in the newspapers, but from my knowledge of the facts in each of the contests—and I am conversant with each individual case—and from my appreciation of the fairness and integrity of the National Committee, I feel certain that every one of the 234 contests will be determined in our favor."

Persons who have given some study to the contests believe that it will become apparent before the National Committee has been long in session to-day, when the hearings are scheduled to begin, just how Col. Roosevelt will come out of the fray.

The contests will be taken up by States in alphabetical order. The first State on the list is Alabama. There are contests from four Congressional districts in that State—the Second, Fifth, Sixth, and Ninth. These are said to be typical Roosevelt contests, a parallel to a majority of those brought on the Colonel's behalf from the South.

With an unfavorable decision on a majority of these contests the Colonel's hopes of landing the nomination in the regular way from his own party are bound to go to smash.

John Eversman, assistant to Representative McKinley, Mr. Taft's campaign manager, lost no time after his arrival in this city to-day to deny that there would be any breaking away of delegates pledged to President Taft from Alabama. His statement gives the lie to the telegram from ex-United States Judge Oscar R. Hundley, Col. Roosevelt's Alabama manager, which was made public yesterday, through the Roosevelt headquarters here, and in which it was declared that John Trammell and John B. Daughtry, uncontested Taft delegates from the Third Alabama District, had surrendered to the Colonel.

"That report is merely a bluff," said Mr. Eversman. "We have the Alabama delegates all pledged and signed for President Taft and they will find that out when the time for the voting comes."

Representative McKinley and Senator Joseph M. Dixon, heads of the Taft and Roosevelt forces, respectively, according to announcement made to-night, will take charge of their newly established headquarters in this city to-morrow.

The tramways were wrecked. At the Place St. Lambert the rioters overturned street cars and used them as barricades, from behind which they hurled missiles at the police, wounding several.

The most serious encounter occurred in the vicinity of the Socialist headquarters known as "Populaire." Firing revolvers in the air, the protestants advanced slowly through the streets to "Populaire," sacking stores and cafés en route. After they had arrived at the headquarters several shots were fired from within the place upon the mounted gendarmes in the street. The commandant, thinking that the soldiers were about to be overwhelmed, gave the order to fire at will. Several volleys were exchanged, and a number of persons were killed and twenty others were wounded.

The Cause of the Trouble.

The educational fight which is the principal cause of the disturbances is explained as follows: The Belgian schools to-day are either Church schools or public schools. The schools are managed and subsidized by the communes alone, and in the non-clerical communes there is a tendency to subsidize only the public schools. Broadly speaking, the desire of the clerical Government is to place the Church schools on the same financial foting as the public schools, the necessary funds being provided by the communes, the provinces, and the State. The Opposition urges that the Church schools should be paid for by the Church, not by the Government.

The Liberals, who decided that what the industrial masses really craved was universal suffrage, consented to add this measure to the joint Liberal and Socialist programme. This also included the abolition of the plural system of voting, which has long been detested by the laboring elements. Many Belgians have two, even three votes. Fatherhood and a small money qualification entitle them to a second vote, while certain educational qualifications entitle them to a third.

The Socialists assert that this strengthens the Conservative, or Clerical, force at the elections, at the expense of the masses of the people in the great urban and manfacturing centres.

VERVIERS, June 4.—A mob to-day assailed the gendarmes with missiles.

The gendarmes charged repeatedly, and when the rioters refused to disperse, opened fire.

Thirty of the mob fell, killed or wounded. Seven gendarmes were injured. Many arrests were made.

The rioters also smashed all the windows of the stores on several streets.

Clark Man Loses In Idaho.

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, June 4.—By a vote of 252 to 157 the Democratic State Convention declined to send Frederick T. Dubois, former United States Senator, now National manager of Champ Clark's campaign, as a delegate to Baltimore.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT MEN GO IN SAME CAR

BUT DIXON TRAVELS ALONE

Barnes Won't Go Until Monday, but Issues a Statement Saying Colonel Has Unmasked Himself.

The first important delegation of Republican politicians from New York and other Eastern States to descend on Chicago, where the Republican National Convention is to be held on June 18, got away yesterday from the Grand Central Station in a special car attached to the Twentieth Century Limited. As there are both Taft and Roosevelt leaders aboard, some one dubbed the car the "Harmony Special." The politicians go thus early in order to attend the National Committee meetings, which begin in earnest to-morrow. As the train pulled out members of both aggregations loudly proclaimed that their respective candidates would get the nomination.

Among the Taft adherents were National Committeeman Charles F. Brooker of Connecticut and T. Coleman du Pont of Dealware; J. W. Hutchinson, Jr., President of the Taft Eastern League, and Lafayette B. Gleason, Secretary of the Republican State Committee.

The Roosevelt delegation comprised National Committeemen William L. Ward of Westchester County, and Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota, who prosecuted the Standard Oil Company; Judge Charles H. Duell, Chairman of the Roosevelt City Committee; J. J. Brown, a delegate from Westchester; former Congressman Lucius N. Littauer of Gloversville, an up-State delegate, and Bainbridge Colby, one of the lawyers who will present the case of the Roosevelt contestants to the National Committee. Of course, there are several secretaries and stenographers.

State Chairman William Barnes, Jr., will leave next Monday. Senator Joseph M. Dixon, head of the Roosevelt National Committee, left about the same time for Chicago on a Pennsylvania train.

Mr. Ward was accompanied by a physician, and it was reported that he is too ill to take an active part in the committee or the convention deliberations. He looked to be in good health, and he only laughed when he was asked about the physician.

"I feel pretty good," he said. "I expect to see Col. Roosevelt nominated. I am very well satisfied with the situation."

Favor Open Sessions of Committee.

Most of the delegation expressed themselves as being in favor of having the sessions of the National Committee open to the press.

Mr. Littaeur gave it as his opinion that the New York delegation ultimately would line up for Col. Roosevelt, and that he would be nominated.

Senator Dixon said before leaving:

"It is not humanly or physically possible for Mr. Taft to get a majority of delegates to the convention. His campaign has collapsed. That will be seen on the first ballot. They have stolen the six delegates at large from Ohio by three-card monte politics. What they have done shows the contrast between the methods of Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft."

Asked about the statement that Mr. Barnes issued earlier in the day replying to Col. Roosevelt, Senator Dixon said:

"If I were Mr. Barnes I would not get into a controversy with a man like Theodore Roosevelt, because of the existence of a certain State document. I refer to the report of the committee that investigated Albany."

He's Now in the Open, Says Barnes.

This is Mr. Barnes's statement, made in reply to Col. Roosevelt's declaration that he will fight to prevent Senator Root's selection as Temporary Chairman of the convention on the ground that Root is a tool of Barnes:

"Mr. Roosevelt is now absolutely in the open by his declaration that the principles, as he puts it, 'enacted' at the Rochester Convention are not 'merely revolutionary but Bourbon and reactionary.' What are those principles? They are these:

We believe that this is a self-controlled representative democracy as illustrted by the entire course of our National experience.

We believe that order is the prerequisite of progress, and that this National tradition must not be destroyed nor principle sacrificed to opportunism.

We believe that the guarantees of the Bill of Rights, as incorporated in the Constitution of the United States for the protection of each citizen, even if threatened by a temporary majority, shall be forever preserved.

"These principles form the foundation upon which this Government has rested since its establishment and to which every citizen, except a Socialist, will subscribe.

"Mr. Roosevelt calls it 'bourbon and reactionary' to affirm that 'this is a self-controlled and representative democracy.' He says it is 'bourbon and reactionary' to declare that 'order is the prerequisite of progress.' He says it is 'bourbon and reactionary' to declare that 'principle should not be sacrificed to opportunism.'

"He need not have redeclared that; that is illustrated by our experience with him. He declares that it is 'bourbon and reactionary' for the Rochester Convention 'to reaffirm its belief in the guarantees of the Bill of Rights.'

Bill of Rights Reactionary?

"What is that Bill of Rights?

"It is contained in the first ten amendments to the Constitution and the fourteenth amendment. They declare that Congress shall have no power to pass a law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise of it, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, of the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

"They say that no soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner. They say that the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated. They say that no person shall twice be put in jeopardy for the same offense; that no person shall be compelled to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.

"They say that private property cannot be used for public use without just compensation. They say that in all criminal prosecutions the accused must be confronted with the witnesses against him. They say that excessive bail shall not be required nor excessive fines imposed nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted. They say that no State shall have the power to deprive any person of life, liberty, of property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Has Revealed His Ambition.

"These are the principles reaffirmed by the Rochester Convention, never before attacked by a public man in the history of this Nation, but now by Mr. Roosevelt declared to be 'Bourbon and reactionary.' Mr. Roosevelt very properly says that this is a question not of men, but of principles. If the Republican Party at Chicago in its convention desires to follow Mr. Roosevelt's advice and declare that the Bill of Rights of the Constitution, indorsed by the Rochester Convention, is 'Bourbon and reactionary,' then the Republican Party no longer exists as a force for the preservation of the rights of each individual citizen in America, but has become the plaything of a demented ambition, which would use the organism of that party, as he now openly avows, to destroy those principles established by the adoption of the Constitution and reaffirmed by the action of the Rochester Convention.

"Mr. Roosevelt is a clever politician, and usually has been able to conceal his subconscious mind, but in the statement which he issued yesterday he has clearly portrayed that his ultimate purpose is the subversion of our Government. That has been clear to me for years through an intimate knowledge and study of his basic character.

"It chafes at all restrictions, and, under the stress of this conflict has openly betrayed its secret recesses wherein are nurtured passionate ambitions to use apparent popular favor for the destruction of the Constitution, an impediment to the realization of those ambitions. His candidacy represents, as he himself has now declared, simply an attack on the Constitution of the United States, the sweeping away of its safeguards of individual liberty, and the establishment in its stead of a despotism, which, for his purposes, he is now pleased to call 'the rule of the people.'"

Mr. Barnes was asked about a report from Chicago that he may hold a proxy in the National Committee and lead the Taft fight in that body.

"I will accept no proxy from a member of the National Committee unless the offer comes from Mr. Ward of New York," said Mr. Barnes, sarcastically.

BRIGANDS, ROOSEVELT CRIES.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 4.—In a statement he gave out at Sagamore Hill to-night after a day of conferences at The Outlook office, Col. Roosevelt bitterly criticised the Taft managers for their action in the Ohio State Convention at Columbus to-day in instructing the six delegates at large for the President. He also pays his respects to William Barnes, Jr., the New York State leader, for a statement Barnes made public to-day. This is Col. Roosevelt's statement:

"The plain people of the Republican Party of Ohio have just held a Statewide primary in which they repudiated Mr. Taft by over 30,000 majority. The politicians by adroit manipulation have succeeded in giving Mr. Taft the six delegates at large in frank and cynical defiance of the emphatic action of the people themselves. This is, of course, pure political brigandage.

"In this fight I have from beginning to end sought to give the people the right to say whom they wanted to have as President, and have not merely by word but by action made it evident that I did not wish the nomination unless the majority of the rank and file of the Republican Party wished me to serve it.

"This action in Ohio is merely fresh and conclusive proof that Mr. Taft and his advisers care nothing for the will of the people, and are eager to get the nomination without any reference to the methods by which it is secured, without any reference to whether or not delegates represent the people whom they are supposed to represent. It is a crowning illustration of Mr. Taft's theory of government of the people by a 'representative part' of the people.

"Mr. Barnes has been chosen to head the Taft forces at this stage of the fight. He has just flown to a defense of the Rochester platform. In his defense he refers to generalities about issues which have no more reference to the issues of the present day than if he should quote from Magna Charta. The Rochester platform and the speeches expounding it at the Rochester Convention show that it was designed in defense and advocacy of the twin principles for which Mr. Barnes stands—the right of the bosses to rule the people, and the supremacy of privilege over the rights of humanity.

Barnes? Read Up on Him!

"How the principles advocated by Mr. Barnes, who has been selected to lead the Taft fight at this juncture, work in practice is set forth in detail in the report of the special committee of the New York State Senate appointed to investigate the city and county of Albany, transmitted to the Legislature on March 29 last. It speaks for itself, and I commend it to those men (including Mr. Taft himself) who may wish to see just what the judgment of a legislative committee of Barne's own State is as to the workings of Mr. Barnes's theory of government, in his own city."

Some persons seemed to be of the opinjon that it was an anxious day for Col. Roosevelt and that he was worried by the reports that had been brought to him about the effect the various stands he has taken on the question of fighting Senator Root for the Temporary Chairmanship of the National Convention have had on his chances. But if he was worried he didn't show it. When he gave out the statement he was asked if he had hit back very hard and answered with a smile that was self-satisfied in its expression.

"This is no time for excited action," he declared. "I prefer to keep cool and underestimate the facts rather than to overstate them.

It was evident, however, that he wanted to have comparisons drawn just as strongly as possible between his action in regard to the Massachusetts delegates at large whom he surrendered when the preference vote went against him there and the action of the Taft forces in Ohio. That final touch his manager, Senator Dixon, supplied for him by saying:

A Contrast of Methods.

"What they have done shows the contrast between the methods of Theodore Roosevelt and Mr. Taft."

Col. Roosevelt to-day had nothing further to say in the "Root controversy" or on the National Committee situation.

Commenting on a story in to-day's American that the Taft leaders in this State had come into possession of a long missing affidavit showing that in 1908 he had sworn off his taxes in Oyster Bay by declaring that he was not a resident, Col. Roosevelt said:

"That is an old and an untruthful story. I was at that time engaged in a personally conducted expedition to Cuba. It was the war. I had no idea what they were doing about my taxes while I was away. When I came back it was too late to pay them in Oyster Bay, because the tax books were closed, so I paid in New York. They brought it up at the convention of 1908, and it was all thrashed out, so that by the end of the campaign there was no mention of it. I've forgotten what side Mr. Barnes was on during the discussion about it, but I know he supported me in the campaign."

Camping Out

BACK somewhere — anywhere — away from everyone—into the peace and quiet which forever hangs over the great irresistible out-of-doors is a secluded place filled with the air that we were meant to breathe. The hot, tainted atmosphere of the city is not there—the noise that unconsciously preys upon the nerves is absent—the sun plays through the trees and slowly, almost imperceptibly builds up the life upon which we feed and soft night comes regularly to fold its own into a peaceful, untroubled sleep.

Do you know such a place?

A few miles from where you sit, their number is legion, and many of them are already filled with sweet memories of vacation days in camp. They will be visited again this year and again and again as the years roll on.

If you have not found such a place in which you almost have the feeling of empire, go out into the open—into the country—to some favorite lake or river or mountain side, or on the beach—there pitch your tent and enjoy the nomadic life that is man's heritage.

For twenty years we have been making outfits for outdoor life. Our own exclusive creations in tents, sleeping equipment, camp cooking utensils and hundreds of little ingenious devices for comfort and safety in camp and afield have made a reputation that brings arctic explorers and the big game hunters of the world to our door, seeking equipment of standard and special design that is to be had nowhere else. We can outfit you for a few days in a little tent beside a beautiful stream somewhere at a very small cost indeed, we can supply all the necessities of an elaborate camp or equip a large government expedition to any part of the world.

WOMAN STEALS CHILD IN STREET

MOVING PICTURES THE LURE

Neighborhood Searched and All Police of the City on Watch Without Trace of Sophie Weisberg.

All night long and all day yesterday the police of the West 152d Street Station have been searching for an unidentified woman who is believed to have kidnapped Sophie Weisberg, the five-year-old daughof Barnet Weisberg, who keeps a ladies' tailor shop and lives at 805 West 145th Street. The detectives have a description of the child, but the only clue to the identity of the kidnapper is a description given by Fannie, the eight-year-old sister of the missing child.

About 5 o'clock Monday afternoon Fannie and little Sophie were standing on the corner of 145th Street and Eighth Avenue. They were "watching the cars go by," when the woman for whom the police are now looking approached the children.

There are five children in the Weisberg family, and the father is not well enough off to take them to moving picture shows very often, so Fanny said she was delighted with the chance to go. Taking one of Sophie's hands, the stranger led the children down Eighth Avenue. She told them what a good time they were going to have, and Fannie was much disappointed when half way down the block the woman told her that her dress was too dirty to go to a theatre, and she must hurry home and get a clean dress.

"I know a picture place in 144th Street," the child said she told her. "You run home and get your mother to put a new dress on you, and your sister and I will wait for you on the corner."

Suspecting nothing wrong, Fanny started for home on a run. When she told her mother that a "lady" was going to take Sophie and herself to the theatre, Mrs. Weisberg became suspicious and hurried to Eighth Avenue with her daughter. There was no sign of the strange woman and Sophie. The mother searched up and down the avenue for some blocks and ,becoming convinced that her child had been kidnapped became hysterical. This soon attracted a crowd and when they learned what had happened hunting parties were organized. They searched the neighborhood without success.

Capt. Tunney and Detectives Gaynor and Toner took up the hunt. Additional detectives were put on the case yesterday, and the police in all parts of the city were on the lookout. Sophie has dark-brown hair, dark eyes, and olive complexion. She wore a white dress, with short sleeves. There was a purple ribbon in her hair, and in her right ear a horseshoe earring. On a finger of her left hand was a plain, gold band.

Little Fannie was observant, and she gave the police a fairly good description of the kidnapper. According to the police report she is tall and slim, about 30 years old, and having gold teeth in both upper and lower jaw. She wore a white waist with a floral design worked in the front, black skirt, and a large black hat decorated with black plumes.

Weisberg told the police that he moved to his present address in November. Before that he kept a shop at 1,528 Brook Av., the Bronx. He had received no threatening letters, he said, and had no enemies. The police are working on the theory that the kidnapper is demented, some woman who thought she saw in little Sophie the resemblance to a child now dead.

CHAMBERMAIDS QUIT; BROKERS AS WAITERS

Imperial Women Workers Join Strikers, and Stock Exchange Feels a Walkout, Too.

MOUQUIN'S MEN RETURN

The Evening Strike Calls Fail—Hotel Men Say the Union Is Beaten.

There were two walkouts of waiters, two of cooks, and one of chambermaids yesterday. Thirty-one waiters walked out of the Luncheon Club on the seventh floor of the Stock Exchange when the whistle was blown at 12:30 o'clock. Forty waiters and cooks left the Machinery Club, 50 Church Street, at the same time. The other walkout of cooks was at the Grand Central Station, where eleven quit at the noon hour. The chambermaids made the first test of their organized strength on the Hotel Imperial. Ten of them walked out in response to a call from the strike leaders of the International Hotel Workers' Union.

The walkout at the Luncheon Club was fully expected and the management was able to take care of its guests by serving a buffet lunch. Notices were posted that, owing to the strike, diners would have to help themselves. Many of the guests professed to enjoy the novelty and the usual number of noonday meals were eaten. The Luncheon Club is made up exclusively of members of the Stock Exchange.

A few waiters remained loyal to the Machinery Club and at the Grand Central Station eleven striking cooks were speedily replaced by Pullman car cooks. Waitresses are employed in the restaurant and the strike did not extend beyond the kitchen.

The ten chambermaids who left the Hotel Imperial marched in order to Bryant Hall, in Sixth Avenue, near Forty-second Street. A mass meeting of the strikers was in progress, and the male hotel workers cheered stoutly for their striking sisters. A woman has been actively organizing hotel chambermaids, and the walkout at the Imperial was her first achievement.

Strikers Gain One Victory.

The strikers gained one victory for the day, obtaining recognition from the Archambault Restaurant, 2,678 Broadway. On the other hand, the hotel and restaurant proprietors say that the striking waiters are discouraged, and have been flocking back for re-employment. The Plaza, where negroes from Virginia were put to work in place of the strikers, had restored its restaurant service so well that 500 people were taken care of without inconvenience at a wedding reception and dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Reddy.

Mouquin's, at 149 Fulton Street, was reopened yesterday with a staff made up largely of the employes who had gone on strike. Mouquin advertised in the newspapers that he would re-employ any of his old employes who applied within twenty-four hours. Most of his waiters had been in his service many years, and the advertisement brought back forty of them.

The strike schedule for last night failed entirely. Waiters were to be called out at the Parisien Restaurant, 945 Eighth Avenue; Lorber's, 1,420 Broadway, and the Carlos, 25 West Twenty-fourth Street. Not a waiter left his post at any of these places. It was also predicted by the strikers that the Captains at Louis Martin's would refuse to work with strike-breakers, but this prophecy also failed.

Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, who was a leading figure at the strikers' meeting at the Amsterdam Opera House on Friday night, conferred with the strike leaders yesterday afternoon at their headquarters, 77 West Forty-fourth Street, and spoke at the meeting in the evening at Bryant Hall. It was rumored among the strikers that she had made a liberal gift to the cause.

Assail the Newspapers.

Resolutions were adopted by the strikers against the newspapers with the exception of Socialist and labor organs. The strike leaders charrge the papers with acting in concert to discourage the waiters. Reporters were barred from the meeting at Bryant Hall and vigilantly watched at the strike headquarters.

President F. A. Reid of the Hotel Men's Association said that the strike is over and that the hotel proprietors, who have been meeting daily, are rather glad that it happened, because it has saved them the trouble of reducing their staffs for the lighter business of the Summer months. Manager Oscar of the Waldorf-Astoria said that he had plenty of men for this season of the year. Only 37 out of 200 waiters remained at this place after the strike whistle was blown. Twenty-five have since returned to work, and enough strike breakers have been engaged to make a total of 180 waiters. Striking waiters have been coming back in numbers to the Gotham, Manhattan, Plaza, St. Denis, Savoy, and other large hotels, according to their management.

Leaders Not Cast Down.

At the headquarters of the strikers, however, the officials of the union were emphatic in expressing their confidence that their fight is won. Secretary Edward Blochlinger said:

"If we were not sure of victory we might be jumping at the offers of compromise that have been made to us. The hotel men have made overtures to us repeatedly, but we will not listen to any terms that do not begin with recognition of the union.

"The stories that the hotel proprietors have been telling about strikers asking for their jobs again are pure fiction. Not more than three per cent. of them have returned. Only the cowards and a few open shop men have deserted. We have 17,000 waiters in the union, and nearly every restaurant in the city is organized. There will be more strikes every day till we get recognition. We have only just begun."

The strikers will hold a mass meeting to-morrow night at Carnegie Hall. Addresses will be made by Morris Hillquit, John Wanhope, Adolph Gremer, President of the United Mine Workers, and others. The leaders intend to make it a demonstration of strength and have called upon other labor organizations to join in the rally.

ARTHUR S. LEVY A SUICIDE.

Arthur S. Levy, a real estate broker, committed suicide shortly before 6 o'clock last night in his office, at 1,451 Broadway. Mr. Levy shot himself in the right temple with an eight-shot British bulldog revolver. Mr. Levy was married and lived on the top floor of the Barnard apartment house, 106 to 110 Central Park West.

The police record at the West Thirtieth Street Station house gave Mr. Levy's age as 58 years. According to the Directory of Directors he was President, Treasurer, and Director of the William Radam Microbe Killer Company, a $250,000 New York corporation, with headquarters at 121 Prince Street.

Shortly after Mr. Levy shot himself, tenants of the building called in Patrolman John Mulvihill of the Traffic Squad. Mulvihill reported to the West Thirtieth Street Station that at the time he killed himself Mr. Levy was in an inner office alone, and that in an anteroom were two clerks. Mr. Levy's body was in a chair before his open desk. No note or letter giving a motive for the suicide was found.

The case was reported to Coroner Hellenstein, who gave permission for the removal of the body to Mr. Levy's home.

Later Coroner Hellenstein said:

"The only motive for Mr. Levy's suicide, according to information furnished me by business associates this evening, was ill-health, which made him despondent."

FAVOR EASIER TESTS OF ALIENS' LITERACY

House Committee Kills Dillingham Immigration Bill and Substitutes Burnett Measure.

THAT IS ALSO OPPOSED

It Requires Less Drastic Examination of Immigrants in English or Some Other Language.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Senator Dillingham's bill for the regulation of immigration into the United States was killed and buried in the House Immigration Committee to-day. All of the fifty-eight pages of the Dillingham bill, after the enacting clause, were stricken out by a vote of 7 to 3, and the Burnett bill for the restriction of the admission of aliens by the application of the literacy test was ordered reported to the House.

The Burnett bill had been on the calendar of the House since April 16 last, when it was reported, and advocates of the legislation which it proposes to-day substituted it for the Dillingham bill in the hope of hastening results, the difference being that the Burnett bill, if passed and sent along up as a House bill, would have to be referred to the Immigration Committe of the Senate before it could be acted upon, but if sent to the Senate as an amendment in the nature of a substitute for the Dillingham bill, it would not need a committee reference in the Senate, but could be sent into conference should the Senate insist on the Dillingham bill.

Representative Goldfogle of New York Sabath of Chicago, and Catlin of St. Louis have been making a vigorous fight against both the Dillingham and Burnett bills, and, while they do not want the Burnett bill enacted, they feel very jubilant to-night over the way in which the Dillingham bill was slaughtered by the House Committee to-day. Several weeks ago Judge Goldfogle led a fight for the tabling of the Dillingham bill. Thereupon Representatives Dies of Texas and a few others who are rampant for restrictive legislation on immigration, succeeded in obtaining enough signatures to call for a Democratic caucus.

Although the caucus was called, Judge Goldfogle and Representative Sabath were able to block caucus action. They canvassed the House thoroughly, with the result that only forty-six Democrats were present for the caucus. This was less than a quorum, and the caucus could not be held. In this way the Democratic majority of the House was persuaded not to indulge in the folly of making a party matter out of a non-partisan question.

Representative Gardiner of Massachusetts moved to-day in the House Immigration Committee that the Dillingham bill, which had been placed on the committee table, be taken therefrom. The motion was carried by a vote of 7 to 3. Those voting to take up the bill were Chairman Burnett of Alabama, Representative Powers of Kentucky, Representative Hayes of California, Representative Gardiner of Massachusetts, Representative Bell of Georgia, Representative Helgesen of North Dakota, and Representative Brown of West Virginia. Representatives Goldfogle, Catlin and Sabath opposed this motion. No sooner had the Dillingham bill been taken up than another motion was made and carried ripping out everything after its enacting clause, and then the Burnett literacy test bill was adopted.

Judge Goldfogle announced to-night that he would lead a fight on the floor against the Burnett bill, which will not pass unless the session lasts longer than is generally anticipated. The fight will now be transferred to the floor of the House. Chairman Burnett hopes to be able to pull the bill through within the next month. Judge Goldfogle will try to block its passage, and in any event is confident that the Dillingham bill can never be revived, either in committee or in conference.

Judge Goldfogle said to-night: "The Burnett literacy bill, which was substituted for the Dillingham bill by the committee to-day, is much simpler in its provisions. But I am opposed to the Burnett bill and will carry the fight to the floor."

The Burnett bill provides that four months after its passage aliens shall be excluded from admission into the United States when over 16 years of age, and physically capable of reading, if they cannot read the English language, or the language or dialect of some other country, including Hebrew or Yiddish. The Burnett bill provides, however, that any admissible alien or any alien who has already been admitted, may send for his father, or grandfather over 55 years of age; his wife, his mother, his grandmother, or his unmarried or widowed daughter, if otherwise admissible, even if these relatives cannot read, and shall be allowed to land.

The Dillingham bill was much more drastic. It would require aliens over 16 to write as well as read the English language, or some other language, and proposed as a test that the alien should be able to read and write twenty-five words of the Constitution printed in various languages or dialects. These selections were to be pasted on cardboard and supplied to the aliens by the inspection officers, no two aliens on the same vessel to be tested with the same slip. The test proposed by the Burnett bill is from thirty to forty words "of ordinary use" printed in plain type in the various languages and dialects of immigrants.

Representative Gardner issued a statement to-night saying: "The action taken by the committee to-day involves a distinct self-sacrifice on the part of Chairman Burnett, as he thereby loses the honor of having the immigration bill bear his name exclusively.

"Mr. Burnett, however, appreciated that the passage of a law for the restriction of immigration would be very much facilitated if he gave the right of way to the Dillingham bill. The bill hereafter will be known as the Dillingham-Burnett bill."

BULLFROG FOR CAPT. TURNER

Also a Turtle and an Owl Waiting for the Mauretania.

When Capt. W. T. Turner of the Cunard liner Mauretania arrives on Friday morning he will find three interesting presents awaiting him. One is a healthy snapping turtle, the second is a bullfrog with a croak so powerful that the night watchman on the Cunard pier cannot get any sleep, and the third is a hooting owl, whose mournful cries have twice attracted the attention of passing policemen who thought some human being was in pain.

These gifts have been sent to the Captain by friends up State, so that he can take them across to Liverpool and present them to the aquarium in that city. Last year he took over some water snakes, which were kept in his bath room, and almost gave his stewards nervous prostration.

The snapping turtle and the bullfrog arrived at the pier yesterday [illegible] express charges paid, but there was [illegible] to collect on the owl. As it arrived at an inopportune moment when the [illegible] was very little money on the pier, [illegible] gateman had to rush around for change. They have been placed together in a room at the pier head, so that the rest of the officers and crews of the ships alongside will not be disturbed.

PRETTY GIRL IS MISSING.

May Have Been Lured from Home by Letter Offering Her Work.

The police were asked yesterday to look for Stella Pavlowitz, 15 years old, who disappeared from her home at 539 East 138th Street on Saturday. The girl, who is good looking, was graduated from the public school at 138th Street and Brown Place, the Bronx, in February last. She worked for a time as cashier in a store, but recently has been out of employment.

Miss Pavlowitz had been answering advertisements and on Saturday she received a letter and told her mother she was going down town to see about getting a job. She has not since been seen by her friends. She wore a pink dress and tan shoes when she left her home.

Auto Dusters
and all the other paraphernalia of autodom—in the Saks Auto Department

¶ A duster means protection against the dust—a Saks duster means assurance of quality and style—Saks prices mean a maximum of value.

¶ And what is true as to the quality and style of a Saks duster is also true of all auto apparel at Saks', whether it be a pair of goggles, a French motor bonnet for Madame, a suit for the driver, or a coat for the dog.

¶ But this being duster-time particularly, this is to remind you that we have dusters for everybody that motors. Made of mohair, khaki, repp, imported shantung, silk, Sicilian silk and linen, gray, natural and Spanish linen, and basket weave silks, to say nothing of smart fancy stripe mohairs. Extra wide skirt, in button to neck and convertible models, with or without inverted pleats at side. Made light, and priced lightly.

DON'T CARE WHO IS ELECTED, SAYS VAIL

Western Union President Sure There Are Going to be Good Times Here Anyway.

PEOPLE MORE REASONABLE

See There Are Two Sides to Capital-Labor Questions—Vail Sailing for Home After Holiday on Riviera.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 4.—Theodore N. Vail, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who has been on the Riviera since March, arrived in London to-day prior to sailing in the Olympic to-morrow. Mrs. Vail is with him. Both have enjoyed their vacation immensely.

In a talk with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent Mr. Vail spoke of the international wireless conference, which began here to-day. "I have not the slightest doubt," he said, "that it will try to impress the various Governments with the necessity of regulations, the most important being the stopping of interference by amateurs. Wireless will never amount to anything until they do that.

"I want to see the Marconi system succeed in its place. It is a most wonderful adjunct to the telegraph system of the whole world. We are doing all we can to help them in their business generally. It all aids in bringing the world closer together."

Asked whether the success of wireless had affected the cable business, Mr. Vail replied:

"Not in the slightest. On the contrary, it has helped it. Anything that tends to induce the public to use the telegraph more must do general good. We find that every new facility we give creates new business. The wireless has had no more effect on us than the telephone had on the telegraph and the telegraph on the mails."

Speaking of conditions in America, Mr. Vail said:

"The financial situation was never better. More money is in use than ever before. There is no strain on credit, there is comparatively little speculation, and everybody is what is called closely trimmed.

"Another thing—I think business is cutting loose from politics. I notice that no matter what political news comes along, it has very little effect on business. We are getting to a more normal condition. The American people are beginning to realize that there are two sides to the questions of capital and labor. I notice another healthy sign. Shippers are consenting to an increase in freight rates. This means that the people are beginning to realize that they cannot squeeze the life out of our public service corporations.

"If it were not for politics I think we would now see the most prosperous time in the history of our country. We have never seen a time in our country when luxuries were so much in demand as they are to-day—such things as good cream, fine butter, and prime cuts of meat. If people were hard pushed they would not be using them."

Turning to politics, Mr. Vail said things were in such a muddle that it was difficult to know what was going to happen, adding:

"I have just received this cable from a man in New York who is considered one of the most sagacious and best guessers in the United States. I will not mention his name, but he is a well-known newspaper man. He says:

"'Politics absorbing. Neither Taft nor Roosevelt, in my judgment, has a clear majority. The National Committee will generally support Taft on contests, but even so La Follette's and Cummins's fifty votes are quite likely to hold the balance of power. I don't think Roosevelt can get these votes, as Cummins's manager telegraphs that Roosevelt has betrayed him. If Taft is nominated, Roosevelt is practically sure to bolt. If Roosevelt wins, there will be no open bolt, but enormous defection at the polls. No compromise is in sight, but if one should come, probably it would be Cummins. Among the Democrats Clark has about 425, Wilson 250, Underwood 100, the remainder to favorite sons. If Taft is nominated, Clark is pretty certain. If Roosevelt is nominated, Underwood is most likely. No apparent chance for Wilson, Harmon, or Bryan.'"

Mr. Vail added:

"These are not my views of the situation. I think if Roosevelt is nominated, Bryan will be nominated, and Roosevelt will be elected.

"But I don't care who is elected. In my opinion we are going to have more than good times in the next four or five years."

75 DEPUTIES EJECTED.

Police Called in Three Times to Hungarian Chamber—Army Bills Passed.

BUDAPEST, June 4.—The deadlock in Parliament was broken to-day by Count Tisza, President of the lower chamber, who so successfully dragooned the noisy Opposition that the Government was able to carry its defense bills through all stages at a single sitting.

The tumult was terrific. All the members of the Opposition were supplied with whistles, trumpets, rattles, or other instruments of the most discordant character, and kept up an ear-splitting din. Howls of execration met all Count Tisza's attempts to speak, but finally, with the help of the members of the Right, he managed to carry the army bills, which had blocked Parliamentary business for months.

Even stormier scenes attended the afternoon session, which culminated in the calling in of the police three separate times and the ejection of many Deputies.

When Count Tisza appeared the Opposition again raised a deafening uproar. The noise of toy trumpets and other instruments mingled with curses and insulting epithets. After this had gone on for a quarter of an hour the President suspended the sitting. Twice he essayed to resume, but his appearance in the President's chair each time was greeted with more uproarious outbursts.

Count Tisza then summoned the police, sixty of them entering the chamber amid the hisses of the Opposition. Count Karolyi defied them to lay hands on a Deputy. He was the first seized, and, with twenty-one other members, was removed from the chamber. Among those ejected were Julius Justh, the party leader, and Herr Polonyi, ex-Minister of Justice.

When the sitting was reopened Count Tisza was greeted with another outburst. Count Apponyi, the ex-Minister of Worship, who up to then had not joined in the uproar, led in the denunciations of the President. This resulted in a renewal of the tumult, and the police were called in a second time. Fifteen more Deputies were ejected.

Even this did not suffice to restore order, and the police were summoned a third time, and 38 more Deputies were forced unceremoniously through the exits. The remainder of the Opposition then left the House, after which the Landwehr bill, relating to the army, was agreed to without debate.

It is feared that the stormy scenes in Parliament will lead to outbreaks in the city, to cope with which elaborate precautions have been taken. Troops have been stationed at different points and the entire garrison is held in readiness for emergencies.

The Opposition intends to petition the Emperor to intervene in regard to the Army bills.

DELEGATES DISCUSS WIRELESS PROBLEMS

Thirty-seven Countries Represented at London Convention—Likely to Last a Month.

WE WANT RADICAL CHANGES

Particularly as to Compulsory Rules to Protect Life at Sea—Well-Known Men Among Delegates.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 4.—One hundred and sixty delegates, representing thirty-seven countries, attended the opening meeting to-day of the second International Radio-Telegraphic Convention, which was held at the headquarters of the Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The convention is remarkably strong as regards the age and experience of the delegates. As a rule they are leading administrators or technical experts representing the world's postal authorities and telegraph and cable systems. The convention also has the benefit of the experience of administrative officials of the various wireless concerns, who, however, cannot vote, but will speak on the various interests their companies represent.

To-day's meeting was purely formal. It was opened with an address of welcome by the Right Hon. Herbert Samuel, the Postmaster General, after which Sir Henry Babington Smith, recently Fiscal Agent of the British Government in the Ottoman Empire, was elected permanent Chairman of the convention. The preliminary session was not lengthy.

It is understood that the conference will be in session about a month.

Elaborate provision has been made for the entertainment of the delegates in the course of their stay. There will be a reception by the King at Buckingham Palace next Monday, at which the entire delegation will be presented.

There appears to be a remarkable feeling of amity among the delegates, and it is hoped that amendments will be made to the Berlin Convention which will meet with general approval.

The American delegates were entertained at dinner to-night by Ambassador Whitelaw Reid at Dorchester House.

LONDON, June 4.—All the sessions of the second International Conference on Wireless Telegraphy, which opened here to-day, will be secret, but it is known that the chief problems to be discussed will concern better wireless conditions at sea. Of the nations represented all have sea coasts, and the use of wireless by vessels since the initial conference in Berlin six years ago has increased to such an extent that new regulations are needed.

DURYEA'S HORSE IS FAVORITE FOR DERBY

NEW YORK TURFMAN HOPEFUL

Believes He Will Win, but If He Can't, Hopes King's Entry Will —Morgan to See Race.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 4.—Smilingly confident, H. B. Duryea of New York and Lexington, Ky., the owner of Sweeper II., the favorite in to-morrow's Derby, told the correspondent for THE NEW YORK TIMES to-night that his horse was perfectly well and fit to run the race of a lifetime.

"Naturally I am crazy to win," said Mr. Duryea, "and there will be no excuse if I don't, except that Sweeper II. was beaten by a better horse. I prefer to say nothing until after the race."

Mr. Duryea said that after winning the Derby himself, he would like to see the King's horse win, as it would do a lot of good for racing as a gentleman's sport. He added: "But I prefer to win myself."

Mr. and Mrs. Duryea have as guests at Epsom J. Pierpont Morgan and H. K. Knapp. Asked whether he was backing Sweeper II. heavily, Mr. Duryea said: "I don't bet much myself, but I have just a small bet on." When told that Sweeper II. would carry a lot of American money, Mr. Duryea laughingly said, "We shall do our best."

The horse is in the care of H. S. Persse, who formerly trained for R. C. Hopper of Boston. Curiously enough, through ignorance of the French racing rules Sweeper II. was disqualified from racing in France, although the horse was foaled in France. Under the French racing laws brood mares are required to be kept in that country six months after foaling. Ignorant of this rule, Mr. Duryea sent the mother of Sweeper II. away five days after the colt was foaled, thereby disqualifying the Derby favorite of to-morrow from a chance of winning the Grand Prix or, indeed, of winning any French race.

After Epsom, Sweeper II. has engagements at Ascot, Goodwood, and Doncaster. Should Sweeper II. win to-morrow, it will be the first time any horse with numerals after his name has won the classic event.

Americans are pouring into London to-night from everywhere. The hotels are full, and for the first time this season there seems to be real enthusiasm. It is pretty certain that every American who does such things will have a bet on Sweeper II., not merely for patriotic reasons, but because they believe he is a "good thing," or, as they say in America, "the one best bet" on to-morrow's card at Epsom.

There will be a large field, with something like twenty-six starters. The latest betting makes H. B. Duryea's Sweeper II. the favorite at 3 to 1. L. Newmann's Jaeger is at 9 to 1, J. B. Joel's White Star is quoted at 100 to 10, and Pintadeau 18 to 1.

The result of the Derby will be eagerly awaited in New York and Johannesburg, as well as in London, for, judging by the latest betting posted, the race has resolved itself into a contest between an American millionaire, two South African millionaires, and an English millionaire.

J. B. Joel, the owner of White Star, and Mr. Neuman, the owner of Jaeger, are kings of the Rand mining industry, while Walter Raphael, the owner of Tagalie, is connected with one of the biggest firms on the London Stock Exchange.

Should Sweeper II. win, it will be the greatest triumph America has ever achieved in the classic event. Other American owners have won the Derby in recent years, but with animals bred in this country. Orby, who won for Richard Croker, was out of an American mare by an English sire bred in Ireland. Volodyovski, who won for William C. Whitney, was an English-bred horse, and was only leased from the late Lady Meux.

Sweeper II. is even more entirely American than was Iroquois, who won for Pierre Lorillard in 1881.

Every indication to-night is for a record attendance at Epsom to-morrow, although the weather prophets predict much rain and wind. The motor-hiring establishments report an unprecedented demand for vehicles to-morrow. Everybody seems to be going to Epsom.

The Daily Mail asks "Why is this year's Derby exciting interest more than ordinarily keen and general?" and answers the question thus:

"One reason for the special interest which has been aroused is perhaps that the community of appeal comes as a pleasant relief from the spirit of class antagonism that has crept into politics and business of the times. Derby Day is all England's festival, to which rich and poor, employers and workmen, can look forward with the same delight.

"In these days the well-dispositioned citizen feels grateful for the opportunity for taking part in any great gathering that does not excite jealousies and hostilities. There will be no labor troubles at Epsom Downs, though there will be a greater assemblage of the working population of London than any labor demonstration ever attracted."

MAHER TO RIDE SWEEPER.

American Jockey Will Pilot the American-Owned Favorite.

Sweeper II. is by Broomstick out of Ravelle II., by Sir Hugo, (Derby winner at long odds in 1892.) In the Autumn of 1908, when racing received its heaviest blow here Herman B. Duryea sent to France his stallion Irish Lad and about twenty brood mare, all in foal.

Ravelle II. was in foal to Broomstick. In the Spring of 1909 she dropped the bay colt now known as Sweeper II., but when the mare and colt were sent to England from France before June 1 of that year the youngster became ineligible to nearly all the French stakes run on the flat.

Hence, after returing to France Sweeper II. was early last year again sent to England to be trained. There he won several stakes, but he lost several because his riders were not strong enough to do justice to him. For this reason Mr. Duryea has tried to obtain the best American jockey available, with the result that Danny Maher will ride him in to-morrow's race.

Broomstick, his sire, made a record at one and a quarter miles in the Brighton Handicap when as a seven-year-old he hung up a mork of 2:02 4-5 for the distance, incidentally defeating Irish Lad and High Ball. He was never credited with being a top-notcher over a distance, but was the accredited peer of any horse in America at a mile or thereabout.

It is said that his dam, an English mare, was a rank non-stayer, and there are those who thought that Sweeper II. had gone quite far enough when he won the Two Trousand Guineas about six weeks ago. It is generally conceded, however, that he finished fairly strong, and he is admitted, as far as general conformation goes, to be just the sort for Epsom—neither too big not too little, but medium sized, active and handy.

From time to time a great deal has been said about the suitability and non-suitability of certain horses for the Epsom course. It is frequently said that big horses are at a disadvantage, and that compact, medium-sized horses have a pull.

While this is not in reality the case, it all depends upon whether a horse is truly made. A straight-shouldered horse, or one with "proppy" front legs, is unlikely to be at home on the long descent to Tattenham Corner, but if the horse is truly made, well balanced and active he is just as good at Epsom as he is on a course of totally different formation, and many big horses have won the English Derby.

Sweeper II. has run once this year and has done all that was required of him. Nothing can be urged against his Derby chance except the point in connection with the doubts expressed about his ability to stay the extra half mile required in the Derby distance over what he has shown.

During the last few years in England a fair number of horses by Broomstick have carried silk in that country, and several of them have run very well, a notable recent instance being Whisk Broom, which made such a notable bid in the Kempton Jubilee Stakes. But the fact remains that none of the American bred horses by this sire which has run in England has won over a long course.

MASCAGNI-LIEBLER ROW ENDS

A New Opera Will Be Composed for Special Production Here.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ROME, June 4.—A reconciliation is on foot between Mascagni and Liebler & Co., following the quarrel over the opera "Isobel." Negotiations have been conducted by W. Story, who is now in Paris, and the agreement is practically complete. George Tyler is expected to meet Mascagni in Italy in July.

The arrangements provide for the composition by Mascagni of a new opera specially for the Lieblers. The libretto, which is already written, is a love story of two Americans in Naples. There are some difficulties over the rights with Sonzogno & Co., Mascagni's publishers, but it is hoped these will be overcome, in which case the opera will be given in New York next season and in San Francisco during the exposition, with Bessie Abott in the title rôle.

Duchess of Connaught, Ill with Peritonitis.

The Duchess of Connaught.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, June 4.—The Duchess of Connaught is lying in the Royal Victoria Hospital here suffering from what was at first thought to be an attack of appendicitis, which seized her yesterday in Quebec, but her illness has been since diagnosed as peritonitis. Her condition is causing anxiety, though it was stated at the hospital that there is no immediate occasion for alarm. The special train bringing her Royal Highness arrived in Montreal this evening, and the Duchess was at once taken to the hospital.

The royal party went to Quebec on Saturday, where they had numerous social engagements covering a week or ten days. Yesterday the Duchess was indisposed, suffering, it was supposed, from indigestion. In the evening her condition had become feverish, and Dr. Garrow, a Montreal specialist, was sent for. He started off at once by special train, arriving in Quebec at 3 o'clock this morning. He advised the removal of the Duchess to the Royal Victoria Hospital for observation and treatment.

The Duke of Connaught and the Princess Patricia came up from Quebec to Montreal on the special train with the Duchess.

The following official bulletin was issued to-night:

"Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught is suffering from an attack of peritonitis, of, up to the present, obscure origin. Under the circumstances it was deemed advisable to move her Royal Highness to the Royal Victoria Hospital at Montreal for further observation.

"Very satisfactory arrangements were made at the shortest notice with the Canadian Pacific Railway for the conveyance of the whole of the Governor General's household from Quebec to Montreal. Her Royal Highness stood the journey fairly well, sleeping during a great portion of the time.

"H. C. LOWTHER,
"Lieutenant Colonel,
"Military Secretary."

Special to The New York Times.

QUEBEC, Quebec, June 4.—The Duchess of Connaught is believed to be more seriously ill than reported to the public. She was removed to Montreal this afternoon, ostensibly for observation in the Royal Victoria Hospital, but probably for an operation.

It now transpires that the Duchess was confined to her bed all day yesterday, though it was not till evening that any alarming symptoms developed. In fact, the Duke attended the King's birthday dinner last night, given by the Lieutenant Governor of the province, at Spencerwood. Even this morning nothing could be learned beyond that the Duchess was suffering from a slight indisposition.

The Duke left her for a short time to visit Laval University, where he received the degree of D. C. L., and on his return, after consultation with the physicians, the immediate return of the royal party to Montreal was decided upon.

AID MILLET MEMORIAL FUND.

Alma-Tadema, Sargent, and James Support Appeal in London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 4.—The Trustees of the American Academy at Rome, of which F. D. Millet, who was one of the Titanic victims, was Chief Administrator, are appealing for contributions to a fund to establish a chair of fine arts at the academy in Mr. Millet's memory.

The appeal is supported by Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, R. A.; John S. Sargent, R. A.; Henry James, and others.

LONDON, June 4.—The delegates to the Congress of Americanists, which closed to-day, were the guests to-night of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid at a dance and reception at Dorchester House.

Among the guests invited to meet the delegates were representativs of the learned and scientific societies of London, the Ministers and Legation staffs of all the South American republics, and a large number of society persons. The delegates to the International Conference on Wireless Telegraphy, with their wives, were present, as were also J. Pierpont Morgan and Andrew Carnegie.

This was the first of a number of social affairs which will be given in honor of the delegates before they leave England.

ISMAY, UNDER FIRE, JUSTIFIES SPEED

PLANNED BEFORE THE START

LONDON, June 4.—Searching questions were asked of J. Bruce Ismay, President of the International Mercantile Marine Company, when he appeared to-day before the Court of Inquiry on the Titanic disaster. The Attorney General and the representatives of various organizations participated in the rapid fire of questions, and Lord Mersey, President of the court, made some very pointed inquiries.

The most conspicuous feature of Mr. Ismay's evidence was his flat-footed approval of Capt. Smith's course in driving the Titanic at full speed, despite the warnings about icebergs.

He told the Court that it had been planned to drive the Titanic at full speed during a few favorable hours of her maiden trip. He thought Capt. Smith fully justified in going at full speed through the ice region, so long as weather conditions made it possible to see ice ahead.

Lord Mersey repeated the question whether the witness thought the Captain justified in his action, adding, "At either day or night?"

Mr. Ismay replied in the affirmative.

He said the chief engineer had arranged before the steamer left Queenstown for New York, that the vessel would be driven at full speed for a few hours either Monday or Tuesday.

Attorney Gen. Sir Rufus Isaacs asked if that would necessitate additional boilers being lighted. Ismay said it would. The Attorney General pointed out that Fireman Barrett had testified that additional boilers were lighted on Sunday morning.

Ismay told of the wireless dispatch which Capt. Smith handed him on Sunday, indicating that the Titanic would reach the ice region on Sunday evening. The collision occurred just before midnight Sunday night.

The witness insisted that he had nothing to do with the navigation of the ship, but Sir Rufus continued to press him regarding the speed of the Titanic and the ice warnings which were received. Ismay's answers were not always clear, which led Lord Mersey to remark sharply: "Answer the questions!"

The Attorney General complained that the witness was not frank, whereupon the attorney for the White Star Company protested that Sir Rufus's remark was uncalled for.

Ismay said he had not attached importance to the Captain's action in handing him the message from the Baltic regarding the ice, and he had no conversation with any officer regarding the message.

"Why did the Captain hand it to you?" asked the Attorney General.

"For my information," was the reply.

To questions about the Titanic's speed, aiming to show that he had something to do with it, Ismay declared he had spoken to no one about the matter after his conversation with the Chief Engineer at Queenstown. He said he had not expected the Captain to slow down, so long as there was nothing to prevent the men seeing the ice.

Sir Rufus asked: "What was the use of going at full speed through the ice at night?"

Mr. Ismay replied: "I suppose they wanted to get out of the ice. "They would not want to wait and take a chance of fog coming down. They were justified on a clear night in going through as quickly as possible, and even might have increased the speed to get out of the ice field."

At the afternoon session, Sir Rufus Isaacs examined Ismay regarding his experiences after the ship struck, and he told substantially the same story as he did before the Senatorial Committee at Washington. The witness said he realized that the ship was sinking an hour and a half after she struck, but did not tell anybody. After helping those women and children, who were on deck, into the boats he did not go below to find others.

Nobody, Mr. Ismay declared, could have got into his boat after he entered, as it was being lowered at the time. His boat rowed toward a light, which he believed was that of a sailing ship. It was not the Californian's light, as she was on the other side of the Titanic.

After Sir Rufus had finished questioning the witness, the attorney for the Seamen's Union inquired:

"What right had you, as an ordinary passenger, as you have described yourself, to dictate to the Captain concerning the speed of his ship?"

The attorney also asked about statements by Alexander Carlisle, director of Harland & Wolff, shipbuilders, that he prepared plans for the accommodation of forty lifeboats on the Titanic, which the company rejected.

Mr. Ismay said that he had never heard of the plans.

"If those in charge of the ship had warned the passengers that the ship was sinking could not more have been saved?"

Lord Mersey interrupted, saying: "That is a question for me to decide. He expressed the opinion that if forty men had been on the lookout they could not have seen the iceberg in time to avoid a collision, and glasses would not have helped them.

The attorney for the Seamen's Union began to examine the witness concerning the running of the ship, when Lord Mersey declared the witness was not responsible for running the ship and had no right to interfere. He might have suggested more speed, but that was all.

To the attorney for the Dockers' Union Ismay admitted that the message from the Baltic had to do with navigation and he kept it in his pocket for five hours "thoughtlessly."

"Didn't you think as Managing Director of the company, responsible for the number of boats aboard, you should have been the last except the Captain to leave the ship?" asked the attorney.

"I do not," replied the witness.

Lord Mersey broke in. "That is not a question that should have been asked. You may make that remark in your speech, but do not ask the question."

"Why did you not try to get other people on deck?" inquired the attorney.

Mr. Ismay answered: "I presumed others were sending them up."

Lord Mersey here said to the attorney: "Your point is that he should have remained on the ship until she went to the bottom. There is no answer to that."

The attorney for the White Star Company will examine Mr. Ismay to-morrow. Re-examination by Sir Rufus Isaacs will follow, after which the designers of the ship will give evidence.

CHAMPION DANCER SLAIN.

Shot from Behind as He Walked with Cousin in the Bronx.

Shot by an unidentified man who is said to have escaped in an automobile, Rocco Csano of 504 Morris Avenue, the Bronx, died last night in Lebanon Hospital. Csano was walking up Morris Avenue with his cousin, Nicholas Sanducci of 241 East 151st Street. They were between 150th and 151st Streets when a stockily built man, evidently an Italian, stepped from the doorway of No. 585, and, going close behind Csano, shot him in the back. As the victim turned a second shot struck him in the jaw, and as he staggered forward two more shots struck him in the back before he fell. When Csano turned after the first shot struck him he cried out, "Joe, you have killed me."

Sanducci told the police he knew no reason for the assassination of his cousin, and he declared he did not know the man who did the shooting. He was detained as a material witness.

Csano, the police learned, was a champion dancer, and he had won prizes for dancing in many halls in this city. For that reason they believe that jealousy was the motive for the crime. Another report that reached them was that Csano had "got his" from two of the downtown gangsters.

Csano and Sanducci took part in a fight just before the former was killed. They were passing the engine house in 150th Street, near Morris Avenue, where a fight was in progress. From being spectators they became participants, and Sanducci, it was said, was beaten before they reached the avenue. The police believe that this fight had nothing to do with the killing of Csano.

MILLET PICTURES ON VIEW.

Metropolitan Museum Pays Tribute to Late Artist in Its Bulletin.

A reproduction of a bas relief of Francis Davis Millet, the artist, by Augustus Saint-Gaudens, is the front page illustration of the Bulletin of the Metropolitan Museum this month, and following is a tribute to Mr. Millet, who lost his life on the Titanic while returning from Rome, where he had taken part in the reorganization of the American Academy of Arts.

Mr. Millet was a valued member of the Museum, on the Board of Trustees and Executive Committee, and a member of the standing committees on Painting and on Purchases. He was Chairman of the Committee on Decorative Art, a department which has been much enlarged the last few years, and did effective work on it. The Museum considers the death of Mr. Millet one of the greatest losses it has ever sustained, and it is hoped that a suitable memorial to him may be placed in the Museum.

Director Edward Robinson of the Museum, who, on account of a breakdown from overwork, sailed for Europe early in the Spring, has recovered his health. Mr. Robinson when heard from was about to leave France to return to Italy, where he had been spending some time. At the end of August he will sail for New York.

Among the pictures of the Hearn collection visitors to the Museum will see this month a new canvas by the late Mr. Millet, a present to the Museum by Mrs. Clarkson Cowl, in memory of her brother, Arthur Hoppock Hearn. The title is "An Old Time Melody," a woman playing on a mandolin while her music book rests upon the table beside which she is sitting. This is the second picture by the artist in the Museum. A picture of Mr. Millet standing by William Gedney Bunce has been presented to the Museum by Mr. Bunce. Another picture given in memory of the late Mr. Hearn is to be seen in the Recent Accessions Room, "The Ring," by John W. Alexander, given by Mrs. Mary Hearn Greims. It is a picture of charming colors, a young woman with a big Summer hat resting in her lap, while with dreamy interest she twirls a ring in her fingers.

"The Night Mission," purchased from the artist, Jerome Myers, is also to be seen in the Recent Accessions Room. The painter, who has for several years been showing the possibilities of New York as a subject for the brush, depicts here a night religious service in a tent in a vacant lot in a tenement house district. It is a real scene of New York life. An interesting picture by Leon Dabo—a canvas of big spaces and blue stones—is the "Rocket Shower." It shows a calm blue sea and far away sky, with tiny human figures on the shore in the foreground, while an illuminated city, miniature as it appears in the distance, looks like a fairy land. From the blue sky above, in a graceful, gay fountain, falls the rocket shower.

A large and important painting of Moretto da Brescia is the "Pieta," bought at the sale of the Weber collection in Berlin last February. This is an altar piece, one of the most artistic achievements of its epoch, and valuable for the museum, as these pictures are difficult to obtain, being in churches as permanent collections. It shows the Christ in the centre in the arms of the Virgin Mother, mourned by the three Marys. There are figures of saints and others wearing robes of deep rich coloring.

Some fine early Chinese bronzes have been secured for the museum, and there are reproductions of Minoan frescoes, interesting examples of the only recently known Cretan culture. Among smaller pieces in the Recent Accessions Room is some old salt glaze, a small dish, a delightful camel teapot, and an Admiral Vernon mug, said to be the earliest piece in the museum collection. This was the brave commander:

Admiral Vernon, that brave fellow,
With six ships took Porto-Bello.

"The Vicar and Moses," by Ralph Wood, are shown in the pulpit in an old Staffordshire piece, and there are other interesting small figures. There are two beautiful Worcester mugs in the rare green color, and a Sèvres mug and saucer are of the earliest period of that ware.

WILL PUT ORIENTE UNDER MARTIAL LAW

GUNBOAT TO GUARD SANTIAGO

Rumors of Negro Plotting Alarm Havana and Strong Police Measures Are Taken.

HAVANA, June 4.—The Senate Committee on Laws reported this evening a recommendation for the passage of a law empowering President Gomez to suspend the Constitutional guarantees in the province of Oriente. The suspension of the guarantees in the other provinces was regarded as unnecessary and inadvisable, especially on account of the approaching elections. The bill will doubtless pass both Houses to-morrow afternoon.

The text of the report of the committee was immediately communicated to the American Minister, Arthur M. Beaupre. Ross E. Holaday, the American Consul at Santiago, expressed the opinion to Gen. Monteagudo, the Cuban Commander in Chief, to-day, that it would be advisable to have an American warship at Santiago, where there is acute alarm on account of the presence of strong bodies of rebels, some of which have advanced to the outskirts of the city and exchanged shots with the police and volunteer guards. It is reported that the gunboat Paducah will reach Santiago some time to-night to act as a guardship.

Volunteers guarding the electric light plant at Santiago exchanged shots last night with a party of rebels who were attempting to destroy the plant. The rebels were driven off.

Government forces engaged the rebels near Blanquisal, wounding several and capturing horses, arms, and ammunition.

The town of Jarahuica, near Guantanamo, was captured by the insurgents, who sacked and burned it. They also destroyed several coffee plantations near by.

A correspondent, who has arrived at Santiago from Bayamo, reports that a train filled with refugees was fired on by a party of fifty insurgents near Hatillo. Many bullets struck the cars, but no one was injured. Rural guards on the train and passengers returned the fire, and it is believed killed two rebels.

Extraordinary police precautions continue at Havana because of the persistence of the rumors of an intended negro uprising. The police in the suburb of Jesus del Monte have been ordered to carry machetes instead of clubs. Many American families are arriving at Havana from the outlying districts.

Several arrests of suspected negroes have been made in Havana. One of these is believed to be an emissary sent by Gen. Estenoz to start an uprising in the western provinces.

Sixteen negroes, who were confined in the jail at Guanajay, Province of Pinar del Rio, escaped this evening, and fled in the direction of Marel. A detachment of rurales and a large number of armed citizens pursued them, and, it is reported, killed eight and captured one of the band.

The Government is still receiving applications for arms from loyal citizens in all parts of the island. Thousands of licenses to keep rifles and revolvers have been issued in Havana and practically all the men now go armed with revolvers. Business throughout the island is practically paralyzed, and Havana merchants are refusing to take the risk of sending goods into the interior, as a result of which many orders, placed in the United States and Europe, have been canceled.

SANTIAGO ARMS FOR DEFENSE.

But Refuses to Ask the Government to Seek Our Aid.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—While some reports indicate a continuance of lawlessness in the region of Santiago, Cuba, the State Department received a dispatch to-night, stating that the Santiago Chamber of Commerce this afternoon voted down a resolution urging the Cuban Government to appeal to the United States for the protection of property in general. The same body adopted a resolution, asking Gen. Monteagudo for arms to be issued to all responsible persons, and that a declaration of martial law be made.

That the rebel movement is gaining strength and conditions are becoming worse were the advices received from the La Maya Fidelity Company, an American concern at La Maya. This company reports the destruction of fields, buildings, stores, and the loss of live stock, by rebel operations

POVERTY BRINGS END TO FAMILY OF THREE

Mother and Son Kill Themselves and Cause Death of His 2-Year-Old Daughter.

WAS FORMERLY WELL-TO-DO

Woman Appealed to Charities Organization, Then Wrote Them of Resolution to Die.

Poverty which struck into her home at 246 Bradhurst Avenue, first by taking the larger portion of the food off the table, then by sending the family furniture piece by piece to a second-hand dealer, and finally by emptying the baby's bottle of milk, proved too hard a thing early yesterday for Mrs. Gabrielle N. Werner, a widow, further to combat. She entered into a suicide pact with her son Ansel, 26 years old, who had long been out of work, and the two in carrying out their plan caused the son's baby girl Yvonne, 2 years old, to die with them.

Before turning on the gas in their apartment on the second floor of the Bradhurst Avenue apartment house where they lived, Mrs. Werner and her son stuffed with cotton the window and door cracks and the keyhole in the outside door. As if to ease her final moments, they stuffed cotton batting into the nose of the baby girl.

When the three were discovered by Policeman Doyle, after he had waited for ten minutes on the fire escape to let enough gas out of the room to make it safe to enter, Mrs. Werner was found sitting in a rocking chair, her son lying on the floor beside a couch from which he had no doubt rolled, and the baby lying in its night clothes in its crib. An empty milk bottle lay beside the baby. There was no money whatever in the apartment, and hardly any object for which a market could be found.

The first expressions from the neighbors who flocked in after Policeman Doyle had opened the door were about the furniture. "My, I called on them often," said a woman who lived two flights higher up, "but I never saw their flat looking like this. They had such fine things, and seemed so well-to-do."

As the neighbors talked of their surprise at the condition of things, and recalled to each other that recently Mrs. Werner had talked to them a great deal about the higher cost of living and the cruelties it inflicted upon the poor, the doorbell rang, and a woman not known in the apartment house entered.

She said she was Mrs. Denning, an investigator from the branch of the Charities Organization Society located at 118 Lawrence Street. She was informed that she had come too late, but she took from her pocketbook a postal card which she said was the reason for her visit. The card read: "When you get this note we will be dead. It was too much. Please say nothing in the house that I was talking to you."

The postal card had been mailed Monday evening. Mrs. Denning said that Mrs. Werner made an appeal for aid few weeks ago. Mrs. Denning said that a conference had resulted at which she had stated that the baby was starving, and that her son could get no work. The baby, it was stated, was her son's, who was a widower, she having cared for it after her daughter-in-law's death a year ago.

The family had once been prosperous, and Mrs. Werner was deeply humiliated when she felt compelled to call in the Charity Organization. She had begged then, as she did in the postal card, to have the fact that she had done so kept a secret.

The Charity Organization Society declined yesterday to say what help had been extended to Mrs. Werner, giving as the reason that this was a confidential matter. It was intimated that some slight help had been extended.

Two other persons called shortly after the fact of the suicide was ascertained. They were Lena Cornand and Margaret Bauman of 502 West 141st Street. Miss Cornand, a sister of Mrs. Werner, showed to Policeman Doyle a long envelope containing some bits of baby's clothing, an industrial insurance policy, and a brief note in a woman's handwriting. The note, which was in German, read: "When you receive this, we will be dead."

Miss Cornand said that when she received the letter she was afraid to come alone, and so brought Miss Bauman with her. She was startled, as the others had been, to find the flat denuded of its furniture, and to learn that her sister had been in want. She had not been taken into her sister's confidence sufficiently to learn of the recent adversity and of the lack of food. Some insurance policies were found for small amounts, similar to the one sent to Miss Cornand.

Coroner Holtzhauser took charge of the case after Dr. Pratt of the Harlem Hospital had applied restoratives without success. It was stated that a daughter of Mrs. Werner had become separated from her, and that this fact caused her to worry a great deal. The daughter was said to live in White Plains, but her address could not be learned.

CITY LOSS ON FERRY DEAL.

Fosdick Finds Shortages on Contract Like One Proposed for Subways.

In a report submitted yesterday to Mayor Gaynor by Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick some sharp criticisms are made of the results of the bargain which exists between the city and the Brooklyn & Manhattan Ferry Company with reference to the Roosevelt Street Ferry. The Commissioner declares that unreasonable items are charged against the city, and that as a result of the first nine months of the arrangement the city should receive at least $16,334 more than has actually been paid to it by the ferry company.

The report, however, brings out also the fact that in the bargain with the ferry company the city has a close precedent for its proposed agreements with the Interborough and the B. R. T. on Subways. By an agreement entered into by the city after prolonged negotiation on Dec. 11, 1909, it practically formed such a co-partnership with the ferry company as has called forth the most bitter arraignment by counsel, who have been trying to get an injunction against the city to stop it from completing the bargain with the Interborough and the B. R. T.

Instead, however, of the city paying merely a preferential payment to the ferry company, as is intended in the case of the Subway companies, it was to make a monthly payment of $11,000, and then, after all expenses of operation and maintenance had been deducted, it was to divide the net profits with the company.

On March 19 the ferry company presented a statement showing the city's net profits to be $32,250, but making deductions which reduced the amount to $19,175. Commissioner Fosdick estimates that the city should have received $35,510, as well as a large part of the $6,629, which the company has charged the city for officers' salaries and legal fees.

The items to which the Commissioner takes exception when they are charged against the city's share include such matters as $1,470 for salaries paid prior to March 16 last year, when the city's contract began, the betterment of plant, roll-top desks, $20 fees for an architect, and $500 for a consulting engineer in connection with the Twenty-third Street slips of the company. Then the city, Mr. Fosdick thinks, should have had its share of the money paid for the sale of ferry-house privileges.

Bars Convict from Executorship.

Surrogate Cohalan announced yesterday that he would not issue letters testamentary to Noah Loder, named as executor of a $20,000 estate in the will of Thomas G. Sherwood. Loder is now serving a two years' sentence in Sing Sing prison for defrauding an aged clergyman. Charles H. Stoddard, a lawyer representing Loder, opposed the application of Mrs. Sherwood, the widow, for appointment as executrix. The Surrogate took the matter under advisement.

CAMPAIGN FOR A HOSPITAL.

Flushing and Other Towns Plan to Raise $100,000 in a Rush.

A whirlwind campaign to raise $100,000 in twelve days for a new Flushing Hospital was started with post-prandial puffs by prominent citizens of Flushing and the allied town's of Whitestone, College Point, Bayside, Douglaston, Little Neck, Corona, and Elmhurst, at a "We-Want-the-Hospital Dinner" in the old armory on Amity Street, Flushing, last night. More than 450 persons attended, and such of them as couldn't speak contributed or promised to, with the result that even this initial impetus to the big campaign netted the hospital which Flushing has set its heart upon more than $30,000.

At the dinner last night Marion J. Verdery, former President of the Southern Society, was toastmaster, and speeches were made by Herman A. Metz, former Controller of New York City, and now a Vice Presidential candidate; Job E. Hedges, who has announced that his eye is set upon the Gubernatorial chair; former Congressman W. W. Cocks, who bowed to the will of the majority and of Martin W. Littleton at the last election, and now, as he said last night, knows something about political hospitals at least; George P. Mellick of Plainfield, N. J., who told the Long Islanders how the Jerseymen raised a similar hospital fund of $133,000 in Plainfield in twelve days; William Menkel of Mount Vernon, who described the whirlwind campaign that swept together $106,000 for a hospital there in twelve days; County Judge Bert J. Humphreys, and former County Judge Harrison S. Moore.

Forty teams of ten men each and forty teams of ten women have been chosen to work through Flushing and the allied towns, each team taking a definite district, to make a squeezed lemon of it financially, in the interests of the hospital and its new building and equipment. These 800 workers will meet daily—the women at a noonday luncheon and the men at dinner in the evening—in the old Armory, where business men's meals will be served and reports of the day's work be made.

The progress of the campaign will further be shown by fifteen large canvas clocks posted at conspicuous points in the main streets of the various towns and illuminated by electricity at night. The face of each clock will be marked with notches representative of $10,000 apiece; and an arrow will show just how many notches have been attained for the greater glory of the hospital. They vowed last night that the arrow wouldn't stop spinning a second in the next twelve days.

"The watchword of the hour is going to be: 'The Hospital. We need it. We deserve it. We're bound to have it!'" announced Mr. Verdery, as Chairman of the Campaign Committee, last night.

KILLED AT PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Eight-Year-Old Girl Fell Out of an Upper Window.

Eight-year-old Rosie Mintz, whose parents live at 551 Graham Avenue, Williamsburg, was mortally injured yesterday when she fell about twenty feet from a window in a public school at Leonard Street and Driggs Avenue.

There was much excitement among the other children when Rosie fell. One of the teachers rushed to the yard and picked the child up unconscious.

Dr. Strahl found that the little girl was dying when he removed her to the Williamsburg Hospital. She died two hours later.

The window during warm weather was usualy left open, but screened, but on account of a broken light of glass, which was to have been repaired yesterday, the screen had been removed. Rosie left the ranks while the children were passing to another floor and went to the window to look out.

MEAT'S RISE TRACED TO REMOTE CAUSES

SOIL LOSING ITS STRENGTH

The increased price of corn and the consequent increased cost of beef, poultry and eggs is due to the increased use of corn in the manufacture of distilled and fermented liquors, as well as in the manufacture of breakfast foods, according to members of the Produce Exchange. Sixty per cent. of the 700,000,000 bushels of corn produced in this country last year is being used by the brewing and distilling establishments, they pointed out yesterday.

"The use of corn in the manufacture of distilled and fermented liquors is only eighteen years old in this country," said a member of the Produce Exchange firm of James W. and Andrew Spence. "It dates from the time the Standard Oil Company purchased Thomas C. Gaunt's process for converting the starch of corn into sugar. Before that time corn was little used in the manufacture of fermented and distilled liquors. But, immediately after purchasing the process rights, the Standard Oil erected five big plants to convert corn into barley malt. Now the Edwater plant alone of the Standard turns 10,000 bushels of corn into barley malt every day.

"More corn is being used to-day in the manufacture of distilled and fermented liquors than the entire National corn crop of twenty years ago. One Western brewery I know of converts five car load of corn into barley malt every day. It is no wonder, considering the new uses which have been discovered for corn in the last twenty-five years, that the price of cash corn a bushel has risen steadily from 60 cents to 85 cents in that period. When we complain about the increased cost of beef, poultry and other corn-feed products, we forget that there are 35,000,000 people drinking liquors distilled or fermented from corn every day.

"The areas in this country devoted to the raising both of corn and of grains of all kinds are much more restricted than they were twenty years ago, and the strength of the virgin soil has also departed. Ohio, when I was a boy, produced three times as much wheat as it does now. In the old days, thirty-five bushels of wheat could be raised to the acre on the Western farms where now only eighteen bushels an acre is being raised. Illinois couldn't sell all the grain she raised in the old days; now she hardly raises enough to support herself. The biggest barley raising State in this country now is New York. All the 60,000,000 bushels of barley which New York produced last year went to the distilleries.

Effect of Population's Growth.

"The population of the country has doubled in the last twenty-five years and the production of grain, and especially corn, has not kept pace with it. When irrigation has become more general and intensive farming has become more than a local matter, the grain production of the country may increase. But I don't believe that the time will ever come when the Nation's production of grain will be sufficient to supply all the manifold uses to which it can be put. This country recently exported 600,000 bushels of grain. When the grain raisers can get $1.16 for cash wheat aboard ship, they can't be expected to hold it back for consumption in their own country. This country now exports twenty-two per cent of the grain she raises.

"The packing and milling interests are not making the enormous profits which are commonly attributed to them. It takes five bushels of wheat to make a barrel of flour and when the price of wheat is a dollar a bushel, the flour people are not making much profit when they sell it at $5.75 and $6 a barrel. Swift & Co., in the same way in the quotations of their prices which they advertise every month announce that they are selling dressed beef at eleven cents. The retailers sell this same dressed beef at prices ranging from twenty to thirty cents. The profit, then, either goes to the retailers or to the cold-storage-using speculators."

As an example of the way hay and horse feed has increased in price, a Produce Exchange member said yesterday that in New Jersey last Sunday he had overheard a transaction in which one local farmer bought a load of hay from a neighbor at $22 a ton.

"The price of hay twenty-five years ago was $10," the Produce Exchange member said. "Many New Jersey farmers nowadays are bringing horse feed from the West. It doesn't pay them to raise it themselves as they used to, because their sons won't stay on the farms and the wages of hired help is high. The price of horse feed has thus gone up so high that livery stable keepers in the city tell me that they are not making a penny."

Grocery Price Changes.

The monthly prices published in Callanan's Grocery Magazine for May show the following changes in grocery prices in the last three years:

Raw cooking sugar	.08	.07
Finest New Orleans molasses, gal.	.70	.65
Black turtle beans	.09	.07
Lima beans	.09	.07
Green peas	.07	.06
Mild cheese	.22	.16—.20

L. J. Callanan, the publisher of the magazine, said yesterday, however, that the increase in the price of groceries as a whole in the last ten years had been slight, and that the chief increase had been in the prices of coffee, as a result of the valorization laws on Brazilian coffees.

NEW Y. M. C. A. DORMITORY.

The F. H. Cossitt Eleven-Story Memorial Opened in West 56th Street.

A handsome addition to the West Side Young Men's Christian Association in Fifty-seventh Street, between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, has just been opened in the new F. H. Cossitt Memorial Dormitory, which occupies a large plot on Fifty-sixth Street directly in the rear of the main building. Mrs. A. D. Juilliard, aunt of the late Mr. Cossitt, who was killed while on his honeymoon trip about five years ago in a railroad collision between Liverpool and London, gave the greater part of the $500,000 for the building and land.

The dormitory is eleven stories high, of an attractive architectural facade, and has accommodations for 308 young men. It is open only to members of the Association, and is the result of a systematic campaign carried on for several years by the officers of the Y. M. C. A. to provide comfortable living quarters amid pleasant associations for many of the young men who are living alone in the city.

The rooms are tastefully decorated and furnished, the furniture being of oak and the floors covered with rugs. Each floor has its special telephone service connecting by means of bells to the different rooms, by which the occupant is summoned to the main booth. This system, instead of telephones in each room, means a saving of about $15,000 a year in maintenance and entails little inconvenience. An entrance from the lobby on the ground floor connects with the parlors and reading rooms of the main Y. M. C. A. building. The dormitory is constructed throughout on a hotel plan, being fireproof, with all of the modern improvements, including vacuum cleaning and water filtering plants.

FLOOD RELIEF FUND CREEPS UP SLOWLY

LOSSES WILL CLIMB HIGHER

With Savings of a Lifetime Swept Away, Many Victims Were Nearly Insane When Rescued.

Contributions for the relief of the sufferers of the recent disastrous Mississippi floods continue to be received by the Mayor's Relief Committee at the Mayor's office, at the Red Cross office, and at the office of William D. Buckner, Treasurer of the Southern Society. More than $2,000 was received yesterday, making the grand total more than $23,000. The Mayor's committee has received many harrowing reports of conditions among the farmers in the flooded regions. These are extracts from one report:

"Financial loss has already climbed high, but it is certain that it will be much greater. Many farmers and planters have been ruined, and poverty stares them in the face. Their homes have been wrecked, their crops destroyed, and their horses, mules, and cattle drowned. In many cases the savings of a lifetime have been swept away. Unable to stand the strain, some of them are on the verge of collapse. Men rescued to-day were bordering on insanity. Some of them were in such a condition that they had to be lifted bodily from the special relief train and transferred to trains for other points further south of New Roads.

"The stories of hardships, suffering and misery that they told were harrowing in the extreme. One farmer wept and sobbed like a child as he told how he and his family had barely escaped from watery graves and how the savings of a lifetime had been wiped out. He and his family of six had stood in water up to their waists for twenty-four hours, most of the time with rain beating down upon them. Their house floated off its pillars and was wrecked. The wreckage lodged against trees in the yard, and they stood on the wreckage for a day and night until they were rescued. All of their property, with the exception of their naked land, was destroyed. Scores of other refugees told similar stories of hardship and suffering.

"Cattle speculators have flocked to this section for the purpose of reaping a financial harvest by buying cows and steers from farmers who are forced to sell their animals at a sacrifice. Representatives of the Government have served notice on the speculators that cattle purchased by them will not be transported free. Thousands of carcasses of cattle are floating in every direction.

"Among the white persons rescued was Mrs. Edmond Beauvais, the wife of a well to do farmer, who was compelled to desert her home on Bayou Fordoche, several miles west of New Roads. Mrs. Beauvais is the mother of ten daughters and one son, who is a mechanical engineer in California. Eight of the daughters, the youngest three years old, lived with her. They lost practically everything. The smaller children were barefooted and were clad in slips picked up as they were hurriedly rescued from their home. Mrs. Beauvais was almost crazed from her experience and grief over the loss of all the savings of a life time."

THE JACK PHILLIPS FUND.

Contributions of $99.50 Received—Appeal to Titanic Survivors.

The contributions to the Jack Phillips Memorial Fund received yesterday by C. C. Galbraith, the Chairman of the committee, in his office at 42 Broadway, amounted to $99.50, which was practically all collected on the Old Dominion, Clyde Line, and New York and Porto Rico steamships in the coastwise trade. This brings the total up to $1,681.65. Part of the money subscribed will be sent to England for the erection of a memorial to Phillips in his native town and the remainder will be invested in the Title Guarantee and Trust Company as a permanent fund for marine wireless operators.

JUDGE SCARES OFF BURGLARS

Blows Police Whistle—Had Just Lectured on How to Cure Crime.

Burglars were at work trying to force an entrance into the home of a neighbor of Judge Lewis L. Fawcett of the County Court, Brooklyn, when he returned home shortly after midnight yesterday morning, following a lecture he gave before an organization on "Crime and How to Cure It." Judge Fawcett blew a police whistle which he always carries and frightened the burglars away.

They had been at work on the porch of Henry Healy's house, 975 Park Place, trying to force a front window. Judge Fawcett lives next door at 973 Park Place.

SAYS GOMPERS SENT $4,000 BRIBE MONEY

AGAIN NAMES JOB HARRIMAN

Witness Says Withdrawal of Money Was Made on Pretext That Harriman Was Paying Off Mortgage.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 4.—The name of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, was dragged into the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow to-day, when State Witness Bert H. Franklin testified that Darrow told him that the $4,000 used in the alleged bribery came direct from Gompers. He did not intimate, however, that Gompers had any knowledge that the money was to be used for bribery.

Job Harriman was further linked up with the bribery conspiracy by Franklin, when he testified that Darrow had told him that Harriman, to cover up the withdrawal of the $4,000 from the safety deposit box on the morning of the Lockwood bribery, had retained $500 to apply on a mortgage. The testimony relating to both Harriman and Gompers caused a stir in the courtroom.

Franklin further intimated that if pressed by the defense he would make additional disclosures which would be no less sensational than those concerning Harriman and Gompers. This is the second time that Harriman has been mentioned by Franklin as possessing a knowledge of the bribery conspiracy. Gompers's name, however, has not before been directly mentioned. Franklin's disclosures were greeted by Darrow with broad smiles. The testimony follows:

"Where did you hold your first conference with Mr. Darrow after your arrest?" was Attorney Rogers's opening question.

"In the Higgons Building," answered Franklin.

"I would like you to relate the conversation you had with Darrow?"

"Do you want it all? If so I'll give it to you."

"Yes—all the truth," said Rogers with emphasis.

"Darrow said to me: 'Bert, if you plead guilty and get a fine we will give you $3,000 for your family,'" said Franklin.

"Did you ever have other conversations with Darrow about your defense in a higher court or any aspect of your case?"

"I asked Mr. Darrow if the rumors about the $4,000 being placed by the District Attorney in the safety deposit vault, marking it beforehand, were true. Darrow said: 'This is not true, for it came to him direct from Sam Gompers.'"

"Well," said Rogers, "that was the conversation you did not wish to tell, was it?"

"No," snapped Franklin.

"Well," said Rogers, "shoot over the other one."

"All right," remarked Franklin. "I asked Darrow if there was not a record kept at the safe deposit vault of Harriman's visit there.

"Darrow said: 'Don't worry about that. Harriman took $500 of the sum to pay off a mortgage, and in that way to cover up his visit.'"

"Well," remarked Rogers, "it was solicitude for Mr. Darrow that induced you to keep the Gompers matter and the Harriman matter quiet, was it?"

"Well, I would not have told it to you if you did not make me," answered Franklin.

Detective Robert J. Foster of Indianapolis, who was charged with contempt of court by the defense in the trial of Darrow, as dismissed in the Superior Court to-day on the ground of insufficient evidence.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, to-day said of Detective Bert Franklin's testimony in the Darrow trial at Los Angeles:

"That is an absolute falsehood made out of whole cloth. I do not know Franklin and I have never had any dealings with him. I did not send any money to him or to anybody. I do not handle any money. There is nothing to this, and it is absurd on the face of it. I have documentary proof which disputes his story. I do not care to give the correspondence out at this time."

FOUR OVERCOME BY HEAT.

One Victim Sent to a Hospital, the Others to Their Homes.

Four persons were prostrated by heat yesterday. The day was not so hot as was Sunday, but there was so litle breeze that the man who had to be out did not note much difference. Sunday's maximum was six degrees greater than yesterday's, which was 80 at 1:10 P. M.

The first prostration reported was that of Samuel Cohen, a tailor, of 153 Allen Street, who was overcome at Mott and Broome Streets, and was removed to St. Vincent's Hospital. Other prostrations reported were: Abraham Hoffman, a tailor, of 624 Sixth Street; Walter O'Brien, 15, of 211 East Thirty-fourth Street, and William Gillon, a laborer, of 113 Bowery. All three were taken to their homes in ambulances.

Forecaster Scarr predicted improved conditions for to-day and to-morrow. The forecast is for fair and cooler weather.

AGED MAN IN LEGAL FIGHT.

Mr. Hyatt, 83, Wants Grandnephew Ousted and Himself Put in Charge.

Mortimer A. Hyatt, 83 years old, of Ossining, began proceedings in the Surrogate's Court yesterday for his own appointment as administrator of the $300,000 to $500,000 estate of his niece, Augusta Hyatt, who died on March 12. The estate is now being administered by George Hyatt Robinson, a 26-year old nephew of the dead woman. She was an incompetent at the time of her death, and the estimate of the value of her property is based on statements of her committee that it consisted of more than $200,000 personalty and more than $100,000 realty.

Robinson recently applied to the Surrogate for the appointment of Townsend Burden, Jr., as a co-administrator. In opposing this application, Hyatt said that this was an admission by his grandnephew of incompetence to manage the estate. He asked that his grandnephew's application be denied, and that the Surrogate should remove the grandnephew as administrator.

One of the grounds of Hyatt's application is an allegation that his grandnephew has mortgaged $200,000 of his interest in his aunt's estate in return for cash advances. These advances, Hyatt declared, his grandnephew squandered.

BIG BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

ENERGY, CHARACTER AND SOME CAPITAL REQUIRED

The two-page announcement of the Essenkay Company in SATURDAY EVENING POST, May 25th, briefly tells the story.

After years of experiment and severest known tests, a perfect and economical substitute for air in tires is a guaranteed fact. Blowouts, punctures, slow leaks, rim cutting, etc.—no longer to be dreaded.

ESSENKAY, after five years' constant use, is as resilient and as sound to-day as at the time installed. It may last five, ten or twenty years longer—we don't know. ESSENKAY cannot crumble, harden, rot or bloom—is impervious to cold, heat, dryness or moisture—is ever resilient. Tires filled with Essenkay guaranteed to last twice as long as same tires filled with air.

Of the exceeding 3,000 Chicago pleasure and commercial cars now equipped with ESSENKAY tire filler, there has not been a complaint—nothing but enthusiastic praise.

The manufacturing company is owned by men controlling other enterprises, having $7,000,000 combined capital. Liberal free tests are permitted and each equipment is guaranteed for long periods.

We want three exclusive distributing agents for the metropolitan district. We want big, successful men—men capable of earning large incomes—men with sufficient means to pay cash for their stock, expense of exploitation, and all other local outlays.

Technical experience is not necessary. The process of equipping tires with ESSENKAY is very simple. Any man of ordinary intelligence can equip any size tire, of any make, in 30 minutes. They come ready to insert. A small shop and office is all that is required in the way of plant.

We shall expect the successful applicants for the Long Island and Northern New Jersey districts to each be in position to invest at least $10,000 if business demands it, and for the Manhattan, Bronx, and Westchester district (one district) at least $25,000 should be available.

Mind you, we ask no bonus.

Territorial rights are free—but we do require a guarantee of a certain volume of annual business and evidence that each representative has not only the ability to make his branch a success, but also has sufficient capital to finance it—the profits will fully justify it.

For appointment write or telephone General Manager, Essenkay Sales Co., Hotel Gregorian, 42 West 35th Street, New York. Tel. Greeley 5530.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Eleven to seven! A merchant who knows says that it costs him eleven cents per delivery by horses—and seven by Ford cars. The difference? Due partially to the tremendously increased cost of living for Dobbin—but mainly to the wonderful efficiency of the Ford.

Ford delivery cars cost but $700 f. o. b. Detroit—complete with all equipment. In mechanical construction they are identical with all the seventy-five thousand new Fords we are making and selling this season—a proof of their unequaled worth. This is THE Pipe Dream

Some time, somewhere, someone may make tobacco like Prince Albert—but that happenin is still wrapped up in the hope-so package, tied tight. No pipe-smoker ever went to a dream of a smoke like P. A. No cigarette smoker ever compounded a roll like he can make with P. A. That's because no other tobacco is made like P. A. The flavor is up in the big-money class and the stinger is cut out in the makin.

PRINCE ALBERT

is the cool, sweet smokins—steady burning, just packed with quality, and then hammered down. There's no use talkin, it sure has the jinks on any pipe or cigarette tobacco I've ever smoked, and I've smoked some, believe me. Yes! Come on—light up and go to it. The smoke-ry over on the corner sells P. A. and the bosun of that craft will tell you that it's a good bet and a fine smoke. Yes!

P. A. is produced by an exclusive patented process that takes out the bite. No, P. A. won't bite your tongue or burn your mouth.

All smoke-shops, in 10c tins, 5c bags, and half-pound and pound tin humidors, and pound glass humidors.

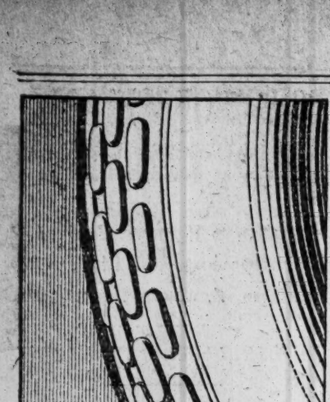
The Profile of a REPUBLIC STAGGARD TREAD is smooth but its cross-section is rough.



That is why this anti-skid tire stands high speed without excessive heating and yet presents ideal resistance to side-thrusts.

Other rubber stud treads, being imitators of this, are limited to less desirable stud designs; while many of them have a rough cross-section and give good resistance to skidding, they lack the smooth profile and smooth non-heating forward rolling of the REPUBLIC STAGGARD TREAD.

IMPORTED DOGS WIN AT MINEOLA

Mrs. Roy A. Rainey Sweeps West Highland Classes at Ladies' Kennel Association Show.

Society turned out in force yesterday for the first open air dog show of the outdoor season on Long Island, when the tenth annual exhibition of the Ladies' Kennel Association of America was held on the Fair Grounds at Mineola, L. I. The catalogue of events was a varied one, including all classes of dogs ranging from the tiny puff-ball Pomeranian up to the giant St. Bernards, and attracted the attention of a large number of prominent society folk throughout the day.

Mrs. Roy A. Rainey scored a notable victory in the class for West Highland white terriers with Endcliffe Snowman, a recent importation from England, when she defeated some of the best terriers in the country. In capturing the blue for the class she lowered the colors of the famous Rumpus of Glenmere, exhibited by Robert Goelet's Glenmere Kennels, with Miss Bird of Westbury being placed in reserve. The Goelet entry was a strong favorite, and the award of the judges, although favorably received, came as somewhat of a surprise. In another class for bitches the Rainey entry, Ornsay Rhoda, also scored over the Glenmere entry, Hussy of Glenmere, a champion of England and winner at the recent Brighton Beach show.

Pomeranians were well represented, and the struggle for supremacy in this particular division, which was entirely confined to women, was one of the features of the judging. Mrs. Frank T. Clarke's collection finally landed the lion's share of the ribbons by catching the judge's eye for the premier award in both classes for dogs and bitches. In the latter division she exhibited Fairfax Adger, securing the blue, and in the dog class she scored with Ashton Wee Oliver. The show will close to-day with the judging of the numerous unclassified specials.

Among the prominent persons seen about the grounds were Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Mrs. James A. Burden, Mrs. Charles Steele, the Misses Kathryn and Nancy Steele, Miss Elsie Ladew, W. Burling Cocks, Miss Anna Sands, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Minturn, the Misses Maud and Marion Kennedy, Mrs. J. E. Smith Hadden, Miss Frances Hadden, Mrs. Roy A. Rainey, Mrs. A. MRS. BARLOW RETAINS LEAD.

Philadelphia Duplicates First Day's Score at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., June 4.—Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of the Merion Cricket Club duplicated her score of 85, made yesterday, in the second round of medal play for the championship of the women's Eastern Golf Association at St. Martin's. Her total of 170 for the two days is 16 strokes less than her nearest competitor, Miss Grace Semple of St. Louis, who made 93 on both days.

Miss H. S. Curtis of the Essex County Golf Club covered the course to-day in 88 strokes, making her total 187. Miss Enith Noblitt of Wilmington is fourth, with a total of 188, although her score of 88 yesterday was next to lowest.

Miss Browning In Tennis Form.

Miss Adelaide Browning of the Ardsley Club yesterday won her place in the finals of the Amackassin Cup singles on the lawn tennis courts of the club at Yonkers. By the most notable victory that she has ever achieved in her career Miss Browning disposed of Miss Marie Wagner, the National indoor champion, in straight sets, by the score of 6—3, 10—8.

S. Howard Voshell and Frederick C. Baggs added the Manhattan doubles championship title to their list yesterday in the final of the tournament on the courts of the New York Lawn Tennis Club, at Columbia Oval. The pair defeated Wylie C. Grant and Arthur H. Freedman after five fast sets by the score of 6—3, 6—8, 6—3, 5—7, 6—3.

Raymond D. Little again had a narrow escape yesterday on the courts of the Englewood Field Club at Englewood, N. J., where G. A. L. Dionne forded him to the limit of three sets before Little won at 6—2, 4—6, 6—3. Two weeks ago Joseph C. Condon put Little through the same grilling at the West Side Club.

Olympic Revolver Trials.

The Olympic trials for pistol marksmen were held at Peekskill yesterday, twelve men taking part in the competition. The rules of the Olympic matches permit either pistols or revolvers, but all the competitors yesterday used pistols.

The six men who qualified for the team are as follows: A. B. Lane, J. A. Dietz, and H. Roedder of New York; P. J. Dalton of Springfield, Mass.; T. Le Boutillier of Garden City, L. I., and A. G. Sears of Beverly, Mass. The performances of the men who qualified were excellent, many having unusually high scores.

YOUR next highball should be a Scotch —and if made with "King William" you will never be satisfied with any other.

Rare Bargain in a Renault

Here is a five passenger Renault at an attractive price. We have it to offer because its owner, a well known physician, bought a larger Alco. The Renault, as everyone knows, is a leading foreign motor car. This one is particularly adaptable as a town car. Color, maroon. See it today. Demonstration on request.

HERRESHOFF LOSES IN GOLF TOURNEY

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 4.—Genuine regret was expressed here by golfers assembled to-day at Westward Ho that Frederick Herreshoff, who has made himself a great favorite, should, after traveling all the way across the Atlantic, find himself so completely out of form on the fateful day, suffering defeat by D. A. M. Brown in the first match for the British amateur golf championship. "I scarcely ever played worse," said Herreshoff at the clubhouse after his defeat, and everybody believed him.

Herreshoff failed entirely to live up to his reputation. He drove poorly, getting neither length nor straightness, and was frequently outdistanced by his opponent.

Brown, who is by no means a long driver, although a fine golfer, following Herreshoff's match, writes: "The kindest thing that can be said of the match is that Herreshoff lost because he placed badly. If he had not been Herreshoff, with a terrifying reputation, he would very likely have suffered a worse defeat. He is a dashing player, who seems to take the least possible care with shots. He was the only player in the tournament who wore canvas shoes. He prefers clubs unpolished, with rust on them, black with age and worn smooth."

Brown had to spend some time picking pieces of rushes out of his legs and hands. These clung to him as mementos of visits to the bunkers.

Herreshoff won the twelfth hole, but not because he played good golf. He topped his drive into the rushes and tried to get out. He failed, but eventually picked up and dropped. He foozled his approach, and was short of the green. Brown hooked his second shot into the rushes. After hunting for it five minutes and abandoning the search, he gave Herreshoff the hole. "Rotten hard luck," he said, to which Herreshoff replied, "It's criminal."

W. C. Vanderpool, the only other American competing, met a similar fate at the hands of H. L. Nicholls of the Royal North Devon Club, being beaten by 9 up and 8 to play, and so the American competition was short-lived.

The golf feature of the day was splendid displays by H. H. Hilton, who attracted the largest crowd of followers in the morning, and had as his opponent Elger, but never found it necessary to extend himself. But in the afternoon he met a worthier opponent in Dick, who was able to carry the match to the seventeenth hole before being beaten.

U. S. LEAGUE QUITS.

"Third Major League" Succumbs After One Month of Play.

The promoters of the United States League have at last seen the handwriting on the wall and the league has made its final gasp. At a conference just closed in Pittsburgh it was decided to make no further effort to string along with a losing proposition. Lack of attendance in practically all the cities of the circuit is responsible for the failure of the organization.

The United States League was the pet scheme of William Abbott Witman of Reading, and he succeeded in inducing moneyed men in seven other cities to join him. His project was to form a third major league. It was generally expected to die like all proposed leagues but to the surprise of all close followers of the game grounds were secured in every city, players were recruited and the season opened on schedule, May 1. It had been a hard struggle and the present situation will occasion no surprise.

BOUTS AT ST. NICHOLAS.

Big Crowd Sees Charley White Nose Out a Victory Over Shugrue.

"Charley" White of Chicago outpointed "Joe" Shugrue of Jersey City, "Tommy" Houck of Philadelphia gained a draw with "Packey" Hommey of New York, and "Eddie" O'Keefe of Philadelphia defeated "Joe" Coster of Brooklyn in the three ten-round bouts at the St. Nicholas Athletic Club last night. All three bouts went the full ten rounds and furnished plenty of fast action. The Houck-Hommey contest was particularly fast, and at several stages the crowd, which comfortably filled the spacious rink, was in an uproar.

The White-Shugrue bout was the feature affair and was put on last. White had never before appeared in a bout here, and he proved himself clever, a hard puncher, and an exceedingly clever boxer. His margin of victory over Shugrue last night was not very wide, as the Jerseyite overcame by his ruggedness and persistent attack much of his opponent's superior cleverness. White as a boxer far outclassed Shugrue, but he lacked the stamina and the fighting instinct of the Jerseyite. The Chicagoan's best punch was a left hook, which he landed often on Shugrue's stomach and occasionally on the Jerseyite's face. He also showed considerable punching power in a straight right, which he crossed over with good effect after landing with his left. He opened a cut over and under Shugrue's left eye and had "Joe" bleeding from the mouth. White bore no marks at the finish, but he bled from the mouth during a greater part of the bout.

Toronto Wins Lacrosse Game.

BALTIMORE, June 4.—Toronto University's lacrosse team by superior stick work defeated Mount Washington here to-day, 4 to 2. The score was 2 to 1 in Toronto's favor at the end of the first half.

¶ Less than one year ago we announced the Stearns-Knight car. Since that time Stearns sales have shown a most remarkable increase. The success of the Stearns-Knight has astonished the entire automobile world. The increase over last year's business is phenomenal.

¶ Hundreds of Stearns-Knight cars are running in New York. There are plenty to tell you what this car means. Here are the names of some of them.

¶ Ask these owners about the Stearns-Knight car. Let them tell you of its wonderful flexibility, power, ease of riding over the roughest roads, and its silence.

¶ Then come and see the car itself. Examine the engine—and the chassis in its entirety.

¶ Ride in the car itself. Subject it to all the tests you know. Judge of its sterling qualities in traffic, on hills and out along the open country roads.

¶ Then you will know what the combination of Stearns and Knight means to the critical owner.

¶ Come and see the Stearns-Knight. The new series cars in all models have arrived. Our demonstrators are at your service at any time.

UNPRINCIPLED POLITICS.

The strategists of Congress have managed affairs so that there is not a chemical trace of popular interest in two measures which ought to command attention. The people understand that there is no intention and no chance that the tariff will be dealt with on its merit at this time. Under such conditions it would be well enough to make such a declaration of party intentions that people could choose between the two parties. But the organizers of stupidity in politics have coupled together antagonistic principles in such a manner that it is impossible for the dullest not to perceive the lack of straightforwardness and of sagacity in our legislators.

There is an explanation, of course, of the manner in which the Democratic metals tariff was made to carry a Republican rider annulling the chance that through reciprocity Canada's surplus foodstuffs might be made to reduce the cost of living, but the explanation is less important than the fact. A bill to reduce the tariff cannot properly be combined with a rider to make sure that the tariff on the necessaries of life shall not be reduced. The ideas cannot be made to mix any more than oil and water, and those mixing unmixable principles of tariff reform convict themselves of lack of conviction on the subject. A combination which enables each party to point the finger of scorn at the other is nothing to go to the country on. The Republicans who absented themselves in order that the Democrats might put the President "in a hole" are properly paid by the rejection of the rider which repeals the best thing the Democrats have done in the line of their tariff professions. The Democrats lose their chance of embarrassing the President, and the Republicans are made to seem willing to tax food. There is no perception shown by either side of the delicate position of reciprocity in Canada. Tariff burdens can be increased only by legislation in Canada, but tariff burdens can be lowered by a simple order in council. Canadian reciprocity might be made effective any day, and the Borden Government sorely needs such a life preserver. Canada cannot be carried against reciprocity again, and it is conceded that it was not carried on the merits at the last election. Never was there a better chance for a Government to snatch victory from defeat by admitting its error and stealing the political clothes of its opponents. The Ministry's alternative is a short and stormy life, and a defeat at its end.

With Canadian affairs in this delicate condition it is sheer waste of opportunity to reject the reciprocity which we ordered with such acclaim. There is neither rhyme nor reason in such politics, and the country cannot be expected to be interested, or even to understand it. Both parties lose prestige by such action, and there is impartiality of blame. It is in this manner that sound tariff reform sentiment is wasted, and that the slow years pass without the people seeing their mandate fulfilled.

MR. STOVER'S NEW SCHEME.

People who know him well say that Park Commissioner STOVER is a most estimable man and full of benevolence. He is out of place, clearly, as the custodian of public parks. Our city parks, and especially Central Park, do not need the care of a restless, imaginative man, however benevolent his intentions may be. They need to be preserved. Mr. STOVER, as we all know, has found the original plan of Central Park full of defects. He is not exactly like the person who says: "We need a new building for this or that purpose, and Central Park is the place for it, as there is plenty of vacant land there which belongs to the city." But Mr. STOVER'S own plans for the "improvement" of the Park, if ever carried out, would be as destructive as those of any witless park destroyer.

He once favored the idea of gridironing the Park with straight paths so that folks who wanted to walk quickly, east or west, would not be bothered by the winding ways. He has just set the seal of his approval on the erection in the Park of a huge building which would be entirely out of place there. Now he is planning a music hall. The Sunday concerts on the Mall, under the trees, have been highly popular for many years. But they bother Mr. STOVER. If he could build a big hall, the biggest in town, with thousands of seats, more persons could hear the music. Certainly. But why should his big free concert hall be built in Central Park? The answer is easy. There is plenty of vacant land there which belongs to the city. Why not build on it?

Thus, after many years, the old schemes of the People's Cathedral and the free opera house are revivified in a slightly changed form. Those schemes were born of minds which could not comprehend the utility of large open parks in the hearts of great cities. Since Central Park was laid out, in 1857, but one of the plans urged in opposition to the plan of its original designers has been worthy of consideration. That was the late ROBERT B. ROOSEVELT'S, to cut it up into building lots and sell it off. That was the perfectly sincere expression of a practical idea. The preservation of the Park as a park has been fought for year by year, sometimes with partial failure, as there are several buildings within its limits which ought to be removed. As for Mr. STOVER, he ought to be put in charge of an expensive cemetery. His fondness for architectural variety and building operations could then be satisfied.

SOCIALISM AND LABOR STRIKES.

The American Federation of Labor distrusts Socialism and avoids entanglements with Socialists. The aim of the trades unions is not the aim of the Socialists. Yet there are few labor movements in these later days in which Socialism does not play its part, and in which the influence of Socialism is not strongly exerted. Keen observers of existing conditions have discovered a Socialistic tendency to foment and encourage hopeless labor strikes, like that of the hotel waiters in this city, for the reason that defeated strikers are valuable recruits to the ranks of the discontented. The striking worker who is forced to return to his labors with his full demands unrecognized is supposed to do so with much bitterness of heart, and to be in the way of becoming a willing advocate of a radical change in the social system. The supposition may not be well founded. In many cases the striker is satisfied with the half loaf he has secured. The indications are that the waiters, or most of them, comprehend the impossibility of the recognition of their union.

The influence of Socialism in their strike, however, is clearly manifested in the pronunciamento of the Executive Board of the union touching the "unfounded and lying statements" of the "capitalistic press," and advising the strikers not to read the newspapers, but to depend for information and guidance on four Socialistic sheets printed in this city. "You are 100,000 strong here," says the pronunciamento. Surely there are not that many waiters and hotel workers who can be relied upon to join in such a strike. Only 4,000 or so have joined, according to the boasts of the union. There are probably 100,000 Socialists in town.

The reply of Typographical Union No. 16 of Chicago to the attacks made upon it for refusing to strike lately in sympathy with the pressmen and stereotypers clearly reveals the Socialistic influence in that strike. "The path of the trades union movement," says Mr. HARDING for the printers' union, "is strewn with the results of blunders which are worse than crimes." The printers regarded their contracts with their employers as inviolable, and refused to be stampeded by "misguided enthusiasts." Mr. HARDING directly charged that the pressmen's strike was engineered to increase the circulation of the Socialist newspapers at the expense of strikers, and declared that the Socialists had published false statements to discredit the printers and incite the strikers to violence. The Chicago situation may lead to an open rupture between trades unionism and Socialism. A clear understanding by all the trades unions of the evil influence the Socialists can exert in the efforts of the unions to better the industrial and social condition of their members is most desirable.

THE PROGRESSIVE DOCTRINE.

Now we know what a Progressive is. The Colonel has defined him, and the definition is illuminating. A Progressive is a person who loathes the Constitution, despises the Bill of Rights, and would not vote for a candidate who declared his faith in the fundamental principles of our Government. It is in his statement reaffirming the necessity of opposing the choice of Senator ROOT for Temporary Chairman of the Convention that Mr. ROOSEVELT presents the Progressive in his true colors. He informs the world that Mr. BARNES demands the election of Mr. ROOT as Temporary Chairman "as an indorsement of the doctrines enunciated at the Rochester Convention, doctrines not merely reactionary, but of such a character that no party professing them could carry a single State in this Union." Let us see what these reactionary doctrines are. The platform expressly repudiates the new doctrines of the recall of Judges and their decisions, of the initiative and referendum, and all that sort of thing, but its solid substance is embodied in the following passages:

> The Republican Party of New York, in State Convention assembled, hereby declares its faith in those fundamental principles of government established in the United States by the adoption of the Constitution.
> We believe that this is a self-controlled representative democracy, as illustrated by the entire course of our National experience.
> We believe that order is the prerequisite of progress, and that this National tradition must not be destroyed nor principle be sacrificed to opportunism.

If no party standing on these affirmations of principle could carry a single State in the Union, then, manifestly, the Colonel is sure of his election, whether nominated by the regular convention or not. He is the only man asking the nomination on the basis of a direct repudiation and casting out of these fundamental principles. This candid confession is enlightening and useful. We knew pretty well by inference what the Colonel was up to; now we have his word for it that he means the substitution of something new and strange for the old principles of government ordained by the American people and sanctioned by a century and a quarter of service.

We are very glad that Mr. ROOSEVELT has concluded to renew his warfare upon Senator ROOT. Acquiescence in the selection of that statesman for Temporary Chairman would have been not merely weak but grossly inconsistent. How can the Roosevelt Progressives accept a Temporary Chairman who indorses the detestable doctrines of the Constitution and of the Rochester platform? Moreover, as a candid foe of all the Colonel's aspirations to another term in the White House we rejoice at his decision to fight Senator ROOT because the decision is bad tactics and bad politics for him. It will force a test vote at an inopportune moment, very early in the proceedings of the convention, and upon a question likely to divide the Colonel's supporters. Besides, in fighting against the conferring of this honor upon a Republican Senator from the greatest State in the Union, upon the ablest statesman of the Republican Party, a man who successively held two portfolios in his own Cabinet, Mr. ROOSEVELT openly exhibits his contempt for the Republican Party, its traditions, and its leaders. It is an exhibition that all good men will welcome.

We have no doubt that the Colonel was perfectly disgusted when he learned that Mr. TAFT had urged upon the National Committee full publicity for the hearings and decisions in contested delegation cases. The contests are very numerous, but they are of a trumpery nature, most of them wholly without merit, and for that reason in a great majority of cases the Roosevelt contestants will be excluded, the regularly elected Taft delegates seated. If the proceedings were to be secret, the Colonel would make a prodigious uproar about the exclusion of his delegates. With the newspaper men present the country will be advised of the ridiculous nature of Mr. ROOSEVELT'S contests and his pretensions will be again exhibited in just that light that honest men desire shall be cast upon them.

As the convention draws near the Colonel's run of luck has somewhat changed. He wavers, he has made mistakes, his "bluffs" are "called," as in the matter of the contests, and finally he loses the six delegates at large from Ohio. Naturally, he denounces the doings of the Columbus Convention as fraudulent and a high-handed outrage. Every point made against the Colonel is, of course, a fraud upon the people and an outrage upon him. There are some indications that his mind is not working as clearly as it customarily does. Perhaps he has overworked it.

PUJO AND THE BANKS.

The Chairman of the House committee investigating the Money Trust asked the banks improper questions in an unlawful manner. Thereupon it is argued that the banks are to blame for the feeling caused by their declining to answer. We fail to follow the reasoning. Surely the Chairman of a committee of lawmakers, with a superfluity of high-priced counsel, ought to set the example of proceeding in a lawful and expedient manner. It is no part of a lawmaker's duty to arouse prejudice, in the manner of a pettifogger who might ask thunderingly, "When did you last beat your wife?" It was not proper for the committee to proceed as though it were prejudiced against the banks, whatever the fact may be, and it is not proper that in an argument over the committee's procedure the Chairman should make assumptions in anticipation of proof differing little from insinuations of unlawful or impolitic procedure by the banks. Especially is this so when the facts are, many of them, on record, or could be learned on inquiry of the Controller of the Currency.

Apparently the committee or its Chairman perceives some of these obvious things, for it is announced that the line of inquiry will be shifted to the New York Clearing House and the Stock Exchange. New York has no apologies to make for either institution. They have been investigated by State authority, the latter very recently. The Clearing House saved the Nation in 1907, and for its trouble was roundly blamed as the author of the panic. Possibly this inquiry is one of the sequels of that interesting incident in the course of which interior banks holding larger reserves than the Bank of England demanded that New York should send cash for their relief, although they suspended payments to New York. If the Chairman could be completely educated regarding the functions of the Clearing House we would forgive him his inquiry, and would insist that he should be retained as representative to defend it against those holding prejudices on the subject.

Mr. PUJO informed our Washington correspondent that the committee was not disposed to disturb business, but "was instructed to discover abuses, if "any exist." Are there, then, no known abuses which former Congresses caused and which the present Congress is willfully neglecting, although superfluously informed about them? We accept the disclaimer of disturbing intent which the Chairman thought necessary to make, but we repeat our opinion that its acts are contrary to its intention. It seems rather in search of scandal than of knowledge. The Chairman of the Clearing House has been quoted as saying that there is no organized resistance to the committee's inquiry, but if there were he would wish to join it. Those are neither light nor idle words, and from such a source are as severe a commentary on the committee as could be passed. For its troubles the committee has nobody to blame except itself.

AN EDUCATIONAL ROOFTOP.

On the roof of the Household Arts Building of Teachers College is a school which has "kept," rain or shine, in calm or in storm, through a freezing Winter and a chilly Spring, with thirty well-bundled and ruddy-cheeked children of rich parents, applying the principle of open-air public schools established in certain parts of the country. THE SUNDAY TIMES described at length this experiment last Winter, prophesying that it might have "far-reaching results." Since then the school has had thousands of visitors, and between forty and fifty open-air private schools have been started elsewhere, directly as a result of the success which it has achieved.

The teachers of this Columbia University school report that, during the worst Winter in forty years in this locality, the pupils have not spent a minute of school time indoors. No child has dropped out, physical gains have been altogether gratifying, and the children have been found by examinations to have gained rather than lost in scholarship, despite the fact that much less time has been consumed in actual study, the sessions lasting from 9 to 1 o'clock daily.

The first open-air school in this country, established in Providence, R. I., was an outgrowth of work by the Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. In Chicago open-air schoolrooms and kindergartens have been maintained by the public school system with notable success. The extension of the principle to the select private schools of the country is significant.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Hardly a Hero Deserving of a Triumph.

Accounts differ as to how many residents of Bath took part in the demonstration of joy that marked the return of a somewhat too famous financier to his old home in the little Maine city. The lowest estimate is 300, the highest 3,000—the first probably that of somebody with a prophetic apprehension of what outside comment on the curious episode was likely to be, the other a product of the moment's unthinking enthusiasm.

With the chances that the truth was somewhere between the two figures, it is evident that a good many people in Bath were glad to see Mr. MORSE again at liberty and, whether or not with fully recovered health, at least very far from in a dying condition. Certainly there were enough of them to make fair an inquiry into the exact nature of the "loyalty" to which he referred in thanking his fellow-townsmen for the very unusual honor he had received from them.

Of course it would not do to assume that many, or even any, inhabitants of Bath approve of a banker who does the things which Mr. MORSE was convicted of doing. Common sense no less than charity necessitates the alternative assumption that Bath doubts or denies the justice of that conviction and bravely believes that the boy it knew well, son of a family it had long had good reason to respect, was somehow the victim of a metropolitan conspiracy, devised and carried out by hostile, because jealous, New Yorkers. Bath also may think that Mr. MORSE was unlucky rather than wicked—that his intentions were admirable and his methods no worse than, or different from, those of men whom nobody has yet thought, very seriously, of indicting. Maine, too, may be just a little more fervent than the rest of New England in its appreciation of "smartness," and a little less careful as to how far that quality can be carried without deserving condemnation.

With all allowances made, however, anybody who followed closely the court proceedings, civil and criminal, that ended when Mr. MORSE went to Atlanta, will with difficulty avoid the feeling that Bath would have been better advised, would have shown better taste and better morality, had it contented itself with being quietly kind to a man who, whatever his faults, had placed it under some obligations. The circumstances of his return did not demand or warrant the music of a band or the cheering of the populace. This Mr. MORSE understood, as was shown by the modesty of his unannounced entry.

Not at All a Tale of Two Cities.

More both of amusement and of edification could have been drawn from the breaking of the Marnierre-Kennard betrothal had it been left possible to believe that the fracture was due entirely to incompatibility between Chicago and Boston. That is the explanation given out at the Western end of the engagement that was, and with it went certain details as to the alarming depression of mind that came upon the vivacious daughter of Chicago during a brief visit to the city and the home of her rashly selected "future." She simply couldn't stand a place and people so hedged about with tradition and convention—in other words, so poky.

And there was manifested in Boston a wise tendency to accept this explanation, with something of resentment, indeed, and yet with more than a trace of pride and satisfaction, for it would obviously be as little becoming to Boston to please Chicago as for Chicago to please Boston. Unfortunately, however, the Bostonian youth was not content, like his wiser relatives to let it go at that. To have done so would have been chivalrous, but an instinct deeper even than Bostonianism compelled him to reveal the existence of "another girl." That at once reduced the breaking of the engagement to one that might have happened anywhere and left lamentably little excuse for the giving of pain by disinterested commendators either to Boston or to Chicago.

As the case now stands, it is only too easy to see that what the Chicago maid couldn't stand wasn't Boston. To that, doubtless, she could have adapted herself with the wonderful flexibility of her sex, particularly as she had, or thought she had, a chance of living in New York later. What she resented was not pokiness, but infidelity, and she did Chicago credit by refusing to make public moan. Instead she let a humorous father do the talking for her. Had the unfaithful swain been equally wise he would have limited his remarks to a defense of himself and his family as Bostonian, which, after all, is a misfortune rather than a crime. He was too young, however, to confess that even in the eyes of Chicago he "wouldn't do"—he had to show that he would not lack for consolation, since he had thoughtfully provided it before the time of need.

That was not quite pretty, but—it is dreadfully comprehensible, and to understand is to excuse, or so the French say, anyhow, and they ought to know.

Phenomenon Like Explanation.

THOMAS HARDY, in accepting a gold medal—probably not for his Titanic poem—from the Royal Society for Literature, showed that he is getting along in years by lamenting the evanishment of a Golden Age that never existed. Since he said so, he must really think that carelessness with the pen is a distinctive mark of this era, and that there has been of late "an appalling increase in "slipshod writing that would not have "been tolerated a century ago."

Slipshod writing was tolerated a century ago, as Mr. HARDY could recall to his mind—of course he has only forgotten it—if he dipped into the literature of that time almost anywhere, and it could be called unfair, if it were not so natural, that he should remember only the works of that time which have "survived". But, having imagined his phenomenon, Mr. HARDY as easily imagined an explanation of it. The degeneration of British literature, he says, has been wrought by "the increasing influx of American journals."

Of any such influx there has been hardly a trace. The only change he sees in the London and provincial papers is that a few of them are at last doing with the news something like what the American papers began to do with it thirty or forty years ago—to put over it headlines of other than the dullest and easiest-to-write sort and to help the reader just a little to find what he wants without laboring through half a dozen columns of fine type unbroken even by paragraphs except at long intervals.

Some of these headlines, Mr. HARDY finds, he cannot understand at the first glance. That is, indeed, a serious fault in a headline, but even the most enigmatic of them probably tell him as much as did "Parliamentary Report" or "Foreign Correspondence," both of which still pass as informative in his favorite journals.

Not all of us can understand, at first glance or even at second, some of the things that Mr. HARDY writes in these latter days, but we know he is worth reading, just the same, except when he engages in the futile toil of praising the past at the expense of the present and prophesying a future even worse.

FITNESS FOR MARRIAGE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If your correspondent "X." will apply for a life insurance policy to any one of the big companies, and will honestly answer all the questions put to him by the medical examiner; and if as a result he succeeds in getting a policy, his Clarinda can safely accept that document as a clean bill of health, and need have no hesitation from the point of view of eugenics in intrusting her happiness to her beau. D. L.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent "X." in to-day's issue is worried as to the examination he wishes some doctor to make in order to determine his fitness for marriage. The matter is simple enough. If he is a normal man, suffering from no serious disease, either active or latent, who can say him nay? Any competent family physician could in an hour say yes or no to him. The difficulty for a man is not as to his own, but as to the woman's fitness for marriage. Almost any man, of himself, knows his fitness or otherwise long before the question of marriage becomes urgent to him. But there is a proportion of women which is absolutely unfit for the duties, to say nothing of the cares, of the wife. And the fact that some of them wish to get husbands, and know many ways to hide their shortcomings, should make X, Y, and Z, the men needing wives, pause. To get a doctor or any other competent man to advise as to this may be difficult enough. B.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reply to "X," allow me to suggest that he submit to examination by the young lady's family physician, and, if necessary or advisable, consult specialists designated by this physician. The physician of the young lady is charged with the bodily welfare of his patient, and is the natural guardian of her interests and those of possible future offspring.

Per contra, turn about is fair play, and the young lady should submit to examination by the physician of X. MEDICUS.

PATRIOTIC SONGS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In his communication to THE NEW YORK TIMES, printed to-day, "Ex-Bugler, U. S. N.," is entirely mistaken as to the motives, or absence of motives, preventing the Brooklyn audience from rising at the first notes of "The Star-Spangled Banner," as he evidently expected it to do. "Ex-Bugler shows that he is not a frequent visitor to New York and Brooklyn theatres of the cheaper class, particularly the vaudeville and moving picture houses. Those who know them are thoroughly disgusted with the custom of so-called "musical troupes" who depend for the only applause they can call forth upon a ragged and incorrect—but extremely loud and vigorous—rendering of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "Hail Columbia."

Patriotism does not have anything to do with it; it is the rebellion of a long-suffering public against the cheap and noisy "musical act" which drags into the mud the National anthem by its execrable rendering—simply for the purpose of eliciting a few handclaps. THEODORE M. R. VON KELER.

Adulterated Buttermilk.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I hope that the letter by "W. G. K." in regard to so-called buttermilk has been brought to the attention of some member of the Board of Health. For years past I have been drinking buttermilk in one of the downtown milk depots, but each year, with the approach of warm weather and a greatly increased demand in that particular place, the supply seemed to be stretched to meet the needs, and the stuff served tasted more and more like a weak solution of vinegar and water, whitened with chalk. So at the time when I would most like a drink of buttermilk it has been an impossible, if not even injurious, beverage.

MARK TWAIN ON TAFT.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Below is an extract from a letter of Mark Twain's, hitherto unpublished, to a young friend of mine, penned not long before his death, on the occasion of her recounting to him her visit to President Taft. X.

Redding, Conn., Monday, [March 2, 1909.]

I am very, very glad, dear ——, that you and Miss —— had such a pleasant time in Washington and had such an enjoyable meeting with the President. You can't help but like Mr. Taft. The country likes him and respects him; and I want him to make the best people in the country continue to respect him and every now and then dislike him—sure proof, in a public servant, that he is doing his whole duty, as he sees it, regardless of personal consequences. He has the natural gifts, the culture, the experience, the training, the sanity, the right-mindedness, the honesty, the truthfulness, the modesty, and the dignity properly requisite in a President of the United States, the most responsible post on the planet. In a word, he possesses every qualification the other one was destitute of. • • • S. L. C.

DESTITUTE CANCER CASES.

Dominican Sisters Hope to Complete Home for Incurables.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Dominican Sisters, the Servants of Relief for Incurable Cancer, have nearly finished their city home for destitute cancer cases of both sexes in New York City, for which $100,000 will be needed in payment. But $63,000 has been raised, and this paid to the various contractors. To avoid a mortgage the Sisters instituted a sublimated tag day by sending cards asking for dollar subscriptions to very many citizens, and hope for results that will help to accumulate a large sum; but the chief necessity in such matters appears to be to secure charitable waste paper baskets near the Secretary's chair so that the cards will not be absorbed and lost sight of in these fateful receptacles.

The Sisters have received a few replies, which are delightfully kind and genuine. Nevertheless, with that suddenness which characterizes all disaster, it became a matter of hours only to procure a mortgage, for otherwise the new St. Rose's, at 71 Jackson Street, Corlears Park, East River, would have petrified instead of developing like a rose. A mortgage of $25,000 has been incurred, which has the privilege of being paid off as fast as possible. The Servants of Relief will try to raise the money which they set out to procure, both by letters of appeal and by the printed cards, and gently suggest that a piece of embroidery might be thrown over the waste paper basket during the sorting of the mail that the cancerous poor may soon enjoy the comforts and breezes of their new home.

LOSERS IN HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE

One Whose Life's Savings Are Gone Suggests They Get Together.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of May 31 you give an account of the failure of Hampton's Magazine. I am one of the many who invested in the "Columbian Company," and in my case lost my life's savings. I was not looking for a "get-rich-quick" investment, but was led to believe that I was putting money into an honest business. Events seem to prove that the business was not properly conducted. I believe that were a sufficient number of the unfortunate losers to combine their efforts some part of the money invested might be recovered. And I know of no better method of establishing communication with them than through your valuable paper. I should be deeply indebted to you if you will give this letter space. E. STEGEMANN.

Poetry and Verse.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why so many and so long discussions as to what poetry is by so many learned people in so many places? And why is it always discussed as a matter of writing? Poetry is no more a matter of writing than painting, or music, or sculpture is, and it may be found in all of these. Verse is a different matter, which is confined strictly to writing, and, as you have frequent proofs in your daily mail, contains no more poetry, as a rule, than other forms of art.

More poetry has been expressed in that form than any other, possibly, because it is the most easily acquired form of expression. Almost any person of fair intelligence and some sense of consonance can by study acquire the ability to write perfect verse, which can not be said of painting, music, or sculpture. But to put poetry into verse may be done only by those who are born with the power which cannot be acquired.

We have fallen into the bad habit, carelessly or ignorantly, or both, of calling all writing in verse form poetry, but we have no more reason to do so than to call the other arts of expression poetry. I think a very casual study of the greater portion of our modern verse will corroborate this. It has the form, but it lacks the spirit, for verse is matter and poetry is spirit. W. J. L.

The Thirteenth Ship.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is there anything in superstition? In looking through The Eagle Almanac for 1911 to find the name of a certain steamship I noticed a list of the White Star Line steamers, and being surprised to find there were so many, I counted them and found that the Titanic, the latest one, was the thirteenth.

BACK TO NEW YORK.

A small New Yorker speaks:

Our Hattie she's been traveling,
And, my, she's seen a heap
Us homefolks only dream about
And go to in our sleep.
She's seen the Mississippi,
And she says it's mighty grand,
And ferryboats that crosses it
She's seen the Rocky Mountains,
And she says they are so high
The tallest buildings in this town
Can't touch them if they try.
She's seen the park called Yellowstone,
Where geezers boil and squirt,
And says our Central Park, to that,
Looks like a pinch of dirt.
She's seen Niagry Falls, she has,
And says when you are near
They make almost as loud a noise
As L or Sub. trains here.
She's been clean down to Floridy,
And says that everywhere
The flowers bloom, and oranges
Don't grow on fruit stands there.
She's seen the town of Washington,
The finest of them all,
As big as City Hall.
She's seen Lake Erie from the cars,
As level as a flat,
And says our biggest reservoir
She's seen Chicago, Illinois,
And says it grows so fast
The city limits, every day,
Is caught up with and passed.
She's seen the canyon of the Grand,
That's miles and miles around,
And says our Palisades, to that,
Is holes sunk in the ground.
She's seen so very many things
That we have never heard
Or read about that we just smile
And never say a word,
For we're so glad that Hattie's home
That we don't care a cuss
If there is what she tells about
Or she's just kidding us.

That the specific poison of malaria, hematin, a pigment of the blood, derived by decomposing the coloring matter of the red blood corpuscles, has been identified and can be artificially made, reproducing the "malarial paroxysm" of chill, fever, a stage of sweating, and concomitant symptoms belonging to each, is the subject of a paper published in The Journal of Experimental Medicine for June by Wade H. Brown, M. D., of the Pathological Laboratory of the University of North Carolina.

The discovery was in part accidental. Dr. Brown noted during his experimental work on the action of hematin that an injection of this substance into the veins of a rabbit "developed a very pronounced shaking chill, strikingly like that of malaria." Dr. Brown had already found, he says, that "the pigment elaborated from the hemoglobin of the red blood corpuscle by the malarial parasite, and liberated into the circulation of the host at the time of segmentation of the parasite, is undoubtedly hematin." He continues:

> It at once appeared possible, therefore, that we might find in this substance one of the hypothetical toxins operative in malaria. The investigation of this question now embraces a series of 90 observations upon the effect of the intravenous injection of alkaline hematin, 18 rabbits having been used for test purposes.

Dr. Brown extracted hematin artificially from three sources, rabbit blood, dog blood, and ox blood, and from these obtained two distinct types of solution, one "perfectly clear, deeply colored," and the other "a turbid solution that appears chocolate brown in thin layers, and under the microscope shows myriads of pigmented particles and droplets floating in an only faintly colored liquid."

Before beginning his experiments, he ascertained the normal temperature of each animal during the day. Then he injected into its veins a dose of hematin "comparable to that liberated into the human circulation" at the time that a new generation of malarial parasites appears. He says:

Produces the Typical Symptoms.

> Apart from the elevation of temperature in the experimental animal, the paroxysm of hematin intoxication presents other features which are of equal importance, and shows a strong resemblance to corresponding phenomena of the malarial paroxysm. For the first fifteen to twenty minutes following the injection of hematin the rabbit usually manifests a slight degree of restlessness, then crouches in a corner of the cage.
>
> In the second stage of the paroxysm the vessels of the ears contract, giving to the shaved ears a pale and cyanotic hue, while at the same time the ears become decidedly cold. • • • During this stage the animal's ears usually lie on its back, and the hair tends to become erect, presenting the picture of an animal that is cold. Meanwhile, the rabbit shows convulsive tremors or shivering, but rarely any continued or pronounced shaking. This stage of chill lasts from forty-five minutes to one hour, and is terminated rather abruptly by a dilation of the superficial vessels, the ears rapidly becoming flushed and hot.
> The animal now moves about the cage, or stretches out and remains quiet. Further than this, the third or hot stage of the paroxysm possesses no especial symptoms, and its limit can be fixed only by the course of the temperature, which may remain well above normal for several hours, or sink to normal within an hour. During the third stage and the latter part of the second stage of the paroxysm the animal shows a pronounced thirst, which is undoubtedly referable to the febrile condition.
>
> The most striking, and at the same time the most constant, of all these symptoms are the contraction and dilation of the superficial vessels associated with the corresponding lowering and elevation of the surface temperature.

Show Tolerance to Poison.

A significant feature of the experiments was that after repeated injections the rabbits acquired a resistance to the poison. "The animal acquired a certain degree of tolerance, which, in turn, might be broken when the intoxication was pushed sufficiently," the report says, "and it is the initial injection, with but few exceptions, that gives the maximum temperature reaction obtainable with a given dose of hematin."

If, as Dr. Brown believes, the liberation of this pigment of the blood explains the acute symptoms of malaria and other features of the disease, and they can now be artificially reproduced in animals, a field of experimentation is opened up which may decide the best methods of controlling these symptoms in human beings and in favoring their immunity. For the first time definite amounts of the characteristic poison of malaria can be employed. The experiments conducted by Dr. Brown were aided by a grant from the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

METHODIST PASTOR LIBERAL.

Thinks Conference Should Have Repealed Law Against Dancing.

The Rev. Dr. Frank L. Wilson, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Yonkers, of which Congressman John E. Andrus is a member, criticises the general Methodist Conference for not lifting the ban on amusements like dancing and theatre-going.

"The general conference is over," says Mr. Wilson. "We have now four years to conform to the rules of the church. The paragraph known as 200, formerly 248, still holds a place, but it might better have been left out. It never did the church credit, and each year its presence in the book of discipline is more and more a rock of offense and a stone of stumbling.

"Many of the ablest minds in the church have regarded it as unconstitutional, but on this we cannot express an opinion. Certainly the church witnessed its greatest revivals and spiritual growth before 1872, when the objectionable paragraph took its place for the first as a law of the church."

No Buildings in the Park.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Every New Yorker must appreciate Mr. Frick's generous and well-meant offer to the city to re-erect the Lenox Library at his own expense, but every New Yorker should resist, none the less, the temptation to exchange the ugly Arsenal Building in Central Park for this dignified substitute. You hit the nail on the head in saying the arsenal should be removed and not replaced with any other building whatsoever.

It is too late to expel the Metropolitan Museum from the precincts of the Park, but it is a thousand pities that it was ever put there to swallow up acre upon acre of space that never was meant to be put to such a use. If there is no other place for the disused Lenox Library, let it be demolished for good and all. Better waste a thousand tons of granite than half an acre of precious space in Central Park.

The Waiters' Strike.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Until the waiters strike against tips and in favor of honest wages, they will not be entitled to the sympathy which goes out to laborers seeking to better their condition. Let them first show themselves honest and self-respecting, and then they may have some ground of appeal to the good-will of the public.

So long as the waiters appeared to be themselves victims of an abnormal condition the evil was tolerated. But now that they have shown their strength and have formulated their demands, the situation has changed, and the fact that those demands include no attempt to get rid of the vicious and undemocratic practice of extortion under the guise of voluntary beneficence, robs the present strike of all merit. CITY'S PROGRAMME FOR KAISER'S FLEET

The Moltke, the Bremen, and the Stettin Arrive Here Next Sunday to Stay Till June 13.

The German squadron sent to the United States by the Kaiser, which is now at Norfolk, will arrive here next Sunday morning, and will remain in the Hudson until Thursday, June 13. The officers and men of the squadron will be the guests of the city. The programme for the entertainment of the visitors arranged by Mayor Gaynor, assisted by a committee of citizens appointed by him, and the local military and naval authorities, was made public last night.

The German squadron, which is made up of the great cruiser Moltke, flagship of Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, and the cruisers Bremen and Stettin, will be escorted to New York by the Second Division of the United States Atlantic Fleet under command of Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow, U. S. N. The news of the approach of the two squadrons will be transmitted by wireless to Rear Admiral Leutze, commandant of the New York Navy Yard, who will in turn notify ex-Mayor Seth Low, the Chairman of the Mayor's Committee, and Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, the acting commander of the eastern division of the army on Governors Island.

Gen. Bliss will then issue the necessary order for the saluting of the German ships as they enter New York Harbor. There will be no detention at Quarantine, as the vessels will be coming from an American port.

Arriving at New York the ships will be saluted by Fort Wadsworth and then by Governors Island. They will proceed with the American battleships to an anchorage off Riverside Drive. The southernmost vessel, the Moltke, will be anchored off the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, at Eighty-ninth Street. The Bremen and the Stettin will be anchored north of the Moltke.

Then will come the American battleship Louisiana, flagship of Admiral Winslow, the dreadnought South Carolina, and the battleships New Hampshire and Vermont, these four ships being all but one of those that comprise the second division of the Atlantic Fleet. The fifth ship, the Vermont, will not come with the squadrons.

The Schedule of Festivities.

This is the schedule of arrangements as announced by the Mayor's Committee yesterday:

On Sunday, immediately upon the anchoring of the ships, the representatives of the Mayor's Committee and the boarding officers from the navy yard and Governors Island will embark in a revenue cutter and proceed to the Louisiana, where they will be joined by Rear Admiral Winslow or his representative. They will then go to the Moltke and call upon the German Admiral. Boarding visits only will be returned.

The representatives of the Mayor's Committee in this call will be Seth Low, ex-Mayor of the city and Chairman of the Mayor's Committee; J. P. Morgan, Jr., Treasurer of the committee; Herman Ridder, Chairman of the Executive Committee; Gen. Howard Carroll, Chairman, and R. A. C. Smith of the Entertainment Committee; Dr. George F. Kunz, Chairman of the Official Dinner Committee; William Loeb, Jr., Collector of the Port, and Dr. Edward Hagaman Hall, Secretary.

Sunday afternoon is reserved by the German Admiral for calls from various German societies whose members are not at liberty on week days.

At 7 P. M. Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz and twenty-nine officers of the German squadron will land at West Eighth Street and be taken in automobiles to a banquet tendered by the Deutscher Verein at 112 Central Park South. Rear Admiral Winslow and aid and the Captains of the American ships have also been invited to this dinner.

On Monday, at 9 A. M., Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz will receive official calls from Gen. Bliss, commanding on Governors Island; Admiral Leutz, Commandant of the Navy Yard, and the German Consul General.

At 10 A. M. the German Admiral, his staff, the Captains of the Moltke, Bremen, and Stettin, Admiral Winslow, and the Captains of the American battleships will land at Twenty-third Street, where they will be taken in automobiles, escorted by members of the Mayor's committee and a squad of mounted police, to the City Hall, where Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz will visit Mayor Gaynor. All of the members of the Mayor's Committee have been requested to be present at the City Hall on this occasion.

Will Inspect the Michigan.

From the City Hall the visiting Admiral and his staff will go to Governors Island to return the visit of Gen. Bliss, and from Governors Island to the Navy Yard to pay a similar visit to Admiral Leutze. At the Navy Yard they will have an opportunity to inspect the Dreadnought Michigan, the champion target practice ship of the American Navy.

While the German Admiral and his staff are paying their official calls the German officers not engaged in these ceremonies will be taken on a sightseeing tour of the city by representatives of the Mayor's committee.

At 3 P. M. Mayor Gaynor will visit the Moltke to return the visit of Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, after which he will call on Admiral Winslow on board the Louisiana.

At 7 P. M. the German Admiral and thirty-nine visiting officers and the American Admiral and about the same number of officers will land at Eightieth Street and be taken in automobiles to the official dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria. The hour for dinner is 7:30 o'clock. Mayor Gaynor will preside. Bishop Greer will ask the blessing.

After Mayor Gaynor's address of welcome Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador to the United States, will propose the health of the President of the United States. Mayor Gaynor will then propose the health of the German Emperor, after which addresses will be made by Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, Rear Admiral Winslow, and Seth Low.

The Mayor has placed the boxes at the disposal of various military, naval, and civil officials for their wives.

German Admiral to Entertain.

In the evening about 750 German sailors and as many American sailors will land at West Ninety-sixth Street and be escorted to Sulzer Park, where they will be entertained by the Deutscher Kriegerbund.

On Tuesday Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, at 1 P. M., will give a luncheon on board the Moltke. From 3 to 6 P. M. there will be an invitation reception on board the ship. At 7:30 P. M. the visiting German and American officers will go to the New York Yacht Club, where a dinner will be given in honor of the German Admiral and his officers by Cornelius Vanderbilt.

At 3 P. M. 1,000 German sailors and 1,000 American bluejackets will be taken by boat to Coney Island for the afternoon and evening. Before this trip 200 of the German sailors will take part in an entertainment at the Naval Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association in Brooklyn.

On Wednesday at 9:30 A. M. the German Admiral and 20 officers and the American Admiral and invited officers will go aboard Commodore Blair's private yacht Diana at Eighty-first Street for a trip to Scarborough-on-the-Hudson, where they will be privately entertained by Mr. and Mrs. James Speyer at their country place. Returning, they will have dinner on board the Diana, and reach their ships at 7 P. M.

A little later the German Admiral and about forty officers and the American Admiral and about as many officers will land and be taken in automobiles to the Hotel Astor, where they will be entertained at a "Kommers," beginning at 8 o'clock, given by the Deutschen Vereinigungen of the City of New York.

On Thursday the squadron will sail for Germany. While it is here the official landing for the general use of the officers will be at the foot of West Eightieth Street, while the landing at the foot of West Ninety-sixth Street will be for the use of the enlisted men. The German commander has not yet notified the committee on what days the squadron will be open to public inspection.

The Mayor's Committee invites contributions of from $10 to $100 to defray the expense of the entertainment of the visitors who will be officially the guests of the city.

FORMAL WELCOME BY ARMY.

Picturesque Ceremony at Fort Monroe—Kaiser Thanks President.

FORT MONROE, Va., June 4.—On the picturesque parade ground inside the walls and moat of historic Fort Monroe, the United States Army to-day formally welcomed the officers of the German Emperor's visiting cruiser squadron. Men of the Coast Artillery Corps garrisoning the fort paraded in honor of Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz. The crimson edged uniforms of the American artillerymen and the uniforms of the German officers made a brilliant scene on the parade ground and the presence of many women in pretty frocks added touches of coloring.

Col. F. S. Strong, commanding the artillery district of the Chesapeake Bay, with headquarters here, received the distinguished German visitors and conducted them to the parade ground. Rear Admiral Ward and a large number of his officers accompanied the German officers. To the music of their band the two battalions of artillerymen marched in review before the German Admiral.

All through the army reservation to-day sailors of the German squadron fraternized with sailors from the American squadron and men from the fort. They seemed to be thoroughly enjoying themselves. Junior officers from the German squadron were escorted by officers of their own grade from the American ships.

Following the review and exhibition drill Rear Admiral Winslow had prepared a luncheon for the German Admiral and higher officers of the German squadron on board the flagship Louisiana. Launches from the American and German warships darted back and forth from the ships in the roadstead to the wharf. The waters were dotted with the little craft, and many excursion boats carried visitors to the foreign ships.

One of the features of the day was a garden party in honor of the German officers at the home of H. L. Schmelz at Hampton, Va., a few miles from here. This evening Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz and a number of his officers started for Washington to begin a round of festivities there.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—A cable message from Emperor William to President Taft thanking him for the hearty welcome extended to the German fleet in Hampton Roads was made public at the White House to-day. The Emperor's message was in answer to one sent by the President. It is as follows:

Neues Palais, June 4, 1912.

President Taft, Washington:

I thank you for your kind message and the hearty welcome which you, the American Navy, and the American people have offered to the officers and crews of my cruisers. I trust that the visit of my ships to your hospitable shores may further contribute to strengthen the good and friendly relations existing between our two countries.

WILLIAM, R. I.

President Taft's message was as follows:

H. I. M. the German Emperor:

I wish to express to you the great pleasure it has given me to-day to welcome the officers and crews of the German squadron to our ports and to visit your magnificent battle-cruiser, the Moltke. I trust that those who so ably represent your efficient navy on this occasion may carry home with them some of the same pleasant and cordial recollections experienced by the officers of our ships while in your hospitable waters.

WILLIAM H. TAFT.

THE 158TH COMMENCEMENT

Alumni Gathered Here for Annual Dinner, Baseball Game, and Parade.

Columbia University will confer honorary degrees on a notable group of men at its 158th annual commencement exercises to-day. Chief Justice White, President Hibben of Princeton, Congressman Underwood and Col. Goethals will be among those honored.

DOCTOR OF SACRED THEOLOGY—The Right Rev. Philip Mercer Rhinelander, Bishop of Pennsylvania.

DOCTOR OF LAWS—John William Burgess, Ruggles Professor of Political Science and Constitutional Law, Dean of the Faculties of Political Science, Philosophy, Pure Science, and Fine Arts; Oscar Wilder Underwood, Representative from the State of Alabama, Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means in the Sixty-second Congress; Edward Douglas White, Chief Justice of the United States; Senor Luis Maria Drago, formerly Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Argentine Republic, member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague; Henri Bergson, membre de l'Institute, Professor of Philosophy at the College of France; Josef Schick, Litt. D., Professor of English Philology in the University of Munich, Kaiser Wilhelm Professor 1911-12; Gustave Lanson, Litt. D., Professor of French Literature in the University of Paris, visiting French Professor, 1911-12.

Degrees for Senor Drago and Prof. Bergson will be conferred in October and February, respectively. Prof. Schick and Prof. Lanson received their degrees in December, 1911.

The degrees will be conferred by President Butler this morning in the University gymnasium and the usual academic procession will precede the formal exercises. At about noon the presentations of alumni gifts will be made, the Class of 1887 of the School of Mines presenting a $7,000 student loan fund; 1887, College, a Well-head, and 1912 Law a clock in Kent Hall.

Other events of the day are the alumni luncheon, the alumni costume parade, a baseball game between Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania, the alumni beefsteak dinner and decennial vaudeville show, and the various alumnae affairs at Barnard. A large delegation of alumni, many of whom arrived yesterday, will be on hand to take part in the celebration.

WARNED AGAINST DEMAGOGUES.

President Humphreys Addresses Graduates at Stevens Institute.

President Alexander C. Humphreys of Stevens Institute of Technology, addressing the graduating class at the commencement exercises at the college yesterday morning, warned the sixty engineers to whom he had just given diplomas never to allow themselves to be led by a demagogue. He intimated that he had ex-President Roosevelt in mind, but he did not mention his name.

"I wish to warn you," said President Humphreys, "against the oratorical howlings of demagogues, which, unfortunately, are resounding in the highest as well as the lowest places in our public life of to-day. Do not allow yourself to be led by such men. You may put down as worthless the man who seeks to set class against class. You are not to judge a man as a lover of justice because he accuses others of wrongdoing."

Dr. Humphreys also called attention to the flood of literature now on the market, which he deemed misleading and as distortions of truth.

"Do not be led aside by the multitude of sensational articles which fill many of our publications to-day," he said, "and which purport to be the truth. They are prepared by those who have but a crude and partial knowledge of their subjects—who are only too ready to sacrifice facts in order to make interesting articles. Investigate such articles; take no statement as truth until you have ascertained the competency and, which is more, the integrity of the writer. Use your cultured, conservative common sense and the world will profit by the stand you take."

The graduation address was made by Dr. John A. Brashear, who has been actively interested in Stevens for the last thirty years. At the conclusion of his address he received the degree of Doctor of Engineering. A like honor was conferred on Dr. Charles Felton Scott, professor of electrical engineering at Yale University.

C. R. Barton, Elizabeth, N. J.; A. E. Bauhan, Jersey City, N. J.; L. A. Belding, Singac, N. J.; S. F. Bonnet, Columbus, Ohio; R. T. Branch, Brooklyn, N. Y.; G. Breithaupt, Weehawken, N. J.; E. Thomas, Jr., Passaic, N. J.; E. H. Uekles, Brooklyn, N. Y.; R. C. Whitall, Plainfield, N. J.; H. S. Whitley, Leonia, N. J., and P. Young.

AT NEW YORK UNIVERSITY.

The most interesting part of the Class Day programme at the New York University yesterday afternoon was the award of the bun to the finest class in college by the outgoing seniors. The three class Presidents—William H. Hamilton, Jr., '13, of Brooklyn; J. R. Kingsley, '14, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., and Walter F. Smythe, '15, of Elmhurst, L. I.—were called to the platform with the seniors and asked to explain the reasons why their class should receive the honor. After long deliberation, during which the interest of the undergraduates and spectators was at fever heat, the silver casket containing the treasured bun was handed to Hamilton of '13. The class of 1912 has held the bun by award from '11, which, in turn, received it from '09. This custom, which was inaugurated in 1885, is one of the most cherished traditions of the university, and is the goal which the other classes hold in view during all the year.

The exercises were held on the lawn of Battery Hill and the ideal weather conditions brought out 700 relatives and friends of the seniors.

At 8 o'clock last night the huge bonfire for the cremation exercises was lighted in front of the library, and in its flames were consumed quantities of books and an effigy of King Calculus. The seniors marched around the fire singing gayly.

To-day the commencement exercises for the schools at University Heights will be held in the auditorium at 11 o'clock.

WEEK-END REST FOR SHOP GIRLS

So much depends upon her. Her breakdown or illness is a calamity in any family. It threatens the independence and comfort of the home.

Recognizing the importance of keeping her strong and well both for her and her family's sake, the A. J. C. P. plans week-end outings this Summer.

As many as can be accommodated will be sent to Sea Breeze, Coney Island. Others will go to some quiet place in the country.

Only the working girl who cannot have an outing at all, or who needs rest before her "vacation turn" comes, will be selected by our visitors.

When planning your week-end outings, will you not consider the needs of the tired shop girl, whose pay envelope is the family's only income? They appeal to you through us for an opportunity to regain health and strength for future effort.

HOW MANY WILL YOU SEND THIS WEEK AS YOUR GUESTS? YOUR CONTRIBUTION WILL BE YOUR ANSWER.

SOCIETY GIRLS GIVE VAUDEVILLE

APPLAUD DOROTHY JORDAN

The first of a series of two vaudeville performances was given last night in the belvedere on the Hotel Astor roof, under fashionable patronage for the benefit of the Committee for the Prevention of Infant Mortality of the New York Milk Committee. Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Chairman of the committee, arranged the programme, which included fancy dancing by society girls. The second performance will be given to-night.

The belvedere was set with small tables and the vaudeville acts were given on a small stage at the south of the aerial hall. Afterward there was a supper a la carte and general dancing.

The entertainment passed off successfully, and there were many prominent society people present, some motoring in from their country estates. Between acts society girls and young matrons in picturesque costumes of white and black sold flowers and cigarettes. They were the Misses Beatrice Claflin, Eugenie Philbin, Sara and Mary Wiborg, and Mrs. Fuller Potter, Mrs. Allan Gouverneur Wellman, Mrs. Daniel Chauncey, and Mrs. J. Hopkins Smith.

Mrs. Harriman was behind the scenes most of the time, and once the performance started, shortly before 10 o'clock, things moved with a swing. The audience liked all of the professional talent and encored the young society amateurs who danced toward the conclusion of the programme. Miss Dorothy Jordan, a society dancer from Boston, won favor in a dance called "Legnide from Denalorose," and Mrs. E. R. Mathews, Miss Olga Wiborg, and Robert Breese appeared to advantage as the Russian trio. Miss Jordan also danced the Tanagra, after which the Gaiety Quartet, composed of the Misses Marjorie Curtis and Julia Robbins and Henry Ives Cobb, Jr., and Monroe Robinson, did some interesting dancing. Van Barr's orchestra played.

Miss Anna Wynne and Miss Ruth Draper were heard in impersonations and monologues, Miss Wynne impersonating Maude Adams as Peter Pan admirably. Others who appeared were little Miss Margaret Kerr in Scotch dances, Bert Williams, Stephen Brown, and the Gavotteers in a revival of old English dances, including the minuet and the Pannier waltz. Miss Wynne gave the prologue, and Miss Louise Darnley, Lysbeth, and John Murray-Anderson appeared in the dances.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Olin, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Eustis, William P. Burden, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rogers Winthrop, A. Eugene Gallatin, and Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram.

The patronesses, many of whom were present, included Mrs. Robert L. Brewster, Miss Therese Iselin, Mrs. Frank Gray Griswold, Mrs. John A. Hartwell, Mrs. H. Fairfield Osborn, Mrs. Eugene A. Philbin, Mrs. George A. Robbins, Mrs. A. Murray Young, Mrs. William Woodward, Mrs. Charles D. Dickey, Mrs. Robert Fulton Cutting, Mrs. Charles H. Ditson, Mrs. George C. Clark, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. W. Church Osborn, Mrs. Edwin D. Morgan, Mrs. Joseph Stevens, Mrs. Luther Kountze, Mrs. Herbert Harriman, Mrs. Joseph F. Stillman, and Mrs. William G. Low.

MISS CHURCHILL A BRIDE.

Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Churchill Weds Alfred L. Cornwall.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Lewis Churchill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Churchill, to Alfred Lester Cornwall of Kingston, N. Y., was celebrated at 8 o'clock last evening in the South Reformed Church, Park Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Bridges officiating.

The bride was attired in a trailing gown of white satin, trimmed with duchesse and Irish lace, and decorated with sprays of organge blossoms. Her tulle veil was caught up with a lace cap, and held on either side with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Clara Avis Autenrieth attended the bride as maid of honor, and was gowned in rose-colored satin, trimmed with rose point lace, and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Elsie Trebing and Miss Helen Quinlan, who wore blue satin gowns, with lace trimmings. They also carried pink roses. The flower girls wore simple white frocks, and carried baskets of roses and daisies. They were the Misses Dorothea Trebing and Helen Myer.

Dr. Melvin Stearns acted as best man, and the ushers included Dr. Harold Burnard, William Henry Vilas, Ray Livingston Egbert, and Herbert Augustus Trebing.

After the church ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 144 East Eighty-ninth Street. Mr. and Mrs. Cornwall will reside in Kingston, N. Y., after a short wedding trip.

Railing-Burnley Wedding on July 3.

Mrs. Curtis Vass Burnley of Richmond, Va., daughter of Mrs. James Leland Vass and the late Dr. James Leland Vass, will be married at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Percy Graham Hartzog, at Asheville, N. C., to Christian Edward Railing of this city at noon on July 3. Mr. and Mrs. Railing will sail on July 6 on the Moltke for a tour of Italy, Switzerland, France, and England. Mr. Railing is assistant manager of the Hotel Plaza.

MARGARET E. SANGSTER DEAD

Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster, author, editor and poet, died after an illness of ten days at her home, in Maplewood, N. J., yesterday. She had been nearly blind for the last few years. She was born in New Rochelle, N. Y., seventy-four years ago. As Margaret Elizabeth Munson, and later under her married name, she was among the best known contributors to American magazines. She was once editor of Harper's Bazaar, and lately wrote for the Ladies' Home Journal, and she was known to generations of readers through her writings in Hearth and Home, the Christian Intelligencer, and Christian at Work.

Herself a bride at twenty years, Mrs. Sangster had long supported her family by her stories and verses of home life, abounding in homely admonition. Among her books were "Poems of the Household," "Winsome Womanhood," "Janet Ward," "Eleanor Lee," and "When Angels Come to Men." With "Good Manners for All Occasions," she also published after she was seventy years old "The Story Bible," "Little Kingdom of Home," "Fairest Girlhood," "The Joyful Life," and "Queenly Mother in the Realm of Home." For several years Mrs. Sangster had made her home with her daughter at Glen Ridge.

EX-GOV. ROYAL C. TAFT DEAD.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 4.—Royal Chapin Taft, ex-Governor of Rhode Island, and for many years one of the leading bankers and manufacturers of the State, died at his home here to-day after a long illness due to old age. He was 90 years of age and was the oldest living ex-Governor of the State.

Mr. Taft was born in Northbridge, Mass., Feb. 14, 1823, and like the President, was a descendant in the seventh generation from Robert Taft, one of the first settlers of Mendon, Mass. His grandfather, Jacob Taft, served at Lexington and Bunker Hill. Mr. Taft came to Providence when he was twenty-one and worked as a clerk in the wool house of Royal Chapin. He entered into partnership in the wool business in the firm of Bradford & Taft. In 1885 he retired from business. In 1888 he served one term as Governor. In politics he was a Republican.

He has been President of the Merchants' National Bank of Providence and President of the Corporation of the Rhode Island Hospital. He married Miss Mary Farmington of Pittsfield, Vt., who, with four children, survive him.

CITY'S PROGRAMME FOR KAISER'S FLEET

The Moltke, the Bremen, and the Stettin Arrive Here Next Sunday to Stay Till June 13.

The German squadron sent to the United States by the Kaiser, which is now at Norfolk, will arrive here next Sunday morning, and will remain in the Hudson until Thursday, June 13. The officers and men of the squadron will be the guests of the city. The programme for the entertainment of the visitors arranged by Mayor Gaynor, assisted by a committee of citizens appointed by him, and the local military and naval authorities, was made public last night.

The German squadron, which is made up of the great cruiser Moltke, flagship of Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, and the cruisers Bremen and Stettin, will be escorted to New York by the Second Division of the United States Atlantic Fleet under command of Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow, U. S. N. The news of the approach of the two squadrons will be transmitted by wireless to Rear Admiral Leutze, commandant of the New York Navy Yard, who will in turn notify ex-Mayor Seth Low, the Chairman of the Mayor's Committee, and Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, the acting commander of the eastern division of the army on Governors Island.

Gen. Bliss will then issue the necessary order for the salutes of the German ships as they enter New York Harbor. There will be no detention at Quarantine, as the vessels will be coming from an American port.

Arriving at New York the ships will be saluted by Fort Wadsworth and then by Governors Island. They will proceed with the American battleships to an anchorage off Riverside Drive. The southernmost vessel, the Moltke, will be anchored off the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, at Eighty-ninth Street. The Bremen and the Stettin will be anchored north of the Moltke.

Then will come the American battleship Louisiana, flagship of Admiral Winslow, the dreadnought South Carolina, and the battleships Kansas and New Hampshire, these four ships being all but one of those that comprise the second division of the Atlantic Fleet. The fifth ship, the Vermont, will not come with the squadrons.

The Schedule of Festivities.

This is the schedule of arrangements as announced by the Mayor's Committee yesterday:

On Sunday, immediately upon the anchoring of the ships, the representatives of the Mayor's Committee and the boarding officers from the navy yard and Governors Island will embark in a revenue cutter and proceed to the Louisiana, where they will be joined by Rear Admiral Winslow or his representative. They will then go to the Moltke and call upon the German Admiral. Boarding visits only will be returned.

The representatives of the Mayor's Committee in this call will be Seth Low, ex-Mayor of the city and Chairman of the Mayor's Committee; J. P. Morgan, Jr., Treasurer of the committee; Herman Ridder, Chairman of the Executive Committee; Gen. Howard Carroll, Chairman, and R. A. C. Smith of the Entertainment Committee; Dr. George F. Kunz, Chairman of the Official Dinner Committee; William Loeb, Jr., Collector of the Port, and Dr. Edward Hagaman Hall, Secretary.

Sunday afternoon is reserved by the German Admiral for calls from various German societies whose members are not at liberty on week days.

At 7 P. M. Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz and twenty-nine officers of the German squadron will land at West Eighteenth Street and be taken in automobiles to a banquet tendered by the Deutscher Verein at 112 Central Park South. Rear Admiral Winslow and aid and the Captains of the American ships have also been invited to this dinner.

On Monday, at 9 A. M., Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz will receive official calls from Gen. Bliss, commanding on Governors Island; Admiral Leutz, Commandant of the Navy Yard, and the German Consul General.

At 10 A. M. the German Admiral, his staff, the Captains of the Moltke, Bremen, and Stettin, Admiral Winslow, and the Captains of the American battleships will land at Twenty-third Street, where they will be taken in automobiles, escorted by members of the Mayor's committee and a squad of mounted police, to the City Hall, where Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz will visit Mayor Gaynor. All of the members of the Mayor's Committee have been requested to be present at the City Hall on this occasion.

Will Inspect the Michigan.

From the City Hall the visiting Admiral and his staff will go to Governors Island to return the visit of Gen. Bliss, and from Governors Island to the Navy Yard to pay a similar visit to Admiral Leutze. At the Navy Yard they will have an opportunity to inspect the Dreadnought Michigan, the champion target practice ship of the American Navy.

While the German Admiral and his staff are paying their official calls the German officers not engaged in these ceremonies will be taken on a sightseeing tour of the city by representatives of the Mayor's committee.

At 3 P. M. Mayor Gaynor will visit the Moltke to return the visit of Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, after which he will call on Admiral Winslow on board the Louisiana.

At 7 P. M. the German Admiral and thirty-nine visiting officers and the American Admiral and about the same number of officers will land at Eightieth Street and be taken in automobiles to the official dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria. The hour for dinner is 7:30 o'clock. Mayor Gaynor will preside. Bishop Greer will ask the blessing.

After Mayor Gaynor's address of welcome Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador to the United States, will propose the health of the President of the United States. Mayor Gaynor will then propose the health of the German Emperor, after which addresses will be made by Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, Rear Admiral Winslow, and Seth Low.

The Mayor has placed the boxes at the disposal of various military, naval, and civil officials for their wives.

German Admiral to Entertain.

In the evening about 750 German sailors and as many American sailors will land at West Ninety-sixth Street and be escorted to Sulzer Park, where they will be entertained by the Deutscher Krieger-bund.

On Tuesday Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz, at 1 P. M., will give a luncheon on board the Moltke. From 3 to 6 P. M. there will be an invitation reception on board the ship. At 7:30 P. M. the visiting German and American officers will go to the New York Yacht Club, where a dinner will be given in honor of the German Admiral and his officers by Cornelius Vanderbilt.

At 3 P. M. 1,000 German sailors and 1,000 American bluejackets will be taken by boat to Coney Island for the afternoon and evening. Before this trip 200 of the German sailors will take part in an entertainment at the Naval Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association in Brooklyn.

On Wednesday at 9:30 A. M. the German Admiral and 30 officers and the American Admiral and invited officers will go aboard Commodore Blair's private yacht Diana at Eighty-first Street for a trip to Scarborough-on-the-Hudson, where they will be privately entertained by Mr. and Mrs. James Speyer at their country place. Returning, they will have dinner on board the Diana, and reach their ships at 7 P. M.

A little later the German Admiral and about forty officers and the American Admiral and about as many officers will land and be taken in automobiles to the Hotel Astor, where they will be entertained at a "Kommers," beginning at 8 o'clock, given by the Deutschen Vereinigungen of the City of New York.

On Thursday the squadron will sail for Germany. While it is here the official landing for the general use of the officers will be at the foot of West Eightieth Street, while the landing at the foot of West Ninety-sixth Street will be for the use of the enlisted men. The German commander has not yet notified the committee on what days the squadron will be open to public inspection.

The Mayor's Committee invites contributions of from $10 to $100 to defray the expense of the entertainment of the visitors who will be officially the guests of the city.

FORMAL WELCOME BY ARMY.

FORT MONROE, Va., June 4.—On the picturesque parade ground inside the walls and moat of historic Fort Monroe, the United States Army to-day formally welcomed the officers of the German Emperor's visiting cruiser squadron. Men of the Coast Artillery Corps garrisoning the fort paraded in honor of Rear Admiral von Rebeur-Paschwitz. The crimson edged uniforms of the American artillerymen and the uniforms of the German officers made a brilliant scene on the parade ground and the presence of many women in pretty frocks added touches of coloring.

Col. F. S. Strong, commanding the artillery district of the Chesapeake Bay, with headquarters here, received the distinguished German visitors and conducted them to the parade ground. Rear Admiral Ward and a large number of his officers accompanied the German officers. To the music of their band the two battalions of artillerymen marched in review before the German Admiral.

All through the army reservation to-day sailors of the German squadron fraternized with sailors from the American squadron and men from the fort. They seemed to be thoroughly enjoying themselves. Junior officers from the German squadron were escorted by officers of their own grade from the American ships.

Following the review and exhibition drill Rear Admiral Winslow had prepared a luncheon for the German Admiral and higher officers of the German squadron on board the flagship Louisiana. Launches from the American and German warships darted back and forth from the ships in the roadstead to the wharf. The waters were dotted with the little craft, and many excursion boats carried visitors to the foreign ships.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—A cable message from Emperor William to President Taft thanking him for the hearty welcome extended to the German fleet in Hampton Roads was made public at the White House to-day. The Emperor's message was in answer to one sent by the President. It is as follows:

Neues Palais, June 4, 1912.

President Taft, Washington:

I thank you for your kind message and the hearty welcome which you, the American Navy, and the American people have offered to the officers and crews of my cruisers. I trust that the visit of my ships to your hospitable shores may further contribute to strengthen the good and friendly relations existing between our two countries.

WILLIAM, R. I.

President Taft's message was as follows:

H. I. M. the German Emperor:

I wish to express to you the great pleasure it has given me to-day to welcome the officers and crews of the German squadron to our ports and to visit your magnificent battle-cruiser, the Moltke. I trust that those who so ably represent your efficient navy on this occasion may carry home with them some of the same pleasant and cordial recollections experienced by the officers of our ships while in your hospitable waters.

WILLIAM H. TAFT.

SOCIAL NOTES.

MISS ANDERSON'S WEDDING.

The wedding of Hugo Gibert de Fritsch of this city to Miss Harriet Anderson, a niece of President and Mrs. Taft, will take place on Saturday evening, June 29, at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles Anderson, in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Miss Catherine Anderson, a sister of the bride, and Miss Louise Taft, a cousin, will be the only attendants. Emmett Harris of this city will act as best man.

The bride's mother and Mrs. Taft are sisters. Mr. de Fritsch is the son of the late Chevalier Hugo de Fritsch, who was the Austro-Hungarian Consul here for many years, and makes his home with his mother and his aunts, the Misses Gibert, at 16 West Eighth Street.

Miss Levi Weds A. H. Steinfeld.

COLUMBIA CONFERS HER DEGREES TO-DAY

Columbia University will confer honorary degrees on a notable group of men at its 158th annual commencement exercises to-day. Chief Justice White, President Hibben of Princeton, Congressman Underwood and Col. Goethals will be among those honored.

DOCTOR OF LAWS—John William Burgess, Ruggles Professor of Political Science and Constitutional Law, Dean of the Faculties of Political Science, Philosophy, Pure Science, and Fine Arts; Oscar Wilder Underwood, Representative from the State of Alabama, Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means in the Sixty-second Congress; Edward Douglas White, Chief Justice of the United States; Senor Luis Maria Drago, formerly Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Argentine Republic, member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague; Henri Bergson, membre de l'Institute, Professor of Philosophy at the College of France; Josef Schick, Litt. D., Professor of English Philology in the University of Munich, Kaiser Wilhelm Professor 1911-12; Gustave Lanson, Litt. D., Professor of French Literature in the University of Paris, visiting French Professor, 1911-12.

Degrees for Senor Drago and Prof. Bergson will be conferred in October and February respectively. Prof. Schick and Prof. Lanson received their degrees in December, 1911.

The degrees will be conferred by President Butler this morning in the University gymnasium and the usual academic procession will precede the formal exercises. At about noon the presentations of alumni gifts will be made, the Class of 1887 of the Mines presenting a $7,000 student loan fund; 1887, College, a Well-head, and 1912 Law a clock in Kent Hall.

Other events of the day are the alumni luncheon, the alumni costume parade, a baseball game between Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania, the alumni beefsteak dinner and decennial vaudeville show, and the various alumnae affairs at Barnard. A large delegation of alumni, many of whom arrived yesterday, will be on hand to take part in the celebration.

WARNED AGAINST DEMAGOGUES.

President Humphreys Addresses Graduates at Stevens Institute.

President Alexander C. Humphreys of Stevens Institute of Technology, addressing the graduating class at the commencement exercises at the college yesterday morning, warned the sixty engineers to whom he had just given diplomas never to allow themselves to be led by a demagogue. He intimated that he had ex-President Roosevelt in mind, but he did not mention his name.

"I wish to warn you," said President Humphreys, "against the oratorical howlings of demagogues, which, unfortunately, are resounding in the highest as well as in the lowest places of our public life of to-day. Do not allow yourself to be led by such men. You may put down as worthless the man who seeks to set class against class. You are not to judge a man as a lover of justice because he accuses others of wrongdoing."

Dr. Humphreys also called attention to the flood of literature now on the market, which he deemed misleading and as distortions of truth.

"Do not be led aside by the multitude of sensational articles which fill many of our publications to-day," he said, "and which purport to be the truth. They are prepared by those who have but a crude and partial knowledge of their subjects—who are only too ready to sacrifice facts in order to make interesting articles. Investigate such articles; take no statement as truth until you have ascertained the competency and, which is more, the integrity of the writer. Use your cultured, conservative common sense and the world will profit by the stand you take."

The graduation address was made by Dr. John A. Brashear, who has been actively interested in Stevens for the last thirty years. At the conclusion of his address he received the degree of Doctor of Engineering. A like honor was conferred on Dr. Charles Felton Scott, professor of electrical engineering at Yale University.

C. R. Barton, Elizabeth, N. J.; A. E. Bauhan, Jersey City, N. J.; L. A. Belding, Singac, N. J.; S. F. Bonnet, Columbus, Ohio; R. T. Branch, Brooklyn, N. Y.; G. Breithaupt, Weehawken, N. J.; E. Byron, Jersey City, N. J.; L. Carter, Montclair, N. J.; G. L. Clouser, Jersey City, N. J.; S. B. Crooke, South Orange, N. J.; C. J. Dempwolf, North Paterson, N. J.; C. H. Dickson, Jr., Jersey City, N. J.; W. F. Dombrowsky, Newark, N. J.; J. P. Duncombe, Hoboken, N. J.; L. H. Eggert, Hoboken, N. J.; J. L. Entwisle, Town of Union, N. J.; C. Freeman, Jersey City, N. J.; C. W. Frees, Town of Union, N. J.; W. H. Freygang, Weehawken, N. J.; G. H. Fullerton, Norwich, Conn.; J. A. Gleeson, Jersey City, N. J.; R. G. Hess, Jersey City, N. J.; H. Hoeber, Nutley, N. J.; C. W. Huber, Passaic, N. J.; A. D. Karr, Newark, N. J.; H. Kennedy, Paterson, N. J.; H. A. Ketcham, Passaic, N. J.; W. C. Lange, New York, N. Y.; C. L. Langlotz, Brooklyn, N. Y.; H. H. C. Lasker, Jersey City, N. J.; R. P. Loughlin, Brooklyn, N. Y.; P. McCarthy, Brooklyn, N. Y.; W. C. McEvoy, Brooklyn, N. Y.; K. H. McLaurin, South Pasadena, Cal.; A. W. MacNabb, Newark, N. J.; W. E. Marshall, Brooklyn, N. Y.; H. H. Mills, Albany, N. Y.; D. E. Nash, Brooklyn, N. Y.; H. C. Noe, East Orange, N. J.; L. B. Paterson, Weehawken, N. J.; J. Van B. Perry, Brooklyn, N. Y.; A. C. Puddington, Jr., Madison, N. J.; D. Reitman, Jersey City, N. J.; J. L. Richon, Tompkinsville, N. J.; O. C. Roesen, Brooklyn, N. J.; C. C. Ross, Newburg, N. Y.; Q. J. Schwarz, Jersey City, N. J.; H. P. Smith, Leonia, N. J.; H. A. Stenken, Jersey City, N. J.; M. Stern, Hoboken, N. J.; H. W. Storts, Montclair, N. J.; H. F. Stover, Hoboken, N. J.; J. D. Strobell, Newark, N. J.; H. W. Thomas, Jr., Passaic, N. J.; E. H. Unkles, Brooklyn, N. Y.; R. C. Whitall, Plainfield, N. J.; H. S. Whitley, Leonia, N. J., and P. Young.

AT NEW YORK UNIVERSITY.

The most interesting part of the Class Day programme at the New York University yesterday afternoon was the award of the bun to the finest class in college by the outgoing seniors. The three class Presidents—William H. Hamilton, Jr., '13, of Brooklyn; J. R. Kingsley, '14, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., and Walter P. Smythe, '15, of Elmhurst, L. I.—were called to the platform with the seniors and asked to explain the reasons why their class should receive the honor. After long deliberation, during which the interest of the undergraduates and spectators was at fever heat, the silver casket containing the treasured bun was handed to Hamilton of '13. The class of 1912 has held the bun by award from '11, which, in turn, received it from '09. This custom, which was inaugurated in 1885, is one of the most cherished traditions of the university, and is the goal which the other classes hold in view during all the year.

The exercises were held on the lawn of Battery Hill and the ideal weather conditions brought out 700 relatives and friends of the seniors.

At 8 o'clock last night the huge bonfire for the cremation exercises was lighted in front of the library, and in its flames were consumed quantities of books and an effigy of King Calculus. The seniors marched around the fire singing gayly.

To-day the commencement exercises for the schools at University Heights will be held in the auditorium at 11 o'clock.

WEEK-END REST FOR SHOP GIRLS

So much depends upon her. Her breakdown or illness is a calamity in any family. It threatens the independence and comfort of the home.

Recognizing the importance of keeping her strong and well both for her and her family's sake, the A. I. C. P. plans week-end outings this Summer.

As many as can be accommodated will be sent to Seg Breeze, Coney Island. Others will go to some quiet place in the country.

Only the working girl who cannot have an outing at all, or who needs rest before her "vacation turn" comes, will be selected by our visitors.

When planning your week-end outings, will you not consider the needs of the tired shop girl, whose pay envelope is the family's only income? They appeal to you through us for an opportunity to regain health and strength for future effort.

HOW MANY WILL YOU SEND THIS WEEK AS YOUR GUESTS? YOUR CONTRIBUTION WILL BE YOUR ANSWER.

LADY VERA ELIOTT WEDS.

Daughter of Sir Arthur Eliott Married to Edward B. Cowles.

LONDON, June 4.—Edward Boise Cowles of Rye, N. Y., and Lady Vera Eliott, daughter of Sir Arthur and Lady Eliott, were married to-day at St. George's, Hanover Square.

Mr. Cowles is a son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Cowles of Long Meadow, Rye, and was graduated from Yale, Class of '10. The Eliotts have a country estate at Rye, and also have estates in England. Sir Arthur Eliott, who succeeded to the English title about three years ago, has lived for many years in New York. Lady Eliott is a member of an old Boston family, and with her daughter has spent much time in England. They have a son, Gilbert B. Eliott, who has business interests with his father in New York, and another daughter, Miss Beatrice Eliott.

The couple's engagement was first announced in THE NEW YORK TIMES shortly after Sir Arthur and Lady Eliott with their family sailed for England to take up their residence in Portman Square.

MISS CATHERINE REDDY WEDS.

Miss Catherine Veronica Reddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Reddy of 78 West 120th Street, was married to John W. Hardiman, Jr., of Trenton, N. J., in the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle, 118th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, at 6 o'clock last evening. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Martin A. Scanlan, and was followed by a reception at the Hotel Plaza.

The bride was gowned in white satin charmeuse trimmed with rose point lace. Her veil was edged with rose point, and was caught up with a lace cap and a coronet of orange blossoms. She wore a diamond necklace, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

She was attended by Miss Mary Brady as maid of honor, who wore a lavender satin charmeuse gown draped with pink chiffon in the pannier style. Miss Vivian Wanich and Miss Mary Ward were the bridesmaids. They wore pink charmeuse gowns with panniers of lavender chiffon. All of the attendants wore caps of pink chiffon and carried shepherd's staffs of white festooned with lavender and pink sweet peas.

A brother of the bride, John Joseph Reddy, acted as best man, and the ushers were Eugene Reddy, another brother of the bride; Thornton Bissell, Joseph Convery, and Arthur McDonough.

The bride presented each of her attendants with a gold bracelet studded with diamonds, and the gifts of the bridegroom to his best man and ushers were cuff buttons. Mr. and Mrs. Hardiman will take a trip through Canada, and in the Fall will reside in Trenton.

BURNS-FREEMAN WEDDING.

Miss Verona Hill Freeman the Bride of Owen Burns.

Miss Verona Hill Freeman was married at 8 o'clock last night at the home of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Hill, 131 West Eighty-sixth Street, to Owen Burns of this city.

The house was decorated with Southern smilax and pink roses. Miss Freeman, whose cousin, Leonard L. Hill, gave her in marriage, wore a duchess and rose point lace robe over a gown of white charmeuse. Her veil of tulle was caught up with a lace cap and held with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a diamond necklace, the gift of the bridegroom, and she carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride was attended by Miss Lucy Freeman as maid of honor. Miss Martha Burns and Miss Dorothy Stokes were the bridesmaids. Miss Wiltona Wilkins the ring bearer, and Miss Ursula Burns the flower girl.

Grindal Burns acted as best man, and the ushers were Frederick Allen and William Carlton.

The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Edgar Whitaker Work of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, was followed by a reception for about 300 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Burns will sail for Europe on the Oceanic on June 8 for an extended trip abroad. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

Capt. Crane Weds Aline Vanduzer.

LONDON, June 4.—Aline Vanduzer, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Vanduzer, and Capt. Robert Eugene Crane of the North Lancashire Regiment and son of R. Newton Crane, an American lawyer living in London, were married in St. Peter's to-day. Many members of the American colony were present both at the church service and at the reception which followed.

To-day's Weddings.

Miss Beatrice Alexandra Fosburgh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Floyd Fosburgh of this city, will be married to Charles A. Moore of Philadelphia at 4:30 in the chapel of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. John Henry Jowett will officiate. A reception will be held afterward at the residence of the bride's uncle, Alexander M. Stewart, 260 West Seventy-sixth Street.

Miss Stella L. Dunn, daughter of Lieut. Col. Beverley W. Dunn, U. S. A., retired, to Lieut. Allen Kimberly of the United States Coast Artillery Corps, now stationed at Fort Monroe, Va., will take place this afternoon in the Church of St. Cornelius the Centurion on Governors Island. Chaplain Smith, U. S. A., will perform the ceremony.

Miss Francis Barry Allen, daughter of Mrs. Emma Barry Allen, and William B. Fullerton will be married this evening at the Hotel Marie Antoinette.

The wedding of Miss Beatrice S. Follmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Follmer of 312 Riverside Drive, to Albert A. Higgins of Brooklyn, will be celebrated this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Delmonico's.

Miss Cornelia Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Seth Thomas of this city, and Arthur Seers Hamlin will be married to-day at the country home of the bride's mother in Morristown, N. J.

The Rev. Alexander S. Van Dyck of Philmont, N. Y., and Miss Bertha Marie Tamm of 153 East Sixty-second Street, will be married to-day in the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church.

In Long Branch, N. J., to-day, Miss Patrice Josephine Casey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Casey, and Frank J. Donovan will be married in the Church of St. Mary, Star of the Sea. The bride's father is Secretary and Treasurer of the Monmouth County Horse Show Association.

Miss Margaret E. Butler, daughter of Michael E. Butler, will be married to John J. Barry, son of the late Commissioner of Corrrections, in the Church of St. Francis Xavier, Brooklyn. The reception will be held at the home of the bride, 533 Third Street.

Miss Ruth Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robert Gibson of Mount Vernon, and William Lucas Venning of Charleston, S. C., will be married this evening at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Sadie Bach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bach of 23 East Eighty-second Street, will be married to Louis G. Cronheim this evening at the Hotel Savoy by the Rev. Rudolph Grossman. The bride will be attended by her sister, Miss Tessie Bach, and Byron Cronheim, a brother of the bridegroom, is to be best man.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth H. Schwagerl, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schwagerl, to George F. Sinram of this city, is to take place to-day at Elmhurst, N. Y., the home of the bride's parents. Miss Schwagerl will be attended by Miss Lydia Becker of Corona, N. Y. Henry D. Sinram, a brother of the bridegroom, will be best man. The Rev. H. B. Belcher will perform the ceremony.

APPLAUD DOROTHY JORDAN

The first of a series of two vaudeville performances was given last night in the belvedere on the Hotel Astor roof, under fashionable patronage for the benefit of the Committee for the Prevention of Infant Mortality of the New York Milk Committee. Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Chairman of the committee, arranged the programme, which included fancy dancing by society girls. The second performance will be given to-night.

The belvedere was set with small tables and the vaudeville acts were given on a small stage at the south of the aerial hall. Afterward there was a supper a la carte and general dancing.

The entertainment passed off successfully, and there were many prominent society people present, some motoring in from their country estates. Between acts society girls and young matrons in picturesque costumes of white and black sold flowers and cigarettes. They were the Misses Beatrice Claflin, Eugenie Philbin, Sara and Mary Wiborg, and Mrs. Fuller Potter, Mrs. Allan Gouverneur Wellman, Mrs. Daniel Chauncey, and Mrs. J. Hopkins Smith.

Mrs. Harriman was behind the scenes most of the time, and once the performance started, shortly before 10 o'clock, things moved with a swing. The audience liked all of the professional talent and encored the young society amateurs who danced toward the conclusion of the programme. Miss Dorothy Jordan, a society dancer from Boston, won favor in a dance called "Legnide from Denalorose," and Mrs. E. R. Mathews, Miss Olga Wiborg, and Robert Breese appeared to advantage as the Russian trio. Miss Jordan also danced the Tanagra, after which the Gaiety Quartet, composed of the Misses Marjorie Curtis and Julia Robbins and Henry Ives Cobb, Jr., and Monroe Robinson, did some interesting dancing. Van Barr's orchestra played.

Miss Anna Wynne and Miss Ruth Draper were heard in impersonations and monologues, Miss Wynne impersonating Maude Adams as Peter Pan admirably. Others who appeared were little Miss Margaret Kerr in Scotch dances, Bert Williams, Stephen Brown, and the Gavotteers in a revival of old English dances, including the minuet and the Pannier waltz. Miss Wynne gave the prologue, and Miss Louise Darnley, Lysbeth, and John Murray-Anderson appeared in the dances.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Olin, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Eustis, William P. Burden, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rogers Winthrop, A. Eugene Gallatin, and Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram.

The patronesses, many of whom were present, included Mrs. Robert L. Brewster, Miss Therese Iselin, Mrs. Frank Gray Griswold, Mrs. John A. Hartwell, Mrs. H. Fairfield Osborn, Mrs. Eugene A. Philbin, Mrs. George A. Robbins, Mrs. A. Murray Young, Mrs. William Woodward, Mrs. Charles D. Dickey, Mrs. Robert Fulton Cutting, Mrs. Charles H. Ditson, Mrs. George C. Clark, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. W. Church Osborn, Mrs. Edwin D. Morgan, Mrs. Joseph Stevens, Mrs. Luther Kountze, Mrs. Herbert Harriman, Mrs. Joseph F. Stillman, and Mrs. William G. Low.

MISS CHURCHILL A BRIDE.

Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Churchill Weds Alfred L. Cornwall.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Lewis Churchill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Churchill, to Alfred Lester Cornwall of Kingston, N. Y., was celebrated at 8 o'clock last evening in the South Reformed Church, Park Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Bridges officiating.

The bride was attired in a trailing gown of white satin, trimmed with duchesse and Irish lace, and decorated with sprays of organge blossoms. Her tulle veil was caught up with a lace cap, and held on either side with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Dara Avis Autenrieth attended the bride as maid of honor, and was gowned in rose-colored satin, trimmed with rose point lace, and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Elsie Trebing and Miss Helen Quinlan, who wore blue satin gowns, with lace trimmings. They also carried pink roses. The flower girls wore simple white frocks, and carried baskets of roses and daisies. They were the Misses Dorothea Trebing and Helen Myer.

Dr. Melvin Stearns acted as best man, and the ushers included Dr. Harold Burnard, William Henry Vilas, Ray Livingston Egbert, and Herbert Augustus Trebing.

After the church ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 144 East Eighty-ninth Street. Mr. and Mrs. Cornwall will reside in Kingston, N. Y., after a short wedding trip.

Railing-Burnley Wedding on July 3.

Mrs. Curtis Vass Burnley of Richmond, Va., daughter of Mrs. James Leland Vass and the late Dr. James Leland Vass, will be married at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Percy Graham Hartsog, at Asheville, N. C., to Christian Edward Railing of this city at noon on July 3. Mr. and Mrs. Railing will sail on July 6 on the Moltke for a tour of Italy, Switzerland, France, and England. Mr. Railing is assistant manager of the Hotel Plaza.

Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster, author, editor and poet, died after an illness of ten days at her home, in Maplewood, N. J., yesterday. She had been nearly blind for the last few years. She was born in New Rochelle, N. Y., seventy-four years ago. As Margaret Elizabeth Munson, and later under her married name, she was among the best known contributors to American magazines. She was once editor of Harper's Bazaar, and lately wrote for the Ladies' Home Journal, and she was known to generations of readers through her writings in Hearth and Home, the Christian Intelligencer, and Christian at Work.

Herself a bride at twenty years, Mrs. Sangster had long supported her family by her stories and verses of home life, abounding in homely admonition. Among her books were "Poems of the Household," "Winsome Womanhood," "Janet Ward," "Eleanor Lee," and "When Angels Come to Men." With "Good Manners for All Occasions," she also published after she was seventy years old "The Story Bible," "Little Kingdom of Home," "Fairest Girlhood," "The Joyful Life," and "Queenly Mother in the Realm of Home." For several years Mrs. Sangster had made her home with her daughter at Glen Ridge.

EX-GOV. ROYAL C. TAFT DEAD.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 4.—Royal Chapin Taft, ex-Governor of Rhode Island, and for many years one of the leading bankers and manufacturers of the State, died at his home here to-day after a long illness due to old age. He was 90 years of age and was the oldest living ex-Governor of the State.

Mr. Taft was born in Northbridge, Mass., Feb. 14, 1823, and like the President, was a descendant in the seventh generation from Robert Taft, one of the first settlers of Mendon, Mass. His grandfather, Jacob Taft, served at Lexington and Bunker Hill. Mr. Taft came to Providence when he was twenty-one and worked as a clerk in the wool house of Royal Chapin. He entered into partnership in the wool business in the firm of Brad

Exhilarated in the intoxication of continuous victory, the Giants fell upon the suffering Cardinals like a ton of brick at the Polo Grounds yesterday, and plastered fourteen full-grown hits to the suburbs, from which bombardment they reaped fourteen runs.

St. Louis was docile and helpless for a while, but in the seventh inning, smarting under the humiliation of the Giants' arrogant march to triumph, they rose in their wrath, pummeled Leon Ames in a merciless rally, drove him lame and limping from the box, and tacked up a generous portion of eight runs, while Manager McGraw looked on in wonderment and surprise. The final count was 14 to 9, because the Cards were unable to continue their outburst of indignation.

The Giants' fusillade was directed first against Smiling Joe Willis, the youth who defeated the Giants a few days ago. They were mad at him and got sweet revenge by hammering him to exile in four innings. Next came Woodburn and finally Geyer, and they all looked alike to the Giant batsmen. When St. Louis completely wrecked the Ames service, "Hooks" Wiltse stemmed the rushing tide and halted Bresnahan's men before they got away with their aggressive, high-handed rush to the front.

Before the game was over the tongues of the athletes were drooping with thirst, and the huge bottles of mineral water at the players' benches were drained as dry as chips. Snodgrass and Murray each scored four runs, and during the course of the game must have covered miles of ground. The continual revel of runs was so long that McGraw will have to give some of his men a week to rest.

In the long flight of tallies much shoe leather was worn out and spikes were dulled. And, honestly, the New Yorks did so much sliding that pecks of Polo Ground real estate was ground into the white uniforms, and goodness knows when the laundry will ever get it out. And say, they'd better use the right kind of soap, or they'll shrink.

The first inkling of devastation came in the first inning. Groh got a pass, Snodgrass a single, and Murray a double, together with an error by Wingo at the plate, which gave the Giants a start of three runs. In the third, two passes, single slams by Snodgrass, Murray, and Becker, with Herzog's double, jammed in four more decimals. Snodgrass wasn't satisfied yet. He'd show this fellow Willis something. And sure enough he did.

Right here and now Willis, who conquered the Giants last Friday, was placed in the tender hands of the hospital corps. Woodburn couldn't halt the Giants in the sixth, and four more hits netted another trio of runs. With Geyer pitching in the ninth, three passes, a hit, and a sacrifice fly glued three more runs on the Giant total.

It was in the seventh that St. Louis got sore, good and sore.

Konetchy started it with a steaming crack at Herzog which "Herzy" tossed to the grandstand, "Koney" going to second. Evans grounded out to first and Houser rolled to Fletcher, who tossed to Herzog, but "Koney" slid in under him. Then the runs came thick and fast. Everybody hit the ball and Ames got the lacing of his life. The Cardinals raced around the base paths in a procession. Ten batters faced Ames, "Koney" getting two cracks at him. Then Wiltse came in, and after fourteen Cardinals had come to bat and annexed eight hits and as many runs, the Giants finally got the conflagration under control and the recall sounded.

O'Toole Knocked Off Rubber.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—Philadelphia knocked O'Toole off the rubber in the fifth inning and also hammered Cole's delivery and won to-day's game from Pittsburgh by 17 to 4. Magee made three singles and a triple and received a pass in five times at bat. Titus scored five runs. Doolan drove in five runners and Knabe four runners. Score:

Columbia-Penn Game To-day.

The Penn.-Columbia baseball game to-day will be the afternoon feature of the Columbia commencement. The game will follow the Costume Parade of the Alumni on South Field, and is scheduled to start at 3:30. The Columbia team has been handicapped by lack of practice during the final examinations, but nevertheless, judging from their showing in Ithaca on Decoration Day, they are expected to put a strong team on the field.

Harvard Pitcher Out of Game.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 4.—Because of difficulties with the college office "Sam" Felton, the mainstay of Harvard's pitching force, will be out of the game for the rest of the season. Announcement to this effect was made to-night.

REDS WIN QUICKLY.

Shortest Game of Season at Brooklyn—Ragon Has One Bad Inning.

The Cincinnati Reds did not waste any time taking Brooklyn's measure at Washington Park yesterday afternoon, kalsomining the Superbas, 2 to 0, in the final game of the series in one hour and twenty minutes. This is the season's record for a full nine-inning game. The victory gave the Reds a clean sweep for the series and keeps the Superbas within easy flirting distance of last place.

Manager Hank O'Day trotted out Bert Humphries to close the series, and Bert had the Superbas hitting the ball into his fielders' hands all the time. He showed nothing that made the Dahlenites break their backs in a futile effort to connect, getting but one strikeout in the full nine innings, yet he was reached for only two clean hits. The other three credited to Brooklyn bore scratch labels. Behind Humphries the Reds played faultless ball, and the Superbas did not get a runner as far as third base during the game. Only three traveled as far as second.

The fast double plays—two by the home team and one by the visitors—and a great one-hand stop by Hummel, on which he threw Hoblitz out at first base, were the fielding gems. Mike Mitchell led the hitters with a long triple to right centre field and two singles. The triple started the Cincinnati rally in the second inning. Brooklyn's second double play came after the Reds had clogged the corners with one out in the sixth inning. The score:

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., June 4.—The Yankees lost to-day's game simply because they did not play ball. They had men on bases in every inning except the seventh, but they could cash but once. The Tigers reached home port fourteen times. Ray Fisher was not as bad as this count might indicate. Only a few really healthy wallops were made off his delivery. Three doubles are down in the box score, but two of them were flukes, due to several Yankees going after the same fly and all halting to avoid collision and allowing the ball to drop between them. One or two of the twelve singles were of the same nature.

The Tigers did not bat hard, as the fact that four-fifths of their safe ones were singles prove. They simply seemed to be lucky—in the last half of the game, at least.

For four innings the contest was a very pretty ball game, the rebels not yet having acquired their horseshoe. Works did not seem to have much except his ginger, but what he had was immune from heavy damage; in fact the Detroit's fielding was as opportune as their batting. The first ball hit gave Cobb a long run. A high west wind probably had considerable to do with the weird fielding throughout.

Zinn brought home the only run the visitors were allowed to appropriate. He opened the second period with a hesitating bounder to Bush, which the latter could not get to Gainer in time for the decision. Gardner sent a nice single to right, advancing Zinn to third. Chase bunted toward first and Gainer chose to make a sure out, instead of taking a chance on trying for a play at the plate.

In the third, with Sweeney and Fisher out, Daniels singled and died stealing. Cree singled in the fourth, but Zinn and Gardner poked to Delahanty. Stump was the man to single in the fifth.

In the eighth for the second time in the game they had two men on at once. Baumann, who had been sent out to exercise a bit around second when the game was safe, missed Shear's grounder, and Daniels sent a single to left. But Hartzell skied and forced Daniels.

Shears was sent to the mound for inspection after the game was irretrievably lost. He was hit only once in the seventh, but handed out two passes, one of which was cashed. In the eighth he retired the first two batters easily, by the Gardner to Chase route. Stump muffed a lift from Gainer's bat, the runner taking second. Moriarty doubled and Stanage walked again, whereupon Works got an idea that it was a good spot for his annual safe hit, and made it, scoring two more.

Lajoie's Tenth Anniversary.

CLEVELAND, June 4.—Cleveland won from Boston to-day, 5 to 1. Bedient was knocked out in the fourth, Cicotte replacing him with the bases filled and none out. Boston got nine hits off Gregg, but could not bunch them. Gregg striking out eleven. To-day, the tenth anniversary of Lajoie's becoming a member of the Cleveland team, was designated "Lajoie's Day." Lajoie was presented with a horseshoe containing 1,000 silver dollars, the gift of the fans, and $125 in gold, the offering of his fellow-players. Lajoie celebrated the occasion with a double, a single, and a sacrifice fly. Score:

FOREIGNERS PRAISE NEW YORK'S HARBOR

CALL IT GREATEST IN WORLD

Commissioner Tomkins Tells Them Its National Needs Are Not Understood or Promptly Met.

A trip of inspection around New York Harbor was made yesterday by the members and delegates to the Twelfth International Congress of Navigation, just closed at Philadelphia. They were received on board the ferryboat Bronx as guests of the city, under the direction of Commissioner Calvin Tomkins of the Department of Docks and Ferries. The visitors included more than 200 engineers and harbor experts with their families from forty-one different countries, many of whom time and again expressed their astonishment at "New York's wonderful water front," and declared that this is destined to be the "greatest port of the world."

The day was ideal for the trip, and it was a jolly and interested crowd that studied the methods of berthing the big boats here and the handling of freight. The ferryboat, which was decorated with the streamers of the convention delegates, was greeted everywhere with salutes from her sister craft.

The boat was scheduled to start from the Whitehall Terminal, at South Ferry, at 10 o'clock. It was intended that Mayor Gaynor before the departure should make a short address, welcoming the visitors. The Mayor was detained unavoidably, and after a half hour's wait the Bronx steamed down the Upper Bay to Staten Island and the Narrows, thence up the East River on the Manhattan side, returning to the Battery at 1 o'clock. Luncheon was served on the boat at the Battery, and at 1:30 o'clock the trip was resumed up the North River as far as Yonkers. Returning to the Battery at 4 o'clock the party disembarked.

The visitors were provided with a special guidebook, printed in English, French and German, with a map and statistics of the harbor. Commissioner Tomkins, with his secretary, James Harrington, and Deputy Commissioners Cresson and Barney, were on hand all the time to give additional information to the guests and to see that they enjoyed themselves. There was also a deputation of Aldermen.

Port's Needs Not Promptly Met.

As the ferryboat was returning down the East River to the Battery after the noon hour, Commissioner Tomkins assembled the guests on the upper saloon deck, where a platform had been constructed, called the meeting to order, and briefly addressed the visitors.

Among other things Mr. Tomkins pointed out that although in value over 37 per cent. of the imports of the country, 57 per cent. of the imports, and 90 per cent. of the ocean passenger service passes through New York, the railway terminals here are not properly co-ordinated with each other, and with the several parts of the port.

"The administration of the Port of New York is in effect a National function exercised for the benefit of the entire country, but conducted under the auspices of the city, which has not always and is not meeting its National responsibilities," said Mr. Tomkins.

The local needs are insistent and are understood. The National needs of the port are not property understood in the community and are not properly met.

Following Commissionr Tomkins, John Bensel, State Engineer of New York, and Representative Kinkead of New Jersey made brief addresses of welcome.

When asked to tell what were his impressions of New York Harbor after the inspection trip yesterday, Lieut. Col. William P. Anderson, Chief Engineer of the Department of Marine and Fisheries of Ottawa, Canada, said:

"I was particularly struck by the vast possibility for development of the water front, especially on the New Jersey side, between Perth Amboy and Jersey City. I can also see the necessity for increasing the sizes of the present piers to accommodate the increased shipping. Further, it is very evident that there should be some concerted or systematic plan for the development of New York's harbor facilities. I do not hesitate to state that the conditions along the East River are not what they should be. The natural conditions are such that this port is destined for a much greater development."

The Harbor as Foreigners See It.

Prof. George de Thierry of the Charlottenburg Technical School, Berlin, who has been connected with the harbor improvement at Bremen for seventeen years, said:

"I think there is hardly any other place in the world that has such wonderful harbor facilities as New York. Here you have everything. In Europe we have great difficulty in obtaining the land necessary for our harbor improvements and canals, consequently we develop them for all they are worth, especially in view of the keen competition among the European ports for supremacy.

"The great difference between this port and the ports of Europe is found in your lack of concentrated terminal facilities. On my trip to-day I have been impressed by the fact that practically no mechanical devices, like our cranes and elevators, are employed here. I do not understand why the railroads do not take some initiative in the development of the harbor facilities here. I think in the future America will ultimately come to the European method of co-operation between the railroads, allied industries, and the shipping interests. New York is destined to be the greatest port in the world."

George Lansberg, Director of the Teltow Canal, circling Berlin to relieve congested traffic, and the only canal in which boats are propelled by electric locomotives, said after the trip:

"Your harbor is superior in natural advantages to Hamburg. There we have to contend with many difficulties, while you are favored with all possible natural resources. We have to dredge for our depth, so our channels are artificial and consequently more expensive. And then we haven't the water front you have in New York."

J. F. Bubendey, Director of the harbor at Hamburg, was equally as unstinted in his praise of the fine water front here, and could hardly be prevailed upon to depart from this subject to discuss the possible effect of the Panama Canal on European trade.

"I think that the opening of the canal will have only a slight effect on our shipping," said Mr. Bubendey, "because of the fact that the Suez route to the Orient and Australia is much shorter. However, if the toll rates of the Panama Canal should be lower than those of the Suez Canal, shipping may be attracted from the latter route."

Capt. J. Matsumura, Japanese Naval Attaché at Paris, said that the natural resources here are so great that the development of the harbor must be the work of generations. He was equally impressed with the tall buildings and the Brooklyn Bridge.

About a hundred members of the party left the city last night on the invitation of August Belmont, for a trip of inspection of the Cape Cod Ship Canal. The other division of the party will start for West Point to-morrow morning at 8:30 o'clock from the West Forty-second Street pier, on the Albany of the Hudson River Day Line. From West Point they will proceed to Albany, where they will be joined by the first party. They will proceed to Syracuse, thence to Buffalo, where next Sunday they will board the steamship Northland for a trip to Cleveland, Detroit, through the Sault Ste. Marie Ship Canal to Milwaukee. Chicago will be visited before their return.

Willard in Reading Directorate.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, was to-day elected a Director of the Reading Railway. He takes the place of Oscar Murray, now Chairman of the Baltimore & Ohio Board.

RATIFY TRUST MERGER.

Stockholders of Both Columbia and Knickerbocker Take Action.

The merger of the Knickerbocker Trust Company with the Columbia Trust Company was ratified by the stockholders yesterday, and the new Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company begins business tomorrow. The Columbia goes into the combination with deposits of more than $21,000,000. The Knickerbocker's deposits are approximately $38,000,000. Both companies have been paying 12 per cent. annual dividends. Practically the entire official and clerical staffs of both companies will be retained, with Willard V. King of the Columbia Trust Company as President and Charles H. Keep, the President of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, Chairman of the board. A. G. Paine, Benjamin L. Allen, Howard Bayne, Francis Henderson, Julian M. Gerard, and William Turnbull will be the Vice Presidents; Langley W. Wiggin, Secretary; Harris A. Dunn, Treasurer, and George Earle Warren, Trust Officer. The Assistant Secretaries will be Fred G. Marston, J. E. Miller, C. A. Austin, and J. Sperry Kane. Orrin E. Judd will be Assistant Trust Officer.

The Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company will commence business with a capital and surplus of $9,000,000 and deposits of more than $53,000,000.

It will retain the present membership in the Clearing House of the Columbia Trust Company.

The feature of the Knickerbocker Trust's practice of allowing depositors to cash checks or make deposits at either the Fifth Avenue or Broadway offices will be continued by the new company. The Harlem and Bronx branches will remain under the management respectively of W. F. Lewis and Charles F. Minor.

ROCKEFELLER FIGHTS A TAX.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 4.—John D. Rockefeller's addition to his mansion on Pocantico Hills is worth only $100,000, according to a statement filed to-day by John J. Sinnot, Mr. Rockefeller's attorney, with the Board of Assessors, who sat to hear grievances against the assessment roll. The Assessors visited the mansion, went through the new bedrooms, climbed out on the roof, and made a thorough inspection. They thought an increase of $125,000 would be about right. Mr. Rockefeller preferred even figures, and asked the reduction.

Mr. Rockefeller has spent a million or more on his new mansion. After it was completed he found that he had no bedrooms to entertain his guests, so the house was practically rebuilt with ten additional bedrocms. The work is not yet completed. The Board of Assessors has not yet decided whether to grant the request.

GIVE GOETHALS ALL HEASKED

Canal Appropriation Based on Data Supplied by Him.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Representative Fitzgerald told the House to-day that the Panama Canal appropriation, though cut $16,780,000 in committee, was based on data supplied by Col. Goethals, in charge of the work.

"Col. Goethals was given practically everything for which he asked," said Chairman Fitzgerald.

It was predicted that the canal would be finished much sooner than the most sanguine expected.

ARCHBALD HEARING ENDS.

House Committee Will Meet To-day to Discuss Proper Action.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Investigation by the Judiciary Committee of the House into charges of improper conduct against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the Commerce Court was concluded to-day in so far as taking of testimony is concerned. As to what action will be taken the committee will discuss in executive session to-morrow.

Judge Archbald declined an opportunity to defend himself by going on the witness stand. The only defense offered was by his attorney, Col. Worthington, who read into the record the Judge's statement in court when he imposed the fines of $1,000 on the officials of the Wire Trust who were indicted.

Wrisley Brown, an attorney in the Department of Justice, was called as a witness to describe the disappearance of James R. Dainty of Scranton, whom he regarded as a material witness in the case, but who cannot be found. Mr. Brown said that agents of the Department of Justice and officials of the House were unable to ascertain Dainty's whereabouts. He acquitted Judge Archbald of any complicity in the disappearance.

ACCUSE PROMOTER OF FRAUD

Countess Said to Have Been Duped by Wintemute's Circulars.

William Wintemute, a promoter of 17 Battery Place, and former Judge Fayette B. Tiffany, Treasurer of the Gold Run Mining and Tunnel Company of Boulder, Col., were put on trial yesterday before Judge Hough and a jury in the Federal District Court on the charge of using the mails to defraud the Dowager Countess of Tankerville and hundreds of others in this country, England, and Scotland, by selling them the Gold Run stock. They were arrested in August, 1910, by Post Office Inspectors Kincaid, Reddy and Booth.

It is alleged that the defendants disposed of $1,300,000 of the stock and told their victims that the mine had produced ore of extraordinarily high values, and that it had shipped high grade ores of various values to the extent of $500,000. The Government charges that these statements were false.

According to the Government, Lady Tankerville and her friends, Miss Henrietta Elout of Tunbridge Wells, England, and the Misses Louise E. and Adele M. Elout of The Hague, who lost $43,000, were led into the speculation through the Rev. Herman Warszwiak, who some years ago represented that he was connected with the late Rev. Dr. John Hall, of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, was afterward expelled for immorality and later reinstated.

L. ROTHSCHILD'S ESTATE.

Ludwig Rothschild, head of the firm of Rothschild Brothers & Co., and President of the City Button Works, who died Dec. 17, 1910, left an estate valued at $362,509.20, according to the appraisal filed yesterday in the transfer tax office of the Surrogates by Deputy State Controller Wallace S. Fraser. Of this amount $459,492.80 was personalty. Deductions amounting to $96,983.60, of which $76,734.84 was in debts, reduce the total assets to the above figure. His realty amounted to $45,687.50, and consisted of a farm at Croton Lake and a farm at Hicksville, L. I.

The capital account which Mr. Rothschild carried with the firm of Rothschild Brothers & Co. amounted to $186,402.53. His good will in this company is valued at $47,666. This is deduced from the amount of the profits for the six years prior to his death.

Mr. Rothschild, as President of the City Button Works, at 468 West Broadway, held 988 shares, worth $49,400. His other securities consisted chiefly of stocks and bonds of banks and railroads.

After giving $500 each to the Mt. Sinai and German Hospitals, Montefiore Home, Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum Society, United Hebrew Charities, and the Society for Ethical Culture, Mr. Rothschild divides the remainder of his fortune among his family. Eugenia Rothschild, his wife, receives $14,201.56 and the remainder in life estate valued at $336,407, and his children, Helen R., and Elsa R. Heymann, Anna J., Leo H., and Walter L. Rothschild, receive $67,201.56 each.

Dress Goods Are Taxed as Tuckings —Trick Cigarette Box Duty.

Conflict in testimony between witnesses for William H. Stiner & Co. and for the Government resulted yesterday in a decision by the Board of United States General Appraisers adverse to the claims of the importers for lower duty on merchandise described as dress goods composed of cotton cloth containing loom-woven tuckings. The merchandise was classified by Collector Loeb as "tuckings" under Paragraph 349 of the Tariff act of 1909 and assessed at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem. It was claimed to be dutiable as "cotton cloth" under Paragraphs 315 to 320, inclusive.

Stiner & Co. contended that in trade and commerce the term "tuckings" is limited to the fabrics in which tucks are stitched after the cloth is woven. Two witnesses testified to this effect, and stated that the articles before the board are dealt in as artificial tuckings. On cross-examination one of the witnesses admitted that sometimes they are known as woven tuckings. Equally competent witnesses stated in behalf of the Government that the fabrics are always known as woven tuckings. They admitted, however, that the goods are known at times as imitations of the stitched tuckings. It further appeared that the fabrics in question are tucked in the process of weaving. In overruling the protest, Judge Cooper says that the official record in this case does not justify the tribunal in making a finding that the term "tuckings" has a meaning in trade different from its ordinary sense.

The board sustained a claim filed by A. C. Horn & Co. regarding the classification under the present Tariff law of an article invoiced as "anti-corrosive composition." The Appraiser of the Port returned the merchandise as a paint, duty being taken at the rate of 30 per cent. under Paragraph 52. While the importers made several claims for rates lower than those assessed, the chief one was for a tax of 20 per cent. ad valorem as a coal tar preparation. Last year the board, on an incomplete record, overruled the claims advanced by the protestants. A motion for a new trial was granted, with the result that the former decision is reversed and the claim sustained. The commodity is used as a waterproofing cover for structural steel to prevent it from rusting.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. failed to secure a reduction in the duty assessed by the customs authorities on so-called trick cigarette boxes. The boxes are so made that by a slight manipulation they will appear full or empty. The word "cigarettes" is stamped on the outside. Duty was exacted as smokers' articles at 60 per cent. The importers asked that the goods be deemed manufactures of metal calling for duty at only 45 per cent. Judge Hay says that the board is not convinced that the article, while unquestionably intended as a trick, would not be and is not intended to be used, as the stamp on it indicates, to hold cigarettes. The Collector's assessment is affirmed.

MORE RUGS THAN CARPETS.

Salesmen Report Tendencies in Buying for Fall Trade.

Orders received from carpet and rug salesmen out with Fall lines are fully up to the level of those of a year ago, according to a prominent dealer, and, judging from prospects, the business of the current season will equal and possibly exceed that of 1911. Business in the Coast States is said to be very good, a condition that is general on all lines of merchandise. The Middle West has not yet shown the strength expected, although orders are generally satisfactory, considering business conditions in that part of the country. Orders from the South, excepting from the regions directly or indirectly affected by the Mississippi floods, have been received in good number, and give promise of better business later on. Buying in New York State and Pennsylvania is reported to be very active, with New England a bit slow, but promising.

Nearly all orders show a tendency on the part of retailers to stock more heavily on rugs than on carpets. Piece goods are being used less each year throughout the country, their chief use, it is said, being for hall and stair coverings.

The linoleum and floor oil cloth situation is practically the same as that which prevails in carpets and rugs. Current sales are generally satisfactory, and prospects for good business during the remainder of the season are reported excellent.

Because of the large attendance at the opening of the season on May 6, spot buying in the local market is very light at present. Beginning next month, however, some active spot trading is expected to develop.

MISCELLANEOUS MARKETS.

The market for refined sugar was steady, with prices unchanged. Withdrawals were quite heavy, but new business was placed sparingly. The following quotations are net, less discount of 2 per cent. for cash; Crystal dominoes in cases of 50 two-pound cartons, $8.20; in cases of 24 five-pound cartons, $7.70; Eagle tablets, $6.50; cut loaf, $6; crushed, $5.90; Mold A, $5.55; cubes, Eagle five-pound bags, powdered, and Eagle confectioners' granulated, $5.45; extra XXX powdered, $5.35; coarse powdered, and Eagle coarse granulated, $5.30; fruit powdered and Eagle extra fine granulated, $5.20; Eagle, two, three and one-half, and five-pound cartons of fine granulated, $5.40; Eagle, two-pound bags, fine granulated, $5.50; three-and-one-half-pound bags, $5.45; five-pound bags, $5.40; ten-pound bags, $5.35; twenty-five and fifty-pound bags and standard granulated, $5.25; fine granulated and Diamond A, $5.20; confectioners' A and No. 1, $5.05; Nos. 2 to 12, $5@$4.90, in five-cent ranges; Nos. 13, 14, and 15, $4.45.

The local raw sugar market closed barely steady with prices 1-16 cent lower on sales of about 110,000 bags on the basis of $3.92 for 96-test centrifugal. More sugars were offered at that, but not taken. Closing prices were $3.92 for 96-test centrifugal, $3.42 for 89-test Muscovado, and $3.17 for 89-test molasses sugar.

The London market for beet sugar was ¾ to 2½d lower, with sellers at the quoted rates which follow: June, 11s, 7¼d; July, 11s, 8¼d, and August, 11s, 10½d. The early afternoon cable reported August at 11s, 10d.

Cables to Willett & Gray report the receipts for the week at six ports of Cuba to have been 28,000 tons, compared with 28,000 last week and 6,000 a year ago. Receipts, all ports, 40,000 tons against 50,000 and 18,000. Exports, 44,000 tons against 14,000 and 24,000. Stock available, 450,000 tons, against 457,000 last week and 252,000 last year. Centrals grinding, 61 against 81 and 14.

MOLASSES AND SYRUPS.—The market for molasses and syrups was quiet, owing to the season, but the tone was generally steady. Prices were unchanged. Quotations: New Orleans, centrifugal, common, 14@15c; fair, 16@19c; good, 20@26c; prime, 26@32c; New Orleans, open kettle, 35@50c; syrups, common, 9@12c; medium, 14@17c; fancy, 25@28c.

RICE.—The rice market was steady, with a good seasonable demand at full but unchanged prices. Dan Talmage's Sons Company telegraphs Louisiana crop movement at New Orleans to date as follows: Receipts, rough, 1,122,265 sacks, against 1,208,714 last year. Sales, cleaned, 1,140,840 pockets, compared with 1,149,543 in 1911. Quotations: Screenings, 2¾@3¾c; fair, 4½@4¾c; ordinary, 4¾@4¾c; good ordinary, 4¾@4¾c; prime, 5¼@5¾c; choice, 5½@6c; head, Japan, 4¼@4¾c; Patna, 6@6¼c.

FLOUR AND MEAL.—The flour market was inactive, but prices were firm. The better grades were quoted at a slightly higher level, owing to the firmness in wheat. The following are prices quoted (in wood) on the New York Produce Exchange: Spring patents, $5.70@$6; Winter straights, $5.30@$5.45; Winter patents, $5.50@$5.70; Spring clears, $4.75@$5; extra No. 1 Winter, $4.40@$4.60; extra No. 2 Winter, $4.20@$4.30; Kansas straights, $5.20@$5.35; fancy Spring patents, $6.85@$7.15. RYE FLOUR.—Quiet. Quoted: Fair to good, $4.90@$5.10; choice to fancy, $5.15@$5.30. CORN-MEAL—Quiet. Quoted: Kiln dried, $4.25. BAG-MEAL—Quiet. Quoted: Fine white and yellow, $1.75@$1.80; coarse, $1.70@$1.75. FEED—Western easy, city steady. Quoted: Western Spring, $25.60; standard milling, $27.60; flour, middling, $31.10; Red Dog, $31.85; city bran, $25.60, bulk; $27, sacks; middling, $27@$32.50; Red Dog, $30.50; hominy, shop, $29@$30, bulk; $30.20@$31.20, sacks; oilmeal, $37.50@$38.

OILS.—Linseed oil showed no change. Refined petroleum was steady at recent prices. Quotations: Standard white petroleum, barrels, New York and Philadelphia, $8.60; bulk, $5; standard white, cases, New York, $10.60; water white, barrels, New York and Philadelphia, $9.60; bulk, $6; water white, cases, New York and Philadelphia, $11.50. Linseed Oil—American seed, city, raw, 78@79c; out of town, raw, 77@78c; Calcutta, raw, 85c.

NAVAL STORES.—The market for spirits turpentine was quiet and steady, because of the holiday in Savannah. Rosin was a trifle higher, but tar was unchanged. Quotations: Spirits turpentine, machine barrels, 47½c. Tar, $5.50. Resin, common to good, strained, $6.65@$6.70; B, $7; D, $7.30; E, $7.50; F, $7.80; G, $7.85; H, $7.90; I, $7.95; K, $8.15; M, $8.25; N, $8.30; WG, $8.35, and WW, $8.40.

MANY DRY GOODS SALES.

Warm and Fair Weather Brings Best Business in Weeks.

Yesterday's trading in the New York dry goods markets was very satisfactory. Following the third successive warm and fair Monday since the end of the cold and rainy spell of April and early May, important local buyers of seasonable lines were generally active and placed some excellent orders. The smaller merchants of New York and vicinity were also active in the principal distributing centres, though their purchases were as a rule individually small.

Several important out-of-town buyers were also seen in the market, and, taken as a whole, the sales of the day are said to have been the best made in several weeks. Mail orders were generally lighter than those of the day before, but continued to reflect returning confidence on the part of retailers throughout the country.

The belief expressed several weeks ago in certain quarters of the trade that stocks of seasonable merchandise in the hands of retailers were low, and that sunshine and warmth were all that was needed to produce a good repeat business, has apparently been justified. According to reports from the larger jobbing houses, business has been gradually increasing of late, and is now almost at normal levels. It is now generally believed that with a continuance of favorable weather the total season's business will equal that of a year ago.

Trading in wash goods was very active yesterday. Orders were well proportioned as a rule, and the demand was spread over many lines. Both local and out-of-town buyers were active, and one of the largest factors in the market reported the best day's business in weeks. White goods and dress linens were normally active, as were lines of seasonable underwear and hosiery. Trading in silks and ribbons generally showed improvement, and laces also responded to the demand of retailers and the cutting-up trade. Embroideries continued to move slowly.

COTTON'S CONDITION 78.9.

First Report of the Season Based on Estimate of May 25.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The Department of Agriculture in its first cotton condition report of the season, estimates the condition on May 25 of the growing cotton crop to be 78.9 per cent. of normal. Condition by States follows:

Virginia, 89; North Carolina, 87; South Carolina, 88; Georgia, 74; Florida, 75; Alabama, 74; Mississippi, 72; Louisiana, 69; Texas, 86; Arkansas, 78; Tennessee, 74; Missouri, 74; Oklahoma, 78; California, 96.

EXPLAINING TOBACCO RISE.

Expectations Are That Big Extra Dividends Are to be Declared.

The recent advance in the shares of the American Tobacco Company, which has now carried them about 50 points above the low of the year, seems to be due to expectations that one or more extra dividends may be expected in the near future. The last dividend was at the rate of only 2½ per cent., and for the three preceding quarters the dividend was passed altogether, because of the disintegration proceedings, which called for the expediture of a large amount of cash.

Before the dissolution decree was entered it had been customary for the company to declare a regular quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent., and a special dividend of 7½ per cent., making the total distribution 40 per cent. a year.

Under the decree the American Tobacco Company still holds stock of the British-American Tobacco Company, the Imperial Tobacco Company, and the McAndrews & Forbes Company, and bonds of the United Cigar Stores Company, aggregating in value about $16,000,000. These it may either distribute among its stockholders, as was done with other securities, or may sell. They will probably be sold, and although three years are allowed in which to dispose of them it is expected that they will be sold before long.

Including these securities the surplus amounts to about $40,000,000, and as the common stock issue is also about $40,000,000 a dividend of anything up to 100 per cent. would be possible. It is thought to be more likely, however, that the proceeds of the sale of the securities will be distributed in extra dividends with the specific understanding that they are not the result of earnings, but in reality a final step in the disintegration process. There has also been talk of a stock dividend of 50 per cent., increasing the capital from $40,000,000 to $60,000,000.

In connection with the sale of the Imperial Tobacco stock a peculiar situation exists. The stock of this company was issued with a proviso that it could not be sold to outsiders until after it had been offered to the company at a price to be fixed from time to time by the Directors. This price is at the rate of 2 for 1, or £2 a share. The dividends amount to 25 per cent. a year, so that the stock is worth a good deal more than the price at which it can be sold. The condition was originally imposed, it is said, to prevent the American interests from getting control of this British adjunct.

Those best informed say that no conclusion has yet been reached on any of these possibilities, and that no dividends, either cash or stock, are likely to be declared before the regular dividend in September, which will be declared early in August.

NO BIG DEMAND FOR COAL

But Supply Received at Tidewater Is Only 60 Per Cent. of Normal.

Reviewing current conditions in the New York coal market, The Coal Trade Journal says:

The amount of anthracite received at tidewater last week was probably not over 60 per cent. of normal. The operators may have done a little better in shipments to other territory, but it is apparent that the month of June began with production on only about a two-thirds basis. There were holiday interruptions last week, but labor shortage was also a factor, and it is not quite clear whether a considerable number of men are absenting themselves from a desire to prolong their vacation or whether enough left the region in April and May to produce a scarcity of miners. This week's developments will throw some light on the situation.

Meantime demand is below expectations. This does not mean that current output is not finding a ready sale, for shippers have all the orders they can fill in the next fortnight or so with coal in such limited supply. But the demand lacks the snap and vim which would be in evidence were the retail trade as hungry for tonnage as has sometimes been the case when the mines started up after a shut-down of even shorter duration. There are several contributing causes for this seeming apathy. The demand upon the dealers is light, domestic consumption is on a Summer basis, and a good many people managed to get in a few tons extra last Spring.

Soft coal is still very much in the dumps as regards the spot market. There are several thousand cars standing at South Amboy and other bituminous ports that no one appears to want excepting at a price which means a loss to the owners. The cleaning-up process is being carried out gradually, and there appears to be less tonnage of certain grades pressing on the market than was the case a week ago.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Cable advices from London received in the New York crude rubber market yesterday say that the entire offering at the regular fortnightly auction sale, 170 tons plantation, was disposed of, the best prices reaching $1.16½@$1.18¼ per pound. The inactivity of buyers in the local market yesterday forced the price of up-river fine down to $1.06½.

G. A. Stafford & Co., 55 Worth Street, have completed a full line of their new zephyr ginghams, and will put them on the market about June 15. The line has been pronounced by experienced dry goods men to rank among the finest ginghams made on this side of the Atlantic and equal in every respect to the finest merchandise produced by the famous Scottish mills. The goods will retail at 15 cents a yard.

The monument to the late Col. Charles F. Homer, who for thirteen years was Treasurer of the Silk Association of America, has been completed and set up in Mount Hope Cemetery. An invitation has been extended to members of the association to visit the cemetery on June 8 to view the monument, and a number of prominent manufacturers have expressed their intention of accepting. Trains leave the 155th Street and Sixth Avenue station of the Putnam Division of the New York Central at 2:28 and 3:40 P. M.

G. W. Middleton, for several years American representative of Zellweger & Co., raw silk, has joined the sales force of the Villa-Stearns Company, 487 Broadway. H. Dieckmann, resident partner of F. Strahler & Co. of Japan, has withdrawn from the company and will shortly leave for Europe.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

is a factor of large importance in the safe and profitable investment of money. It is a check against impulsive decision, and a restraint against hasty action, so often the excuse for ill-advised investment.

Included among our current bond offerings are several issues yielding from 5% to 6%, which make a strong appeal to well-informed investors desiring to increase the average earning power of their money, or wishing to add to their holdings of conservative investments.

A PERFECT RECORD

We were among the pioneers many years ago in offering equipment trusts secured by lien on rolling stock of steam railroads.

In recent years we have specialized in another form of equipment trust—new to Eastern investors—although more than $30,000,000 of such securities have heretofore been sold without any loss. This is a perfect record.

We offer these securities to yield 6%, and they are safe. Circulars on application.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

A little more active than on Monday, yesterday's market showed a greater degree of firmness than was displayed on any day since the upturn from the decline which culminated last Friday. Some of the rise could easily enough be traced to covering of some of the commitments which had been entered into during the downward movement of last week, but yesterday's improvement was not confined to the stocks which were subjected to the heaviest selling of some days ago. The tone of the market was unquestionably firm but this was due not so much to any very large demand but rather to an absence of pressure upon prices and to the natural effect of the readjustment following last week's break, to which activities on the short side of the market contributed to a large extent.

The crop situation held an important part in the day's record owing to the publication of the first Government cotton report of the season and of the weekly weather report which described conditions this last week as even more favorable than those of the preceding week. A relatively small section of the crop growing country needs rain but over by far the greater part of both the grain and cotton areas the weather this last week was decidedly favorable. In forming any estimate of the prospects for this season's cotton crop from this report of the Department of Agriculture, it is necessary to bear in mind that the figures made public yesterday refer to a date ten days past and furthermore, that cotton planting is late this year. Both of these facts taken in conjunction with the very favorable weather which has since prevailed, furnish solid ground for the view that the real condition of the cotton crop at the present time is probably substantially better than yesterday's condition figures of 78.9 would show. As it stands, this is 8.9 points under the condition of the corresponding date a year ago and 2.6 points under the ten-year average for the June report. Another fact which somewhat lessens the importance of this first cotton report of the season is that the acreage estimate usually published by the Department at this time, has been put over until next month owing to the law recently passed by Congress requiring an acreage report in July. This necessarily postpones any definite information regarding the extent to which this year's cotton acreage has been reduced compared with last year. It has been all but forgotten that at the worst of the decline in cotton prices last Fall a movement was started to cut down the acreage of cotton by 25 per cent. Since then the price of the staple has advanced to a figure which has done away entirely with the talk of cutting down the supply in order to bring about a higher price and it is fair to assume that practically all of such reduction as may be shown when the figures become available a month hence, will be due to the lateness of the season and to the damage by the floods in the Mississippi Valley, and not to any voluntary curtailment of the acreage devoted to cotton. The favorable weather of the last two weeks and the progress which it has brought to the growing crops is of really great importances, for it meant much that the crops have entered upon the Summer under conditions which are so promising for the outcome of the year's farming.

The syndicate which has been in process of organization for the underwriting of the Interborough Rapid Transit issue of $70,000,000 five per cent. bonds was closed yesterday. The subscriptions, it is understood, fully covered the issue which in amount is unique in the record of corporation financing in this market. Formal allotment of the bonds to the syndicate members will probably be made to-day.

Hearings in the investigation into the alleged "money trust" are to begin in this city to-morrow. It would appear from the Washington dispatches of the last few days that the committee has set out to prove through these hearings a good deal more than it will find capable of demonstration, for the pictures which have been drawn in the statements issued by members of the committee of the methods of the Clearing House and Stock Exchange are in some details, at least, clearly at variance with the common knowledge of the financial community regarding the affairs of these two institutions. Of investigations there is apparently to be no end, but there was a note of relief in the dispatches which reached the financial district yesterday from Washington telling of the purpose of the Judiciary Committee of the House, which plans to investigate the "Beef Trust," to look quietly into the information already available in the Governmental bureaus before resorting to the more spectacular, even if less business-like, means of fishing expeditions conducted at public hearings.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2½@3 per cent., with the last loan at 2½ per cent. Most of the day's loans were made at 2⅞ per cent.

Time money rates, 3 per cent. for sixty days, 3@3¼ per cent. for ninety days, 3¼@3½ per cent. for four months, 3½@3⅝ per cent. for five and six months, and 3⅝@4 per cent. for seven months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 3½@3¾ per cent. for prime four to six months maturity.

New York Clearing House statement: Exchanges, $465,519,677; balances, $27,578,927; Sub-Treasury debit balance, $1,425,553.

The local banks have lost $2,651,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 2 13-16@2⅞ per cent. for short bills and 2 13-16 per cent. for three months' bills; Paris, 2 15-16 per cent., and Berlin, 4 per cent. The money rates were 2½ per cent. in London, and 4 per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 25f 24c., and the Berlin check rate on London 20 marks 45½ pfennigs.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Strikes Accumulating.

The railroads did not end all of their labor troubles when they agreed to arbitrate the differences between the engineers and the managers. Before the representatives of the union and the railroads had met for their first discussion of the composition of the arbitration committee the firemen on all of the roads concerned served notice of their willingness to receive more money and shorter hours. The date fixed for the two arbitrators to name the other five to serve with them has long since passed, but the matter has not yet been taken out of their hands, in the hope that Messrs. Morrissey and Willard would be able to come to an understanding. In the meantime 150,000 shopmen employed on the lines west of Chicago have been casting their ballots in favor of a strike unless their demands are acceded to. Some of the most influential railroad men and financiers believe that these cumulative demands will result in convincing the Inter-State Commerce Commission of the absolute need of an advance in freight rates.

Financing the B. R. T.

It was reported yesterday that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company will adopt an entirely new plan for meeting its construction expenses in connection with the new subway work. Instead of authorizing a large bond issue to provide the $100,000,000 or so which the company will require in the next few years, and selling the bonds to investors, a plan being favorably considered by the bankers who are to underwrite the company's financing calls for a sale of six-year 5 per cent. notes. These would be secured by bonds of the company under whose name the new lines are to be built. If these notes could be disposed of at par or better, the B. R. T. would be obtaining its money more cheaply than the Interborough, which put out a 4½ per cent. issue at some figure under 96. The note issue would only be resorted to on the theory that by the date of maturity the new lines will be completed, making it possible to sell long term bonds based on the tangible security of lines equipped and in operation.

Mr. Taft and the "Interests."

In his latest campaign statement Mr. Roosevelt says that recent events have cast "an illuminating light on Mr. Taft's relations both to the bosses in politics and special interests in the business world." Wall Street is generally credited with being the lair of the special interests, and if Mr. Taft has found favor there, those most prominent in the affairs of Wall Street have succeeded admirably in concealing their good will toward him.

Copper Unchecked.

Yesterday the advance of ¼ cent a pound in copper, which some sellers had asked on Monday, was general, and copper was established at 17¼ cents a pound as firmly, apparently, as it has been at any of its stages on the upward course, which began at around 12 cents a pound last Fall. Monday's advance, which followed the sharp upturn in London, was helped by the sold-out condition of most of the big agencies which are now doing the bulk of their business for August and September delivery, and by the feeling, which is general in the trade, that the forthcoming copper statistics of the position of the metal in this country will show a decrease in stocks. Some estimates of this decrease put it at between 10,000,000 and 20,000,000 pounds.

Crop Talk Optimistic.

All of the important cereals but Winter wheat are still a long way from harvest, but growing conditions are coming closer now to a true reflection of final results. News has been optimistic from observers who have recently gone over the agricultural districts. Yesterday the Street heard from Chicago of practical action on belief in a bountiful harvest. The International Harvester Company, through its distributing and credit agencies, has exceptional facilities for keeping in touch with crop prospects. President McCormick of this company, the dispatch from Chicago told, has said that his crop advices are very favorable and that in consequence the company is building 10,000 more reapers than had been counted on at the beginning of the season as the required outturn.

"Outlook Promising."—Brown.

President Brown of the New York Central has just returned from the Middle West, where, he said, he found business conditions good in a general way and the outlook promising. His observation of crop conditions, he said, had been chiefly in Iowa, and there he found them "about as good as they could be." He said he had never seen Winter wheat better in that part of the country, and that there had been plenty of moisture, which would benefit the small grain and hay crops.

Alton Has Poor Month.

The Chicago & Alton did a gross business of $56,000 in April, or $103,000 less than for that month of 1911. In spite of the smaller amount of business handled, the operating expenses for the month increased $50,000, so that the road's net earnings after taxes amounted to but $178,000 as against the $338,000 earned last year. For the ten months ending with April the Alton's balance for interest charges was $328,000 smaller than it was in the year before, when earnings were far from satisfactory.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday a generally steady tone was shown, with trading active in spots. Copper was unchanged for near-by deliveries, but slightly higher in the asking price for late months. Tin was down about ⅛c in the bid and ¼c in the asking price, 90 tons of spot selling at 45.75; 10 tons of June at 45.85. Lead was down 5 points in the asking price. Spelter was unchanged, 50,000 pounds of St. Louis September delivery selling at 6.37½, 50,000 pounds at 6.40, 600,000 pounds at 6.42½, and 650,000 pounds at 6.45.

The closing bid and asked prices follow:

	—Tuesday.—		—Monday.—
Standard copper—	Bid.	Asked.	Bid.	Asked.
Spot	16.50	17.00	16.50	17.00

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Active Trading in British Columbia Copper on Rumors of Dividend Resumption.

Interest in the Curb mining list was transferred from Braden Copper yesterday to British Columbia. In advance of the official announcement that the Executive Committee had recommended the resumption of dividends, the stock was active and strong all day; but in the late trading the issue assumed an importance it has not held in the market in many months. The day's range in price was between 5¼ and 5⅝ and the close was at the high figure after transactions reported at 8,000 shares. In the industrial list, United Cigar Stores was the stock in which interest centred and it moved sharply upward. From the opening at 231, the advance was carried to 241. The close was within 1 point of the top after sales of 3,000 shares. Price movements in the balance of the list were irregular, but narrow. The bond department developed more activity than in recent stagnant markets, but trading was limited to three issues.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Strength showed in the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange throughout the day. While many of the room traders were not in sympathy with an advance their offerings, together with commission house profit taking, were well absorbed. Interest was taken in the "Money Trust" inquiry, scheduled to start in this city to-morrow, but it failed to exert influence as a bearish factor. The hard coalers were leaders in the upward movement early in the day, although they reacted somewhat in the afternoon. Both Reading and Lehigh Valley were bought upon the possibility that the United States Supreme Court might hand down its long expected decision in the anthracite trust case before adjourning next Monday for the Summer recess.

Publicity Regarding Public Utilities Securities

We want every investor in the securities of the PUBLIC UTILITY companies that we have developed, control and operate to become acquainted promptly with every circumstance affecting the value of those securities.

An investor cannot have too much information regarding his investments, and it must be accurate and down to date. This we are always glad to supply. By doing so we help to safeguard your interests.

Besides we devote all our experience and ability as bankers and engineers to the conservation and improvement of the properties that are security for the issues we sell.

OPEN MONEY INQUIRY HERE TO-MORROW

Pujo Committee Changes Plan to be Within Reach of Records and Witnesses.

FRYER OF BUFFALO DEFIANT

Still Determined Not to Respond to Inquiries—Jefferson Levy Opposes Investigation as Unnecessary.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The Money Trust investigating sub-committee of the Banking and Currency Committee of the House to-day changed its mind about having its proposed inquiry into the New York Clearing House and Stock Exchange begin in Washington next Thursday.

It was decided that the start shall be made in New York City at 11 o'clock on Thursday morning in Room 328 of the Custom House Building. This decision was reached after a conference between members of the committee with Major E. H. Farrar of New Orleans of counsel for the investigating committee. In explanation of the change Chairman Pujo made this statement:

"It was brought to the attention of the committee by Mr. Farrar that one of the most important witnesses that would be called was infirm in health and had been advised by his physician that it would be impossible for him to go to Washington to give his testimony. In view of this fact, and the further advantages that would result by an examination in New York, because of the facility of witnesses who might be called in referring to books and submitting papers that might be called for to the committee, it was decided to have the hearings in New York.

"The committee does not intend to go from place to place to take testimony, but will require that witnesses appear in Washington when they are summoned."

In an interview, in reply to criticism made some weeks ago of his opposition to the investigation of the alleged Money Trust, Representative Jefferson Levy says that he is opposed to the investigation because he thinks it is fundamentally wrong as well as inopportune and ill-advised.

"I have been criticised," said Mr. Levy, "as representing J. P. Morgan and his interests, but as a matter of fact I only know Mr. Morgan slightly and I am informed by the best of authority that he contributed to the support of my opponent in the campaign for Congress.

"One of the main reasons for my opposing this measure is that Congress has been in session the entire year and no single remedial proposition has been reported in either branch of Congress to rectify any existing banking wrongs.

"That would be the natural and logical method of procedure, and I cannot help thinking that this so-called investigation has been instigated for political and campaign reasons.

"The leaders of the investigation of the so-called Money Trust have persistently allowed it to be inferred that the banking interests of New York were holding back information when the contrary is the situation. I urged the Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee to request the presence of many of the officials of financial institutions of New York City, as they were anxious and willing to testify. Almost any of these officials would come without the necessity of a subpoena, and were anxious to do all in their power to aid the committee toward legislating for the purpose of giving us a sound financial monetary bill, but the trouble has been that the Banking Committee for a long time after obtaining authority delayed making any move whatsoever. Eventually the committee required the services of lawyers for the purpose of asking questions which could have been done easily without the aid of counsel as the banking officials were and are perfectly willing to give advice and information freely that is not betraying the confidence of their customers.

"Instead of considering remedial legislation for the purpose of correcting the evils of our financial system, they have been agitating the question as to whether there was a Money Trust. There has never been a scintilla or item of evidence that there is such a trust. In fact, the distinguished gentleman who has been selected by the Banking Committee as counsel, Samuel Untermyer, stated in an address in the City of New York, Dec. 27, 1911, 'There is not a definite union or aggregation of the money powers in the financial world, there certainly is none that can be said to be in violation of existing law.'

"It may be that advantage could be taken by unscrupulous financiers of our present banking laws to combine, and thereby restrict credit, but this I will say has never been done to my knowledge by the banking community of the City of New York. The New York bankers have been patriotic in their actions and it has been proven conclusively that in 1907 the New York bankers headed by Mr. Morgan, were the means of staying the financial panic that threatened our country."

BANKS IGNORE QUESTIONS.

Only Three Institutions Downtown Have Answered Pujo.

A canvass of the leading downtown banks yesterday brought out the fact that none of them has supplied the Pujo committee, appointed by the House to investigate the so-called Money Trust, with the data relating to its operations asked for two months ago.

When the eight large sheets of the questions were received by the banks, an accompanying note requested that the information be filled in and returned to the committee by the middle of May. Many of the banks took the matter up with their counsel and were advised to ignore the request on the ground that the National Banking laws forbade them to make the details of their business public.

A few days ago Congressman Pujo sent a peremptory letter asking the banks to tell him what they proposed to do in the matter.

It was learned yesterday that so far only three institutions downtown have supplied the data requested. Two of these are trust companies and the third a State bank. At least two of the largest National banks in Wall Street have sent polite but none the less firm refusals to disclose matters which they regard as their customers' private affairs. Mr. Pujo was told that the Controller of the Currency had most of the information requested, and he was referred to that official for an answer to his questions.

Most of the bankers, however, have not flatly refused to return the desired information, but have ignored both requests from Mr. Pujo. Some of them are willing to comply if the question of their right to do so is cleared up.

An officer of one of the largest Wall Street banks said yesterday on his return from a meeting of bankers from various parts of the country, that few of the men he had talked with felt that the House committee was within its rights in asking for the names of borrowers with the amount of their loans, the nature of the collateral and other information usually regarded as strictly confidential. A few of the bankers had sent in their blanks, but without itemizing the information as requested.

PRESIDENT FRYER DEFIANT.

Determined Not to Reply to Inquiries by Pujo Committee.

BUFFALO, June 4.—Robert L. Fryer, president of the Fidelity Trust Company of this city, to-day reiterated his determination not to respond to the inquiries of the House committee investigating the so-called Money Trust, and defied Chairman Pujo of the committee to compel him to disclose the details of the company's business.

In reply to Mr. Pujo's assertion that should a State corporation own a majority of the stock of a National banking association, Congress, through his committee, should have the right to ascertain such facts and submit them to the House, President Fryer states that such facts can be ascertained from the records in the office of the Controller of the Currency at Washington or from the stock books of the National bank, or from its officers.

"Why shun the lawful way and substitute the unlawful way for the ascertainment of the facts?" asked Mr. Fryer in answer to Mr. Pujo's statement that his committee has the right to investigate should a State bank or trust company acquire control of a corporation engaged in inter-State or foreign commerce. The committee, according to Mr. Fryer, should go to these corporations for the information, instead of seeking it from State banking corporations, "over which it clearly has no such power."

After calling attention to the fact that under the banking laws of the State of New York no trust company can hold more than 10 per cent. of the capital stock of any other moneyed corporation, "a fact of which Mr. Pujo seems ignorant," President Fryer concludes: "I await with interest the further action of the committee."

WILLIAM SHERER SUMMONED.

Manager of Clearing House to Testify in Money Trust Inquiry.

William Sherer, for many years manager of the New York Clearing House, will be one of the first witnesses examined when the Pujo Committee begins its "Money Trust" hearings in this city tomorrow. The hearings will be held in Room 328 of the Custom House.

Mr. Sherer has been subpoenaed to bring with him records of the Clearing House Association, showing who the members are, when they were elected and when and why any members have dropped out. Records bearing on the issue of Clearing House loan certificates have been also called for. These were first issued in the panic of 1893 for the settlement of balances between banks and were resorted to also in 1907. The effect of their use has been to release a large amount of cash, which would otherwise be needed for these settlements, for the use of the banks and their customers.

Just how long the hearings in this city will be continued has not yet been determined.

POST OFFICE TO CHECK EVIL.

ROCHESTER, June 4.—Approximately 50 per cent. of the persons calling for mail at general delivery windows of city post offices do so for illicit purposes, and a large proportion of them give fictitious names. The general delivery privilege is becoming an instrument for the furthering of immorality which the postmasters of New York should check to the fullest possible degree.

James H. Callanan, President of the New York State Association of Postmasters, so declared this afternoon in his annual address to the association, now in convention here. Mr. Callanan said in part:

"The time has surely come when postmasters should make every effort to eliminate the calls of persons who use this convenience for illicit purposes particularly; also, of those who have permanent addresses, and who should avail themselves of the facilities which are provided at great expense through the free delivery.

"We all know that the general delivery privileges are greatly abused, and from the moral standpoint alone it is our duty as postmasters to check to the fullest degree, even if we cannot prevent entirely, young men and women, and even adults, from using the general delivery to advance immorality.

"Approximately 50 per cent. of the callers at the average general delivery window, especially in our cities, do so for illicit purposes, a large proportion of this number operating under fictitious names. If care is taken, this abuse can be detected, and when the facts are ascertained, clearly and unquestionably, no such person, under any circumstances, should be permitted the use of the general delivery.

"Two decided improvements, which this association has discussed and urged, have been authorized during the last six months. The department expects the cooperation of postmasters in the way of suggestion and recommendation wherein advance can be made. I refer to the present certifications of three names to masters in the appointment of rural carriers and the authority given us to suspend clerks and carriers at once and without going through a lot of red tape and delay."

CALLS EXECUTOR TO ACCOUNT

An action to compel Willis Bruce Dowd, the executor of the estate of Mrs. Charles E. Quincy, to render an accounting of what he did with a check for $11,511.81 which C. E. Quincy, Jr., gave him, was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court.

Quincy, who is 23 years old, has been in the charged of Dowd since his mother's death, in 1900. Several months ago, while in this city, Dowd persuaded Quincy to give him a check in order, as he said, that he might make some investments for the young man. Since then, according to the complaint, there has been no trace of the money.

FAILURES IN MAY.

Dun's report of failures in May disagrees radically with the statistics issued on Monday. While Bradstreet's agreed with Dun's in making the number of casualties unusually high for the month, that agency reported small liabilities. Dun's says:

While in number of defaults and in amount of liabilities the statement of failures reported to R. G. Dun & Co. shows the usual decrease in the month of May, as compared with the preceding months of the current year, yet both in number and in amount the statement for May shows an increase over the corresponding month in the preceding two years; in fact, the amount of the May liabilities, $15,277,462, exceeds that of any preceding May, with the exception of 1900, when the amount was $23,771,151. In 1911 the total was $13,469,789, and in 1910 $9,590,867. The total number of defaults was 1,204, comparing with 1,006 in 1911 and 885 in 1910, and has been exceeded only in 1908, when the total was 1,379. Compared with the preceding months of this year, however, the May statement, as already indicated, shows an improvement. The number of defaults, 1,204, compares with 1,279 in April and with 1,807 in January, while the total liabilities, $15,277,462, compare with $15,874,727 in April, $21,763,870 in March, $21,477,923 in February, and $19,770,-630 in January. There was an unusually large number of failures for less than $100,000 last month, especially in the manufacturing class.

Weather in Cotton and Grain States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The following is the forecast for Wednesday and Thursday as issued by the United States Weather Bureau for the cotton and grain States:

North Carolina and South Carolina—Showers Wednesday. Thursday, fair; light, variable winds.

Eastern Texas—Generally fair Wednesday and Thursday; warmer Wednesday in eastern and southern portions; light east to south winds.

Western Texas and Utah—Generally fair Wednesday and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Oklahoma—Fair and warmer Wednesday and Thursday.

Arkansas—Fair Wednesday and Thursday.

Tennessee and Kentucky—Fair Wednesday and Thursday; warmer Thursday.

Iowa, Missouri, North and South Dakota, and Nebraska—Fair and warmer Thursday and Friday.

Kansas—Fair and warmer Wednesday. Thursday fair.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Prices Generally Firm, Particularly in Copper Stocks, but Markets Are Sluggish.

Trading was lifeless in Baltimore, but prices were steady. Present dullness is attributed in a measure to recent heavy subscriptions to new securities.

Coppers were strong in Boston. Ahmeek rose 10 points to 345 and Old Dominion 2½ to 59¼, the highest in three years. In 1910 it sold as low as 29½. Tamarack advanced 3, Osceola 2, Indiana ¾, Lake and Calumet & Arizona 1¼ each, Butte & Superior 2¾ to 42¼. The last named issue contributed over 5,000 shares to morning dealings. Amalgamated reached 84, Isle Royale 29⅝, Chino 30⅞, Arizona Commercial 5⅝, and Mohawk 65. Island Creek Coal rose to 55.

An advance of several points in Sears-Roebuck was the feature of the Chicago Exchange, the gain extending to 4 points before realizing removed much of the advance. The close came at 191¾. American Can preferred also was strong with a gain of more than a point early in the day, closing at 117, compared with 115⅞ Monday. There were smaller gains in a number of other shares.

In Philadelphia market observers were cheered by the appearance of the long absent investor. This showed itself in absorption of small lots of Pennsylvania Railroad, United Traction, United Gas Improvement and minor industrials that are on the dividend list. Purchases, it is true, were small, but they were in striking contrast to the recent neglect. There was, on the other hand, a dearth of interest in what are classed as speculative stocks. There was a fair activity in United States Steel, and on small lots Pennsylvania Steel preferred rose ¼ point.

$10,000,000 GAS MERGER.

Public Service Commission Approves Consolidation by Iroquois Company.

ALBANY, June 4.—Approval has been given by the Public Service Commission to the merger of various natural gas companies in and about Buffalo by the Iroquois Natural Gas Company. This corporation is also authorized to increase its capital stock from $100,000 to $10,000,000, and to issue $8,027,505 of such stock for the purpose of acquiring the plants, properties, rights, and franchises of the following companies:

The Buffalo Natural Gas Fuel Company, $1,750,000; Salamanca Gas Company, $70,000; New Angola Gas Company, $65,000; Clear Creek Oil and Gas Company, $13,000; Springville Natural Gas Company, $115,000; alter W. Richardson, $425,000, and United Natural Gas Company, $5,580,505. The latter company is a foreign corporation doing business in Oil City, Penn., and the transfer affects, so far as this authorization is concerned, the property, systems, and franchises within this State.

The various companies are also authorized to take and hold the capital stock of the Iroquois Natural Gas Company to the amounts paid for their properties.

The company has stipulated that this proceeding was not instituted for the purpose of raising rates or that it would affect any application to reduce present rates.

SMELTERS INCOME UP.

The annual report of the International Smelting Refining Company for the year ended Dec. 31 shows total income of $3,539,204, compared with $2,636,932 in the previous year. Of this, tolls for smelting and sales brought in $3,442,259, compared with $2,512,108 in 1910, while interest and discounts increased from $60,682 to $85,-819.

Manufacturing and operating costs increased from $1,328,954 to $2,081,915. General expenses and taxes decreased from $79,426 to $63,023, and depreciation charges from $226,359 to $175,229. These items made total deductions of $2,320,166 compared with $1,634,741 in the previous year, and left net income at $1,219,037, compared with $1,002,191.

After the payment of $800,000 in dividends, the same as in the previous year, there remained a surplus of $419,037, which brought the profit and loss surplus up to $1,556,941.

THE WEEK'S EXPORTS.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Grains to Higher Levels; Cotton Wavers; Pork Products Down.

The grain markets all showed further advance. Wheat was influenced by further Kansas and Nebraska damage reports. Corn and oats were affected by reports of good cash demand and decreasing stocks, while there were some complaints regarding the oats crop promise. Provisions were dull and easier. Cotton was firm during most of the day. The Government report of 78.9 met general ideas. Weather conditions are good, but not depressing to prices. Cottonseed oil reacts under speculative liquidation. Coffee rallies slightly after small initial declines.

WHEAT.

Continuation of unfavorable advices from Kansas and Nebraska resulted in a further advance in wheat prices early. The balance of the day trading was quiet, the market slowly settling back, although closing with a net gain of ⅛c to ¼c. The fact that crop reporters traveling in the Southwest continue to send in very sensational reports makes the trade extremely nervous over possibility of damage. While these reports are coming in from day to day the advices received through milling and flour interests are comparatively favorable, and tend to discredit the sensational advices. The fear, however, that there may be serious damage in the Southwest unless the drought is broken very promptly brings quick advances in the market and extremely ready response to buying orders. Northwestern advices show no change and are of the most hopeful kind. The weather conditions in the Northwest were excellent again, and generally through the Winter wheat States, while it was cooler in Kansas. The weekly weather bulletin was quite favorable, speaking in an encouraging manner of the general crop development for the week. Reports of rather large sales of Spring wheat in the Northwest for milling purposes had some influence. Foreign markets were rather irregular. At Liverpool the market was somewhat unsettled by the reported liquidation of a prominent house, owing it was said to large outstanding cost, insurance, and freight contracts. Cash wheat was nominal, with No. 2 red quoted at $1.23½, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.27½; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.22; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.15½.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—The corn market developed further decided strength and closed at 1c to 1¼c advance. The rise brought out heavy covering of shorts, due to steadily decreasing stocks of contract corn, reports of large sales of cash corn, and reports of light offerings from the country. The weather news was favorable, and generally speaking the crop reports were of an encouraging character. The situation is very satisfactory as a whole, and

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

An important commercial improvement is projected in the near future for a plot fronting 141.6 feet on the south side of Fifteenth Street, between Irving Place and Third Avenue, taking in the old Nillson Hall plot at 130 to 134 East Fifteenth Street, recently purchased by a syndicate which has later acquired the three old dwellings at 136, 138, and 140 East Fifteenth Street, the respective sellers being Jacob Spielberg, Ellen S. Hoetzer, and Babette Reis. To the west the plot adjoins the Consolidated Gas Company's new building. Title to the Nillson Hall plot has just been taken from the Academy of Music Corporation. This sale, as well as the later ones, were made through John N. Golding.

STATE OF NEW YORK CONSERVATION COMMISSION.
PUBLIC NOTICE.
Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to Section 522, Article 9, of the Conservation Law, the Conservation Commission will meet at the County Court House in the Village of Catskill on the 11th day of June, 1912, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, for the purpose of hearing all persons, water works or municipal corporations or other civil divisions of the State of New York that may be affected by the execution of the plans of the City of New York for securing a new and additional supply of water, plans for which have been filed with the New York State Conservation Commission, at its office, 23 Washington Avenue, Albany, N. Y., where the same are open for public inspection; and for the purpose of determining whether said plans are justified by public necessity, whether they provide for the proper and safe construction of all work connected therewith, whether they provide for the proper protection of the supply and watershed from contamination or provide for the proper filtration of such additional supply, and whether the same are just and equitable to the other municipalities and civil divisions of the State of New York and to the inhabitants thereof affected thereby, and whether said plans make fair and equitable provisions for the determination and payment of any and all damages to persons and property, both direct and indirect, which will result from the execution thereof.
The execution of such plans will affect lands situate in the Counties of Greene, Ulster, Delaware, and Schoharie, and will also affect the flow of water in streams flowing in or through the Counties of Albany, Columbia, Delaware, Dutchess, Greene, Montgomery, Orange, Putnam, Rensselaer, Rockland, Saratoga, Schenectady, Schoharie, Ulster, and Westchester, the riparian rights on said streams, and also the water rights of said streams.
All persons, water works, or municipal corporations and other civil divisions of the State of New York, who have objection to the execution of said plans, in order to be heard thereon, must file such objections thereto in writing in the office of the Conservation Commission, in the City of Albany, N. Y., on or before the 10th day of June, 1912. Every objection so filed must particularly specify the grounds thereof.
No person, water works or municipal corporation or local authority can be heard in opposition thereto except on objections so filed.

BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT.
Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, held May 2, 1912, the following petition was received:
TO THE BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK:
Gentlemen:
PAUL T. BRADY and WILLARD V. KING, Receivers of The South Shore Traction Company, and the Manhattan and Jamaica Railway Company, respectfully petition as follows:
I. That the contract between The City of New York and the South Shore Traction Company, dated December 31st, 1909, and the agreement between the said parties dated December 24th, 1909, both modifying a previous contract between said parties dated May 20th, 1909, be declared null and void and of no effect.
II. That the contract dated May 20th, 1909, be amended first, so that the route covered by said franchise shall be from the Manhattan Terminal of the Queensboro Bridge, over and across said Bridge and its approaches and terminals, to Jackson Avenue in the Borough of Queens, thence crossing Jackson Avenue by way of the new diagonal street and viaduct over the Sunnyside Yards and by way of Thomson Avenue and Hoffman Boulevard (Queens Boulevard) to Fulton Street or Brooklyn and Jamaica Turnpike, thence by way of Fulton Street, Rose Avenue, Campion Avenue, Carll Street and Archer place and private property or an extension of the present Carll Street and Archer Place, to a point in private property in line with the present Guilford Street, if the same were extended, thence over a route covered by certain streets as located and described in a map commonly known as the "Jamaica Map" adopted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York, January 11th, 1912, to-wit: Sutphin Road to Lambertville Avenue, Lambertville Avenue to Spangler Street; Spangler Street to Brinkerhoff Avenue; Brinkerhoff Avenue to Smith Street; Smith Street to Ulster Street; Ulster Street to Westchester Avenue or the present Central Avenue; Westchester Avenue or the present Central Avenue to the point where Westchester Avenue or the present Central Avenue intersects the boundary line between the City of New York and the County of Nassau, said streets as described in said map consisting at the present time of private property, Guilford Street, private property, Jay Street, private property, Rockaway Turnpike, Pacific Street, private property, Vine Street, private property, State Street, Morris Place, private property, Woodland Avenue, private property, and Central Avenue; and that the company shall be allowed until the 31st day of December to complete and put in operation that portion of the line from the Manhattan Terminal of the Queensboro Bridge to the vicinity of the new Long Island Railroad station in the Village of Jamaica, and until December 31st, 1913, for that portion of the line from the vicinity of the new Long Island Railroad station in Jamaica to the intersection of Lambertville Avenue with Spangler Street; and until December 31st, 1914, for the balance of the line; and so that various changes shall be made in regard to certain of the payments required to be made to the City by the company; and so that certain changes shall be made in regard to the conditions governing the future operation of the road; and so that the existing contract shall be modified in all ways necessary to conform to the changes above mentioned, and in such other respects as the Board deems fit and proper.
AND IT IS FURTHER ASKED that when said contract is modified, that your Honorable Board consent to the assignment and sale of said contract to the Manhattan and Jamaica Railway Company, a corporation organized for the express purpose of constructing and placing in operation a railroad along the line described in the above route.
Dated this 2nd day of May, 1912.
Respectfully submitted,
PAUL T. BRADY, WILLARD V. KING, Receivers of South Shore Traction Company.
MANHATTAN AND JAMAICA RAILWAY COMPANY.
By ALBERT H. FLINT, President.
HAROLD B. WEAVER, Secretary.
And at the meeting of May 16, 1912, the following resolutions were adopted:
WHEREAS, the foregoing petition from the Receivers South Shore Traction Company, Manhattan, and Jamaica Railway Company, dated May 2, 1912, was presented to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at a meeting held May 2, 1912;
RESOLVED, That in pursuance of law this board sets Thursday, the 6th day of June, 1912, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, and Room 16, in the City Hall, Borough of Manhattan, as the time and place when and where such petition shall be first considered, and a public hearing be had thereon, at which citizens shall be entitled to appear and be heard; and be it further
RESOLVED, That the Secretary is directed to cause such petition and these resolutions to be published for at least fourteen (14) days in two daily newspapers in the City of New York, to be designated by the Mayor, and for at least ten (10) days in the "City Record" immediately prior to such date of public hearing. The expense of such publication to be borne by the petitioner;
RESOLVED, That this board does not recognize any rights of the South Shore Traction Company, and the fixing of such hearing is without prejudice in the premises.
The Times and Morning Telegraph designated.
New York, May 16, 1912.
JOSEPH HAAG, Secretary.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

A request was made recently to the Municipal Civil Service Commission that, in the rating in the examination for Civil Service Examiner, (engineering,) the Examiners be instructed to consider not only the technical adequacy of answers, but the possibilities of replies within the time allowance for the technical paper. It was stated in this request that, as the technical paper determines the possibility of making an eligible list, it should have the special consideration suggested, and be taken in conjunction with the experience of candidates. Chief Examiner Ireland, to whom this request was referred, recommended that directions be issued to the Examiners working on these papers to act in accordance with the request. The commission has approved Mr. Ireland's recommendation.

The commission has also approved the following:

Report of Mr. Woodward relative to discrepancies in the dates of birth appearing in the papers of Joseph Quin, appointed an Inspector of Sewer Construction in the Bureau of Sewers, Brooklyn. Eligibility not affected.

Report of Mr. Ireland to the effect that a proper man for the position of Forester in the Borough of Queens can be obtained from the list of aboriculturist. Certification of list, when established, approved.

Request of Martin J. Burton of 223 East Twelfth Street for permission to correct his answer for patrolman.

Discrepancies, it is said, were discovered in the date of birth appearing in the papers of Joseph Lublinger, appointer a temporary clerk in the Department of Taxes and Assessments, from the list of clerk, second grade. Proof submitted shows him to have been under the minimum age of 18 years at the time he filed application. The commission has revoked the certification of his name.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination at the New York Custom House on June 26 and 27 for the position of assistant to Inspector of Ordnance, Ordnance Department at Large, War Department, at a salary of $1,200 a year. The duties include the inspection of raw material and finished ordnance mechanisms at the works of contractors under the supervision of an officer of the Ordnance Department, and employes are required to change locations as the needs for inspection at different plants require, traveling expenses of the employes and a certain amount of freight transportation being furnished by the Government. The examination will consist of the following subjects, weighted as indicated: Arithmetic, 15; penmanship, 5; letter writing, 10; drawing, 15; practical questions, 25; training, experience, and fitness, 30. The minimum age is 20 years on the date of the examination.

EDUCATION NOTES.

Miss Katherine R. Brady, Principal of Public School 151, Knickerbocker Avenue and Halsey Street, Brooklyn, will receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts at Columbia University today.

The Brooklyn Teachers' Association has established a $200 scholarship at the Adelphi Academy in that borough.

The Committee on Elementary Schools of the Board of Education has asked the Board of Superintendents to devise a plan whereby the younger pupils in the public schools may receive instruction in cooking and shopwork. It has also asked the Board of Superintendents to report as to the advisability of having more day probationary schools.

City Superintendent Maxwell disapproves of the withholding by a Principal from a teacher of inferior rating. Dr. Maxwell says that it is the teacher's right to be informed of such a marking, and that any Principal who fails to notify a teacher acts against instructions which have been sent to every Principal from the City Superintendent's office.

The orchestra of the High School of Commerce, Manhattan, will play at the strawberry festival in St. Mary's Church, Brooklyn, this evening.

The free exhibition of industrial art by the public school children will begin this morning at the National Arts Club under the joint auspices of the School Art League and the Art Department of the high schools.

The teachers of Public School 126, Meserole Avenue and Lorimer Street, Brooklyn, will have a dance and sociable this afternoon in the school building.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Unseasonably warm weather continues over the Pacific Slope and warmer weather is in progress over the Rocky Mountain regions.

The weather is cooler over the Northern States east of the Rockies and noomal temperatures prevail in the South Atlantic and Gulf States.

The disturbance that was over the great lakes is now passing down the St. Lawrence Valley, attended by scattered rains in the Middle Atlantic States, New England, and around the great lakes.

Generally fair weather continues throughout the West.

Indications are that the weather will continue generally fair throughout the country Wednesday and Thursday.

Temperatures will be somewhat lower Wednesday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England, while warmer weather will overspread the great central valleys and the Northwest Wednesday and Thursday.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European ports will have moderate west winds and fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, New England, and Eastern Pennsylvania — Fair and somewhat cooler Wednesday; Thursday fair; moderate west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	64	67	4 P. M.	74	79
6 A. M.	64	65	6 P. M.	71	77
9 A. M.	71	74	9 P. M.	63	73
12 M.	74	77	12 P. M.	61	70

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 72; for the corresponding date last year it was 65; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 66.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 71; at 8 P. M. it was 76. Maximum temperature, 80 degrees at 1:10 P. M.; minimum, 65 degrees at 5 A. M. Humidity, 68 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 55 per cent. at 8 P. M.

HAVEMEYER CONTROL SHOWN IN LETTERS

HAD SYSTEM OF REBATING

Colorado Wholesale Grocers' Association Members Got a 20 Per Cent. Refund That Stifled Competition.

To bring out the close interest which the late H. O. Havemeyer took in the affairs of the Great Western Sugar Company, Assistant District Attorney Knapp put in yesterday at the hearing of the Government suit against the Sugar Trust in the Federal Building before Special Examiner Wilson B. Brice a number of letters from the President of the American Sugar Refining Company to Chester S. Morey, President of the Great Western Sugar Company, who was again on the stand. This was in answer to Mr. Morey's statement that Mr. Havemeyer seldom interfered with the doings of the Great Western concern.

In November, 1904, Mr. Havemeyer wrote advising selling as much sugar as possible. In December, 1905, he called attention to the expected opening of the Crockett refinery at San Francisco, and advised the sale of the Great Western sugars before then. In August, 1906, Mr. Havemeyer discussed the ten-cent differential below the price of cane sugar granted to beet sugar, and in August, 1907, he asked Mr. Morey to consider following the practice of the American Sugar Refining Company and allowing the best of his customers 5 cents a hundred on their purchases.

In March, 1904, Mr. Havemeyer outlined his scheme for the consolidation of six sugar companies as the Northern Colorado Sugar Company, with $6,000,000 cumulative preferred stock and $3,000,000 common, and a lengthy correspondence dealing with that matter was introduced. Finally the consolidation was effected under the title of the Great Western Sugar Company of New Jersey.

A letter from C. Boettcher, a partner of Mr. Morey, was also read, in which the circumstances attending the erection of a plant at Sheridan, Wyo., by the Colorado Springs Company was discussed. In that letter Mr. Boettcher stated that the promoters had admitted to him that the common stock was only water.

"The promoters of the scheme," he wrote, "put in very little money of their own, as they seem to have the faculty of having their people put up the money, and they are getting the benefit of the common stock for themselves."

The question of rebates was then taken up, and Mr. Morey said that at one time sugar was sold to the members of the Colorado Wholesale Grocers' Association at 20 per cent. above former rates, and then, when they had disposed of it at cost rates, the 20 per cent. was refunded to them.

"Why did you enter into this arrangement?" Mr. Knapp asked.

"The brokers and the grocers asked for it, and we compiled," said Mr Morey, but would not admit that the company refused to sell to grocers who did not belong to the association. This brought from Mr. Knapp letters relating to the McCord firm, who complained that the Great Western would not fill its orders, but the witness replied that they were not really wholesale grocers at all.

The hearing will continue this morning.

FIGHTING GANGSTERS NOW USE DYNAMITE

GAMING PLACES BLOWN UP

Dynamite was used yesterday by gangsters as a climax, the police say, to the gang feud which resulted in the shooting of "Jack" Zelig, the gangster, on Monday as he was leaving the Criminal Court Building and a general free-for-all fight in the back room of the Elizabeth Street Station. Thse fighters were among those rounded up by the police after a gang battle in Chinatown.

Three bombs were exploded within fifteen minutes early yesterday morning.

The connecting link between the shooting of Zelig and that back room fight is the big gray automobile in which, the police say, the gangsters expected to get away from the scene of Monday's shooting. Another link is the fact that every place where a bomb was set off has a police record.

The first explosion came at 12:30 A. M. Policeman Rando was almost in front of 85 Fourth Avenue when there came a sound as if a big gun had gone off, and the breaking of glass and a flash of flame from the front of the building. The policeman was knocked down, and so were two women who were walking just in front of him. The ground floor of the building is occupied by the Unique Cigar Store, and when Policeman Rando regained his feet he found the front broken in, the bomb having evidently been dropped close to the front door, which is a few feet below the street level. Other policemen came running up, and the tenants of the nearby buildings began to reach the street in great excitement.

Grace Church Parish House is at 92 Fourth Avenue, and near by is the rectory of St. Ann's Church. From these a number of clergymen hurried to the scene. One of the first to arrive was Father Sullivan, police chaplain. The police and clergymen were quieting the people and detectives were inspecting the place when from up Fourth Avenue came the sound of another explosion. This time it was a bomb which had been placed at the door of the painter's supply store of Staloff & Co., at 103 Fourth Avenue. The police started up the street on a run, and were joined by the reserves from the Mercer Street Station.

There they found the same scene. The street was littered with broken glass and the front of the place wrecked. The police had trouble keeping the crowd back while the investigation went on. The Municipal Press occupied two floors in the building, and the company suffered some damage.

A Third Explosion.

When things were quieting down there came another explosion, and this time it was a bomb set in front of the Central Café and Vienna Restaurant, at 6 St. Mark's Place, and the Alexander Printing Company, which has the basement. All the windows in the lower part of the house were blown out. The crowd pressed so close about the building that for a time work by the police was almost impossible. It was found that about $200 damage had been done.

Later the police heard of the coming of the gray automobile just before the first explosion, and the suspicious actions of three men said to have been in the car. They became convinced that these men had distributed the bombs, and that the explosions of the early morning were another chapter in the fight between the rival gangs.

There is one floor in 85 Fourth Avenue which is now supposed to be vacant, of which the police are suspicious. It was there that a very ingeniously protected gambling establishment has been located. It has been raided a number of times, and the police still have their eyes upon it. It was at 103 Fourth Avenue that the then Deputy Commissioner Flynn last year raided what he said was one of the best-protected establishments for gaming he had ever seen. It was not only guarded by icebox doors, but further protected by sliding steel bulkheads. There were gratings over the skylights and a "get away door" into another building operated by an electric push button. It has been raided four times.

The place in St. Mark's Place also figures in the list of places raided by the police. It was only recently that the Strong Arm Squad paid a visit there. As a result three men were fined $50 each in Special Sessions and two more are now awaiting trial. According to the police, the place at 103 Fourth Avenue is owned by Samuel Paul. The man who, the police say, is interested in the gaming place in St. Mark's Place is generally known as "Dollar John," and that is the only way the police speak of him. The name of the man interested in 85 Fourth Avenue, the police say, is Levy.

The police theory connecting the gang fights and the bomb outrages is that the latter are intended to warn certain men, who, though not actual fighters, have been, so the police say, interested in the feuds. Paul and Levy are friends, and they are also said to be friendly with the gang in which Zelig is a leader. It is believed that Paul was responsible for the getting of bail for Zelig when he was held on Monday in connection with the fight in Chinatown. "Dollar John," the police say, is friendly with the Jack Sirocco crowd.

The fact that Zelig obtained bail so promptly came not only as a surprise to his enemies but as a disappointment. The theory is that the bomb warning was planned and carried out by the men in the gray automobile. "Dollar John," according to a police report, has been forced to leave the St. Mark's Place house, and the bomb-throwing yesterday included his place, on the theory, the police say, that it could not injure him and would throw off suspicion.

Gangsters Discharged.

The three men arrested after the shooting were not arraigned in court yesterday, Seidel and Baker were arrested for the Chinatown shooting. They were charged with attempted assault and disorderly conduct. Several policemen testified as to the fighting, but there was no direct evidence to show that the two men had taken part in it, and Magistrate Kernochan discharged them. The disorderly conduct charges were also dismissed. Charles Murphy and James Martello, who were taken after the gun fight, were arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct in the Elizabeth Street Station. The evidence against them was not convincing, and they were discharged.

The police anticipated trouble when the men were brought into court, but there was none. The police say that Zelig has a police record which began in 1901. He was under $2,000 bail to answer a charge of carrying concealed weapons when the last fight landed him in court. About three weeks ago he was arrested by two of Lieut. Becker's men in a café at 76 Second Avenue. At that time he said, when told he was under arrest:

"It's a good thing you saw me first, for I would have filled you both with lead."

The only other time in which dynamite figured in a gang fight was when, a little more than a year ago, two places in West 116th Street were dynamited. It came as the climax of a row among Harlem gamblers. It was said to be an attempt to drive an "undesirable" gambler out of Harlem.

Dinner to New Service Commissioner.

Chairman William R. Willcox of the Public Service Commission entertained at dinner last night at the Union League Club his recently appointed colleague George V. S. Williams. Among the other guests invited were Commissioners Maltbie, Eustis and Cram and Mayor Gaynor, President Mitchel and Borough Presidents McAneny, Steers, Miller, Connolly and Cromwell. Controller Prendergast was unable to be present on account of illness.

WOMEN TRAP A FUGITIVE.

Surround Burglary Suspect and Hold Him Till Policeman Comes.

Half the women in the Lockwood Street section of Astoria joined in a burglar hunt yesterday afternoon which resulted in a capture. Mrs. Anna Boyce, of 450 Lockwood Street, surprised a man trying to break into the apartments of Mrs. Emma Truetmann on the second floor of the apartment house. The neighborhood has been the scene of many robberies of late. Mrs. Boyce called for volunteers and many women responded.

The man skipped out of the building and started down Lockwood Street toward Grand Avenue. Finding himself hard pressed he dodged into the open gate at 747 Fourth Avenue, and ran up the front steps expecting to find the front door open and hoping to make his escape out of the rear. But the door was locked and he found himself caught in a trap and the women held him at bay until the arrival of a policeman. He said he was Thomas Sullivan of Brooklyn and was held by Magistrate Leach under $2,000 bail.

MAN DIES OF GLANDERS.

Second Reported Within Week in Brooklyn—Many Horses Affected.

For the second time within a week the death of a man from glanders has been reported to the health authorities in Brooklyn. William Collier, a horse dealer of 15 Brooklyn Avenue, died in St. John's Hospital on Sunday after an illness there of twenty-one days. He had a large business in buying and selling horses.

It was said that there is an epidemic of glanders among horses in Brooklyn and that the Health Department has been busy trying to keep it from getting worse. Many horses have been shot in the past year when it was found that they had the disease.

Dorothy Arnold's Mother Returns.

Mrs. Francis R. Arnold, mother of Miss Dorothy Arnold, the long missing girl, arrived from Europe on the Red Star liner Vaderland yesterday morning. She was met by her husband and by her son John W. Arnold. None of them cared to be interviewed. Mrs. Arnold was in deep mourning.

IN NEW JERSEY.

NEWARK.—About 170 laborers employed by the Public Service Gas Company went on strike yesterday in Newark. They were organized by Simon Moss, a representative of the Industrial Workers of the World. The laborers walked out after a formal ultimatum was issued to the gas company. The officials of the gas company say that they will meet with its employes and listen to their demand, but they will not recognize representatives of the I. W. W.

HACKENSACK.—An automobile owned and driven by Charles Cerwinck of the Bogota Decorating Company was struck by a Susquehanna passenger train early yesterday morning at the Bogota crossing, and the automobile was smashed to splinters. Mr. Cerwinck narrowly escaped death as he leaped out of the auto just before it was struck.

DOVER.—The Rev. Paul T. Carew, rector of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Dover, was twenty-five years a priest yesterday. A formal celebration of the anniversary will be held by his parishioners on June 30, which will be the anniversary of his beginning active work. Father Carew was born in Jersey City in 1863. He attended Fordham College and from there went to the Seminary of the Immaculate Conception at Seton Hall College, South Orange. He was ordanied by the late Bishop Wigger.

PHILLIPSBURG.—Mgr. P. F. Connolly, rector of St. Philip and St. James's Catholic Church here, has completed his forty-first years as a priest. He has been ill for some time, and therefore unequal to a formal celebration of the event. Father Connolly has been in Phillipsburg fifteen years. Before taking the Phillipsburg parish he spent twenty-one years in Bordentown and five years at Lambertville.

MONTCLAIR.—There is a strong probability that the old tunnel started under the mountain between here and Verona many years ago will be used as a route for a new railroad which is planned to make connection with the Morristown & Erie Railroad, and thus afford a direct route from this town to Morristown. Richard W. McEwan, President of the Morristown & Erie, is interested in the enterprise, and he declares that he intends to secure options on the right of way needed at once. The survey for the new road is in progress.

TRENTON.—Showing a decrease of 219 from the previous month and 316 less than the corresponding month last year, there were 3,125 deaths in New Jersey during the month ended May 10. Deaths from measles show a noticable increase.

TRENTON.—Quashing of the quo warranto proceedings brought in the name of the Attorney General to determine which of the rival sets of officers of the New Jersey Dental Society is entitled to manage the organization's affairs was refused by the Supreme Court yesterday. This is a point won for the insurgent or younger element and means that the action will not be dropped.

TRENTON.—After a two-years contest Mrs. Bertha Nutt of Chestnut Avenue and her three-year-old daughter were reunited yesterday. About three years ago Mrs. Nutt's husband left her and the baby and a year later the child was stolen from the doorstep of her home. At last Mrs. Nutt located her mother-in-law in Staunton, West Va., and the little girl was found with her. Then ensued a battle in the courts.

TRENTON.—The nine members of the Supreme Court will sit "en blanc" Thursday, June 13, to hear argument for determining the status of the Pierce Grade Crossing bill. The court will sit this way for the first time since the noted "rump" Senate case in 1894.

TRENTON.—Joseph Matalano, a fourteen-year-old Italian, is at McKinley Hospital with a half dozen stiletto wounds in his body, while the police are searching for his assailant. The young man accusses Salvatore Augustina, who has disappeared and who is declared to be a black hander. Augustina is said to be wanted in several other cities for stabbing affairs.

WILSON CALLS IDLERS ATLANTIC CITY'S BANE

Governor Tells Physicians That the Surgeon Is Needed in National Politics.

HE'S HAD 23 SPECIALISTS

But They Were No More Needed, He Thinks, Than the One-Family Physician of Other Days.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 4.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson, in referring to the graft disclosures made in this city by Detective William J. Burns, said in his address to the American Medical Association to-day that the lack of occupation of the people who come here was the root of Atlantic City evils.

"The problem of Atlantic City lies in the fact that it is the refuge of the idle," he declared.

The statement caused a ripple of excitement in the packed theatre, in which nearly 3,000 physicians and their wives were crowded, but it was not qualified in any way.

"People come to Atlantic City on all sorts of errands," the Governor continued, "and we know that most of the errands are not serious. You are doubly welcome at this particular time, therefore, because you come here not as idlers, but as serious students with both a mission and an object."

The Governor was greeted with cheers from the standing audience which continued for at least five minutes before he was allowed to open his address. Handkerchiefs were waved, and the women, who made up fully onethird of the audience, joined in the cheering and stamping.

Gov. Wilson was asked after the meeting to explain in what way the continual presence of thousands of wealthy visitors had been a factor in the desire for "easy money" which appears to be at the bottom of the grafting.

"I said just what I meant to say," he replied, "and we will leave it there."

The physicians applauded his references to National politics in his address, which followed the speech of Mayor Bacharach's, who referred to the present troubles of the city. Gov. Wilson compared the present state of the Nation to that of a patient in need of a serious operation, and his ready handling of surgical terms created gales of laughter.

"In modern social life, as in surgery," he said, "there is a great deal to be cut out. In politics at this particular time we might say that the entry of a man or a party into the race requires a prognosis. Then comes the platform on which we are to stand, which, I am sure, can be likened to the diagnosis. Then comes the most delicate part of the operation. I don't mind telling you that it is much easier in your cases to get at the truth than it is for the man who wanders forth seeking in an inquiry of social problems to find the truth.

"The country is at this time showing evidences of what we might call violent hysteria. We don't seem able to stop it. But if you will go home and assist in calming the National patient we may yet find the cure. You can at least give the statesmen the greatest amount of help. You can't do the National patient any good by staying in New Jersey, but if you will do your part when you go to your homes all over the country you will become a powerful factor in the cure.

"At the present time it is my belief that the campaign of passion and prejudice is most dangerous. I might, in fact, liken the methods now being used to those of quacks and charlatans who kill more people than they relieve.

"I regret the departure of the old family physician with the trend of modern change. In looking over my record I discover that I have employed twenty-three different specialists for attendance on my children, while my father managed to raise the family with only one doctor and appeared to be successful."

Two More Suits Against Rosenheimer.

Edward T. Rosenheimer of Pelham, whose automobile ran down a horse-drawn vehicle in August, 1910, killing Miss Grace Hough and injuring Anna McCabe and George Fedden, was made defendant in two suits for damages yesterday. Fedden is suing for $20,000, and Miss McCabe demands $30,000 damages. Rosenheimer was tried and acquitted of a charge of murder following the accident, and only last week a Supreme Court jury returned a verdict that he should pay $7,500 to Miss Hough's father for causing her death.

SUNDAY SENTENCE VALID.

Court of Appeals Settles Test Brought by Brooklyn Prisoner.

ALBANY, June 4.—The right of a Magistrate of the City of New York to pass sentence on Sunday was upheld to-day by the Court of Appeals in the case of Stella Burke against Franx Fox, Warden of the Workhouse.

The woman, who was arrested, tried, convicted, and sentenced on Sunday for disorderly conduct, sued out a writ of habeas corpus questioning the Magistrate's right to try and convict her on Sunday. The lower courts held that she was legally tried and convicted, and the Court of Appeals affirms their findings.

GUILD IN NEWSBOYS' UNION.

Ambassador Receives Gold Button from Boston Lads Before Sailing.

Curtis Guild, Ambassador to Russia, who sailed for Europe yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Groose, received two Boston newsboys just before his departure. They presented him with a gold button signifying that the Ambassador had been elected to membership in the Newsboys' Union, No. 9077, of Boston.

"I feel honored to be deemed worthy of your friendship," he said, "as one who has believed, and does believe, as far as humanly possible, in equality of opportunity for every American boy."

Mr. Guild is returning to St. Petersburg after a two weeks' business visit to the United States.
